Measure Destined to Meet Bitter Opposition When Finance Committee Takes It Up.

McADOO ASKS TO BE HEARD

Will Voice His Opposition to Profits Tax Scheme When He Returns to Capital.

SMOOT DENOUNCES BILL

Utah Senator Characterizes It as Mass of Absurdities—Not Likely to Pass Before Election.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Senate is getting ready for a fight on the $8,182,492,000 War Revenue bill, in the form in which it was reported to the House yesterday by the Ways and Means Committee. Indications pointed today to a bitter clash in the Senate Finance Committee on the alternative war profits tax system as embodied in the measure.

Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, heard from Secretary McAdoo today just before he left Washington for New England, the Secretary expressing a desire to appear, some time soon, before the committee to explain reasons why he objects to some features of the bill as drawn by the House Committee. The Secretary is opposed to the present shape of the alternative war and excess profits tax schedule.

The Senate Finance Committee is not of one mind as to the efficacy of the House Committee's war profits tax scheme, but some Democratic members incline to the belief that it can easily be adjusted so as to meet objections. Other members, notably on the Republican side, maintain that the dual excess profits tax system as evolved by the House would be altogether unjust in its effect and that to attempt to apply it would end disastrously for many industrial corporations engaged in war work.

Senator Smoot of Utah characterized the excess profits tax in the House bill today as a "gigantic absurdity."

"The alternative system is a piece of bungling absurdity," said the Utah Senator. "The whole bill only adds to the grotesque absurdity of the War Revenue bill of last year. It, for the most part, stupidly follows the lines of that measure.

"This bill of Mr. Kitchin's seems to have been designed so as to reach the fewest number of voters possible. It seeks to apply a tax on corporations that must end in driving some of them out of business. It would tax all the profits they could make.

"The differential tax of 18 per cent. is an imposition in the first place. After that other taxes would be piled on so that many corporations would have nothing left. To attempt to put this bill into force would be to put a prohibitive tax on the productivity of American war industry."

Senator Smoot favored a flat tax rate upon war profits, instead of excess profits and expressed the view that a tax of that character would be supported by the majority of Republican Senators. The Utah Senator pointed out that the House bill failed to impose consumption taxes. Mr. Smoot advocates a tax of 1 per cent. on all articles purchased at anything over $1 in price, to be levied as a consumption tax. This, he calculates, would yield $1,000,000,000.

The Senate Committee will open its hearings on Friday. Senator Simmons said today he had no idea how long the hearings would continue, but believed they could be completed within ten days at the outside. The prospective objectors to the bill, he said, so far as he could see, would be confined largely to those affected by the war profits and excess profits tax. These, he said, appeared not to object to the principle of a high tax, but wanted the inequalities cleared up.

While there is a feeling that the Senate might be able to finish with the bill shortly after Oct. 1, Republican Senators today expressed the belief that it would not be done in that time and that, in reality, no final disposition of the measure was contemplated by the Democrats in Congress until after election.

CLERGY TO SPUR GERMANS.

Hintze Inspires Special Church Services to Revive Morale.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4, (Dispatch to The London Daily Express.)—By order of the Government, special services are to be held in the churches of Prussia and other German States Sunday next in order that Protestants and Roman Catholics may be spurred on to help Germany win the war. Similar instructions are also given to the Jewish communities.

This new pulpit propaganda originated with Admiral von Hintze, the German Foreign Secretary, and has been officially approved as a "means of lifting the German morale and thereby helping the advent of victory." In the meantime doubts are expressed by the German public whether German sermons can accomplish what German arms have failed to achieve.

I. W. W. BOMB KILLS FOUR IN CHICAGO

PLANTED IN CROWDED HALL

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Four persons, one a woman and one a sailor, were killed this afternoon and dozens more were injured when a bomb of terrific force was exploded in the Adams Street entrance of the Chicago Post Office Building.

The Dead.

WHEELER, WILLIAM H., 45 years old, 6,016 Prairie Avenue; Post Office carrier.

The blast was so powerful that it tore down an eighteen-inch wall, hurled tons of débris about and wrought havoc in the entire north wing of the building.

The courtroom where Judge Landis held the I. W. W. conspiracy trial is on the sixth floor of the building.

Police and Government operatives at once began to work on the theory that members of the I. W. W. or some of their anarchist sympathizers placed the bomb. They are working on evidence more tangible than mere theory.

Two men were seen to dash from the scene almost at the moment the explosion occurred. The police have descriptions of both men.

Walter Scott, manager of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, saw a man run west and turn south from Adams Street just before the explosion. He was about to enter the Post Office, but stopped to watch the man running. This delay probably saved his life, for he was within a few feet of the doorway when the bomb exploded. Mr. Scott said the man wore a black fedora hat, pulled down over his eyes, and was short and heavy set.

Laid to I. W. W.

"This outrage, in my opinion, is an act of reprisal on the part of some members of the I. W. W. as the result of the conviction two weeks ago of ninety-three members of that organization," said Philip J. Barry, in charge of the Chicago office of the Department of Justice.

Mr. Barry said that already there had been a number of arrests, and suspects were being rounded up fast. He then added:

"We are practically certain that members of the I. W. W. perpetrated this outrage. I believe that the bomb was made with nitroglycerin. Prisoners are being questioned as fast as we can get to them."

Early in the evening it was said that 1,500 operatives were at work on the case. A great many of these are volunteers who have been working with the Department of Justice.

Two employes of the Registry Division were considered the best of the witnesses near the scene of the explosion. They gave accurate descriptions of two men, whose actions aroused their suspicions an instant before the blast shook the building.

So terrific was the explosion that almost every window on the Adams Street side of the Marquette and Edison Buildings, immediately opposite the Post Office, was demolished, and some windows as high as the ninth story were blown in.

Plate glass in the north side of the Post Office building up to the third story vanished. The scene inside the Adams Street entrance showed the power behind the blast. The wall into the mailing room was torn away and dust and ground-up plaster littered more than 100 working tables.

On a spot in the entry way, where a circular radiator stood, there was a hole in the floor through into the basement. Half of the radiator was blown out into the street. This gave rise to the report that the bombers had lifted up a marble cover over the radiator, put the bomb inside and replaced the cover.

Within a few minutes after the explosion mounted police and patrolmen, Deputy United States Marshals, Deputy Sheriffs, Deputy Coroners, a couple of squads of soldiers, and men from the Department of Justice were picketed around the building.

A little later 100 sailors were marched

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—An entirely new aspect of the situation created by the attack on the British Embassy in Petrograd is the murder of Captain Cromie, which is denounced here as the blackest of many infamous deeds committed by the Bolsheviki. The British Government has lost no time in forwarding to Foreign Minister Tchitcherin a stern note demanding immediate reparation and the punishment of all concerned in what it characterizes as "an abominable outrage."

In the event of failure to give complete satisfaction, the British Foreign Office solemnly warns the Soviet Government that it will hold its members individually responsible and do what it can to insure they shall be treated as outlaws by the world.

The attack took place Saturday last by Bolshevist troops who, there is reason to believe, were acting under orders of the Bolshevist Government. Naturally this wanton outrage upon international law was resisted by the members of the British Legation who were there. Captain Cromie seems to have led the defending forces. He is said to have killed three of the Bolshevist soldiers with his own hand, but the few persons present were soon overcome by overwhelming numbers.

Besides committing nameless outrages on the Captain's body, the Bolsheviki forbade an English clergyman to pay the last offices of respect to the remains of his gallant fellow-countryman.

It is feared that a similar attack will be made upon the French Embassy, and urgent measures are being taken to prepare for its defense. The building occupied by the French Military Mission has also been attacked, but the papers stored there had been removed to a place of safety. Some members of the mission have been put under arrest, and the Bolsheviki are already encouraging the populace to massacre both the British and French in Petrograd.

This is all the information which has been received so far at the Foreign Office. It is not known what other members of the British Legation were present when the outrage was committed nor what has been their fate.

Britain's Ultimatum to Soviet.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—In its protest telegraphed to the Bolshevist Government at Moscow against the sacking of the British Embassy at Petrograd and the killing of Captain Cromie, the British Government says:

> An outrageous attack has been made on the British Embassy at Petrograd, its contents have been sacked and destroyed, Captain Cromie, who tried to defend it, was murdered and his body barbarously mutilated.
>
> We demand immediate reparation and the prompt punishment of any one responsible for or concerned in this abominable outrage.
>
> Should the Russian Soviet Government fail to give complete satisfaction, or should any further acts of violence be committed against a British subject, his Majesty's Government will hold the members of the Soviet Government individually responsible and will make every endeavor to secure that they shall be treated as outlaws by the Governments of all civilized nations and that no place of refuge shall be left to them.

> You have already been informed through M. Bolsheviki May Threaten Assassination Reprisals

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—The Moscow correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung reports that a member of the Soviet has asserted that the Russian Government contemplates informing the Entente countries that any further attempts upon the lives of Russian Government officials will be countered by attempts upon Entente statesmen in their own countries.

The same correspondent is quoted as saying that it has been declared in Soviet circles that General Boris Savinkoff organized the recent crimes against high persons in Russia.

MANGIN TRUSTS AMERICAN DASH

MEN EAGER TO PUSH WAR

Those of German Origin in the Ranks Loyal to the Core and Intrepid Soldiers.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—A corner of the great battle toward which all eyes are turned is the sector where the Tenth French Army under General Mangin is making a systematic and well-planned effort to bore its way to the rear of the German position further east on the Vesle and the Aisne. French military science is all for outflanking tactics as against a frontal assault so costly in human lives.

Where American troops are holding the enemy on the Vesle, the line has swung back and forth from one side to the other of the river. Those changes of a kilometer or two had no significance. It is in the neighborhood of Juvigny on the flank of the German salient, that it is being decided whether the Germans can retire from the area north of the Vesle to the Chemin des Dames, and whether, even if they succeed in gaining that strong position, they can hold it.

I spent Sunday near Juvigny. In the morning I drove to General Mangin's headquarters and met the commander whose name and fame have become so well known in America in these last few weeks. Some of our finest troops, including the Second Division, belonged to Mangin's command between the Ourcq and the Vesle.

His reputation is everywhere that of a hard hitter, and I expected to find a personality upon which aggressiveness was plainly stamped. Instead, I found a man somewhat under medium height, with pale face and very quiet in manner. The contrast between his character, as one sees him in his duty, and his energy and boldness in the field adds interest to his general personality.

Mangin's Message to America.

I told him that the fact that so many of our troops had served in his army and had won such fine successes under his leadership had made his name familiar in America, and I asked if he would give me a message of some kind to send across the Atlantic.

"Yes," he replied, "say this for me: It is easy to lead Americans to victory. In fact, they take their Generals with them as upon an onrushing tide."

I think General Mangin would have liked to pursue the subject, but Generals must be careful not to say too much for publication. General Mangin's experience with the Americans has made him thoroughly familiar with their material, and when the High Command placed in his hands the lance for the thrust at the Germans north of the Aisne he promptly put a sharp American tip on it.

Our party arrived rather early at the headquarters, but another party, driving from Paris, had been there hours ahead of us. In it was included Premier Clemenceau, and he paid his visit to General Mangin at 7:30 o'clock in the morning. Like his breed in his native jungle, the Tiger keeps early hours.

We drove through rolling country which recalled the rich uplands of the

FOE DRIVEN FROM THE OISE

ADVANCE NORTH OF NOYON

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The German Armies are retreating on a front of nearly twenty miles north of the Vesle, the passage of which has been forced by French and American troops, who have at some points advanced three miles north of the river.

Simultaneously the French have made big gains northeast of Noyon and are driving the Germans before them in the territory between the Canal du Nord and the Oise.

The menace to his right flank by the successes of the French and Americans on the plateau north of Soissons, where fighting continues today, forced the enemy's retreat from the Vesle. Among the towns occupied in the advance are Bucy-le-Long, Chassemy, Brenelle, Vauxcere, and Blanzy.

The Paris night bulletin reports the capture of numerous guns and prisoners and considerable material.

Fires Indicate General Withdrawal.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY, Sept. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Germans appear to be burning supplies and blowing up ammunition dumps in the region north of the Oise River and east of the Noyon-Guiscard Road. Many conflagrations have been seen as far east as Tergnier, and explosions at Ugny, north of Chauny.

The French cavalry has reached the edge of Guiscard, while the infantry has advanced beyond Crisolmes and crossed the Noyon-Guiscard road and occupied the Autrecourt Wood.

These indications confirm the general impression that the enemy is preparing for a general retreat south of the Somme, toward the line from St. Quentin to La Fère.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE VESLE FRONT, Sept. 4, (Associated Press.)—A German withdrawal from the Vesle has begun. Combat patrols of Americans and French are close on their heels to the west of Bazoches and eastward to a point beyond Fismes.

Smart machine gun resistance is being encountered. By all indications the Germans have withdrawn their main bodies to the north, possibly preparatory to crossing the Aisne.

It became more apparent today that the Germans had given up the struggle to maintain a foothold north of the Vesle. American and French artillery continued their punishing fire over an area extending to the Aisne without bringing a reply that could be compared with it in intensity.

Machine Gun Nests Reduced.

The advanced American detachments were confronted with the same sort of machine gun fire that the Germans have used in all other cases recently to hold off the opposing forces while making good their retreat. But one by one the gun nests were taken by assault or forced to retire.

The withdrawal of the Germans is regarded as a direct result of the enormous pressure against their line extending north of Soissons. It will not be a surprise, however, if a secondary resistance for another brief interval is made where the line runs back toward Rheims.

It is pointed out that the Germans cannot afford to hold there long, since the same pressure will be exerted, and they cannot afford to leave a salient at that point. By shortening and straightening their line, with its base on the Chemin des Dames, they will be able to release two of the four

American Soldiers Roused by Destruction Wrought by the Germans in Soissons

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 3.—Yesterday chance took me to Soissons. The once busy, pleasing little city of the Aisne is gone. The noble cathedral there, around which the town used to cluster, has collapsed within itself under shell-fire, and there is nothing of it longer save an ugly and irretrievable ruin. The four walls stand, but in countless places they are perforated with gigantic holes and seem to support most unsteadily even the small, dangling patch of roof that is left. The shops and dwellings of the city have been tumbled into its streets.

It is needless to say that the monument in the Place Republique, erected to the citizens of Soissons, who were shot by the Germans in 1870, is demolished. Perhaps it is needless to add that the two splendidly proportioned towers of the Abbaye St. Leger, dating back to the thirteenth century, likewise have been battered until no semblance of beauty has been left.

The town is completely deserted and the pounding of the German guns from the uplands, above and toward Juvigny Plateau, seems somehow to imbue the place with a deathlike calm. Soissons, robbed of its grace and sparkle, has become but another memorial to the frightfulness of the invaders.

The ruined villages and towns of Northern France have, day by day, a deep and significant effect upon the boys of the American Army, though few of them ever knew there were such cities as Villers-Cotterets, Château-Thierry, Fère-en-Tardenois, Chalons, and Soissons in the days before the coming of the Huns. None the less, hints of former winsomeness strangely persist through the slices of church towers, bits of facades and the like. These hints, for all their meagreness, are not lost upon the American lads, who now by hundreds of thousands dwell in the crumbled masonry of the blighted land.

"It's a damned shame!" Over and over again I have heard such phrases from the boys from overseas, and in tones bespeaking the most honorable wrath and a mighty hardening of their youthful hearts. There is not one of them but holds that no penalty could be too stiff for the homes that have been destroyed and the charm and beauty that have been forever taken away. In short, such spectacles as that of Soissons ruined are making a portentous impression upon the young avengers who have come to France.

Retreating Foe Floods Flat Region To Delay the Advancing British

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY, Sept. 4.—The pursuit of the Germans on the very wide front astride the Bapaume-Cambrai road has necessarily become considerably slower. Since last night the British advance guards have reached the line of the Canal du Nord in several places. They found possible crossings, but these are under the concentrated fire of many machine guns.

The canal is still only in course of construction south of the Arras-Cambrai road, which means that it is an unfinished and dry cutting. At best it can prove but a temporarily defensive line, even if the enemy elects to try to make a stand there. [Later dispatches announce that the British have forced the passage of the canal on a front of fifteen miles.] He has a strong belt of wire on the line Marcoing-Cambrai, but airmen report that no trenches have been dug behind this.

The floods caused by the damming of the Sensee and the Trinquis have increased over the flat ground between and beyond Biache St. Vaast and Etaing and again in the region of the Nord Canal, between Lambres and Estrees, thereby restricting the British zone of movement directly south of the Scarpe. As the course of all the streams in the Scarpe waterway is eastward, the enemy can continue to dam these as he withdraws, although the flat ground which would be affected thereby is of comparatively small extent, and one result would be to interfere seriously with his own water supply.

The cutting off tactics of the naval lads which I described yesterday would appear to have been entirely successful, and a fine haul of prisoners was the result. I cannot give the figures of the captures by the naval battalions, but the total taken by the 3d Army during the course of the day was 1,946. In addition, twenty-two field guns were taken.

New Mesh of Trenches Found.

The British have come up against a strong redoubt fashioned out of the ruins of Moeuvres, and spreading over about a square mile of ground. Here a veritable meshwork of trenches twists and bends and writhes across and between the Hindenburg main line and the Hindenburg support line, but this stronghold loses much of its terrors from the fact that the British are really behind the Hindenburg line north of Inchy-en-Artois, and are therefore in a position to deal with it otherwise than by frontal attacks. In fact, I understand that the British are already behind the village.

It is difficult, even from the statements of prisoners, to figure the state of confusion and disorganization into which the enemy has been thrown during his retreat. His transport service appears to have gone to pieces, and the eager clamor of prisoners for food and drink is pretty good evidence of the privations which the withdrawing columns are suffering.

Forty-six civilians, a majority of them women, have been rescued from Ecourt St. Quentin. They were found yesterday morning when the British patrols entered the village from Recourt. There were 200 persons living there until last Saturday, when a German officer went from house to house ordering a general evacuation.

The majority obeyed the summons and were conveyed in the direction of Cambrai, but those who reached the British lines hid in cellars and in the confusion managed to escape detection.

For six days and nights the entire population had been living underground, fearing that the Allies would shell the village. The Germans told them that the English would not spare their homes if the artillery came nearer. Gas masks were provided for them and they remained in cellars listening to the troops and transport passing overhead.

Refugees Are Set Free.

During the night of Monday the cannonade became louder. Several men left their hiding place and went up to investigate the situation. They met a few German stragglers searching for food. The latter told them that the British would soon be in the village, and advised them to leave at once, promising that they would pack their effects immediately.

A Frenchman hurried back to the cellars and told the good news to the others. They walked across the fields and met the first patrols coming from Rumaucourt.

The refugees say that they were fed by the Spanish and Dutch relief committees, receiving sufficient food to keep them from starvation, but

PROGRESS IN FLANDERS

British Are Approaching Neuve Chapelle—Gas Keeps Them from Entering Lens.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—There was no let-up today in the eastward sweep of the British troops north of Péronne. On a front of approximately fifteen miles northward from Moislains they have forced the passage of the Canal du Nord and have made substantial progress to the east.

The Germans posted on the eastern banks tried to check the advance with machine-gun and artillery fire, but English and Welsh troops overwhelmed their resistance and carried the villages of Manancourt and Etricourt and passed beyond them to the high ground to the east.

Englishmen and New Zealanders, fighting farther north, captured Ruyaulcourt and reached the outskirts of Havringcourt Wood, east of the canal.

Still farther north English troops entered the town of Moeuvres, [slightly to the north of the Bapaume-Cambrai Road and seven miles west of Cambrai,] and fighting is still in progress at that point along the old Hindenburg line defenses.

Today's operations resulted in the capture of more prisoners and material, the latter including several German tanks.

The British advance in Flanders continues, having reached the neighborhood of Neuve Chapelle and Laventie.

The city of Lens has been definitely evacuated by the Germans, according to reports from Northern France today. The British, it is stated, are refraining from occupying it only because of the gas fumes remaining there. Patrols protected against the fumes have entered the city, it is stated, and found it clear of the enemy.

Germans at Bay Before Cambrai.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 4, (Associated Press.)—British troops are on the Canal du Nord virtually along its whole length from Péronne to north of the Arras-Cambrai road, and in the south at two places where the canal is only about half constructed, at Ruyaulcourt and Moislains, patrols are pushing forward.

Along the canal to the north, however, the enemy is holding the east bank, apparently in great strength, and has been using his machine guns freely all day. Patrols who have ventured anywhere in sight have been heavily fired upon from the opposite bank.

The Germans have destroyed all the bridges and crossings over the canal. Exhausted and in confusion, the enemy is being subjected to heavy shellfire, but the British for the moment are making no attempt to drive him further. It seems quite evident that the Germans intend to make a desperate stand here, in front of the famous Bourlon Wood and Cambrai.

Meanwhile, the northern part of the Hindenburg line continues to be cleared. The troops are making some progress astride it in a southeasterly direction.

North of Péronne the British have advanced to the east, and while the actions have not been fought with the violence which characterized those in the past four days, being mainly between strong British advanced patrols and German rear guards, additional ground has been gained.

The enemy artillery seems to have stiffened all along the line.

Stiff Fighting at Moeuvres.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 4, (Reuter.)—Enemy rearguards yesterday succeeded in engaging the British advancing troops here and there and in fighting delaying actions which were usually of short duration. But they did not check the galloping up of batteries, which frequently fired at pointblank range into the struggling columns retreating to the eastward.

In the rapidity of his withdrawal the enemy did not have time to destroy all the crossings over the Canal du Nord, and last night British patrols were reported by airmen to be holding two bridges well in line with the British advance.

British troops have reached the outskirts of Moeuvres, where stiff fighting is going on. At that point the front and support trenches of the Hindenburg line are linked up by a redoubt which covers about a square mile. But as Buissy and Inchy are held by the British it should not be difficult to turn the position by coming down in the rear of the enemy.

During the day the British Third Army rounded up 1,946 prisoners and 22 field guns. Farther north the Canadians and English collected another 720 prisoners.

WILL FINAL VICTORY BE THIS YEAR OR NEXT?

London Is Discussing the War Along These Lines, with Soldier Opinion Favoring Next Year.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Two currents of opinion in regard to the termination of the war, are strongly marked here. Both run in the same direction, so far as a victorious ending is concerned. Where they differ is in respect to the date at which that desirable consummation can be reached.

One of these views is that the war will be ended next year. The other places the date in 1920.

The argument turns chiefly on two points, whether Great Britain's military effort can be maintained and strengthened during the months that still permit of campaigning this year and whether America's great contribution of the last few months can be carried on in undiminished volume during the Fall and Winter. Given these two factors, the protagonists of the "victory next year" school believe that the enemy can be so hammered this year that his chances of waging a successful defense in the Spring and Summer of 1919, when America's weight will tell immeasurably, will have been reduced to a minimum.

General Peyton March's pedictions of early victory have given great encouragement to the holders of the more optimistic of these two views here, but they are not accepted without question by others, who hold that it is possible to underestimate the enemy's powers of resistance, and equally possible to underestimate the difficulties which still confront the Allies, not only in a military sense, but in the economic and political domains.

Generally speaking, the soldiers are the chief exponents of what may be called the continuous hammering policy, with all that it implies in respect to the application of man power to purely military purposes. Also using a general classification, it is the civilian element which questions whether serious mistakes might not be made by overlooking the fact that victory is to be won not only by the martial activities of the men at the front, but by the quality and character of the nations at the back of the front. In England particularly there is the question of the utilization of every available man in the field at the earliest possible moment. That the United States will give without stint and without counting is taken as axiomatic here. It is equally agreed that Great Britain is in no sense whatever seeking to diminish her efforts, and, indeed, is striving to increase them. The controversy turns only on the point as to which is the method by which the common cause can be best served.

Italian Says German Occupation of France Is Menaced.

ROME, Sept. 4.—General Cosi, special correspondent of the Tribuna, congratulates the allied front on having fought so vast a battle employing nine armies and lasting six weeks, advancing many kilometers over desolate and devastated ground with a logistic and tactical organization which has never failed them. This offensive is likened by some to the Germans' drive in 1916 against Russia, but the Russians then had as an ally the vast space behind them, which necessitated for the pursuing Germans enormous forces in order to execute their plan.

Today the Germans are unable to avail themselves of the space behind them, because of Foch's constant pressure on their centre and his persistent threat to their wings, while the American reserves which are now ready to Foch's hand insure him liberty of action.

Two German lines of defense are now simultaneously attacked; that of the Somme, with Péronne and Ham, together with the Hindenburg line. Péronne being the last advanced position before the Hindenburg positions the Germans begin now to realize that their whole occupation of France is menaced, together with their lines and centres of communication. The whole situation between the sea and Metz is compromised.

To her military defeat must be added her political and moral defeat, which is a splendid attestation of the persistent supremacy and initiative held by the Allies.

ASSERTS FOCH IS DRIVEN ON.

Cologne Gazette Asks if He Is Skeptical About Our Aid.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—Although declaring that the German command is not underestimating the value of American help in an active military way to the Allies, the Cologne Gazette of Aug. 25 tells its readers that the American assistance will not be sufficient to turn the tide against Germany, and it purports to find in General Foch's persistently aggressive policy a fear that he is uncertain about the help he may expect from the American forces.

"Our General Staff," says the newspaper, "had estimated that on May 1 there would be about 500,000 American combatants on our front. As it had foreseen their entrance into the battle, their actual appearance caused it no surprise, nor will it in the future underestimate the value of the American support.

"This help has been coming in quickly and steadily, but it is insufficient to turn the tables in favor of the Entente. Why does Foch keep attacking now without any respite? Is he skeptical about the reinforcements promised by the United States? Does he fear that before they are transported to Europe or before they have gone through the necessary training the Germans may launch an offensive? Is he compelled to act by the general situation of the Entente or by French internal politics?

"It is certain that he is driven on by an unavoidable necessity. Otherwise he would wait before sacrificing his best soldiers and thus increasing the frightful losses of France.

"The precise information we have concerning America's available supply of men is most reassuring. It proves how carefully our Staff works out its calculations and wards off surprises."

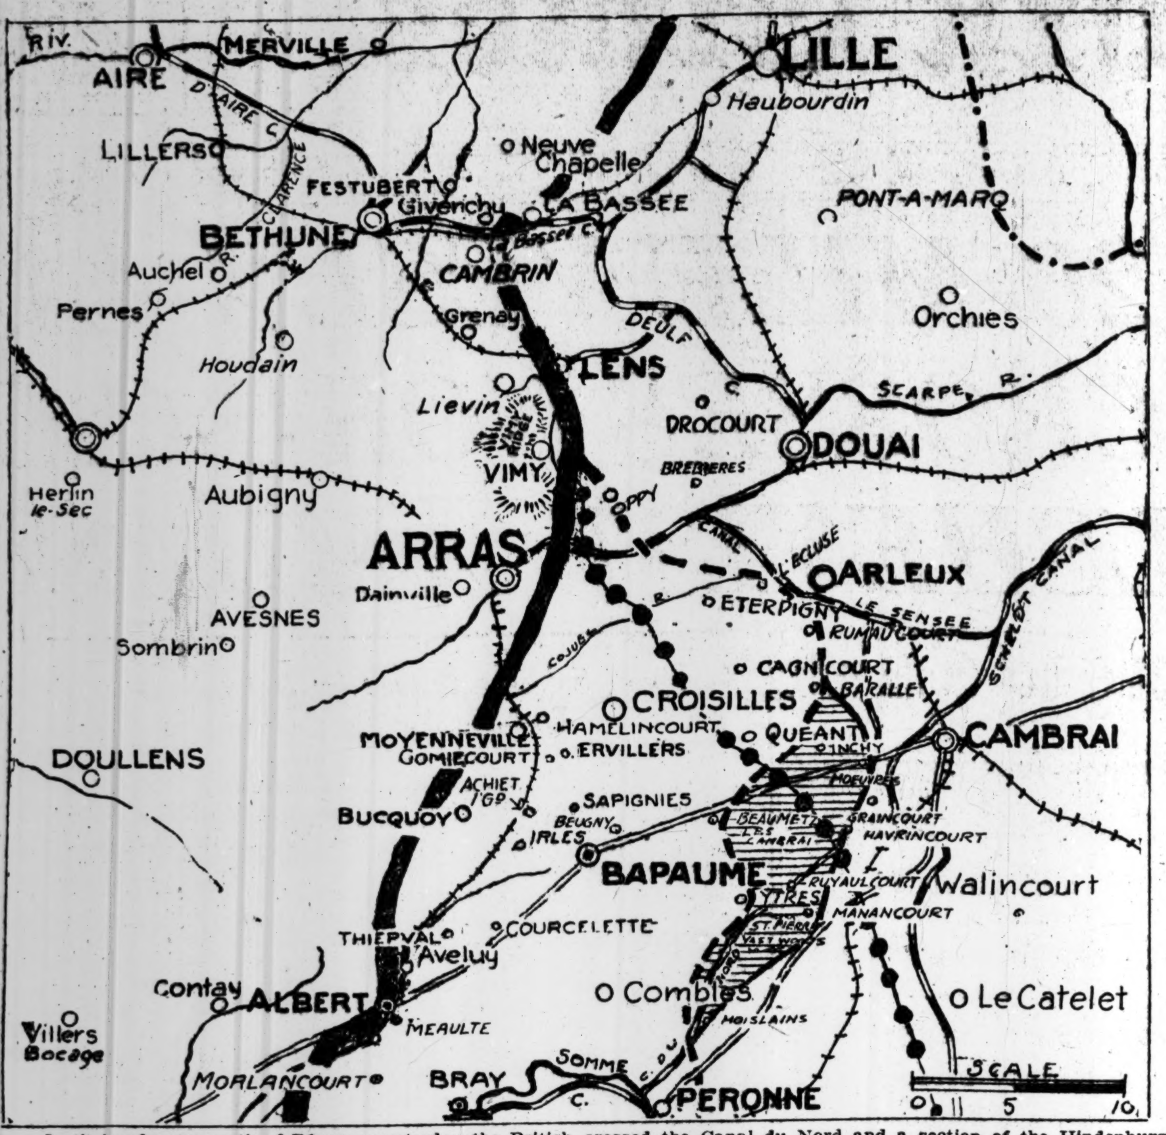
French Critics Also Point Out the Menace of Mangin's Advance.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—General Mangin's army has been busily engaged in the last three days overcoming bitter resistance by the Germans to its advance in the southern area of the battlefront. His forces have marked time in some instances and at points retreated slightly, but they have now succeeded in getting the better of the enemy's defense and have resumed their slow out sure advance.

Where Haig Is Advancing on Cambrai



In their advance north of Péronne yesterday the British crossed the Canal du Nord and a section of the Hindenburg line. The Germans had apparently counted on holding them on the line of the canal, but were thrown back of it on a wide front.

Scene of German Retreat from the Vesle

The ground occupied yesterday by the French armies and the American troops co-operating with them is indicated by perpendicular shading. The towns of Bucy-le-Long, Chassemy Brenelle and Vauxcère are among those evacuated by the Germans.

Their forward push is threatening the fall of the important town of Coucy-le-Château, which is hourly expected here. The Germans, however, are resisting the forward movement to the best of their ability, as the capture of the Forest of St. Gobain, which the advance is threatening, would entail a retreat of General von Boehn's armies to Laon. A rupture of the Hindenburg line in the south would thus be effected; and, as the line has already been smashed in the north by British troops, a withdrawal of the whole German front from the North Sea to Rheims would then be forced.

The Paris military critics today treat mainly of the threatening breach in the Hindenburg line in the north, pointing out that the enemy is now forced to forego the use of prepared artificial defenses and to fall back on the natural obstacles which the writers argue are the only hope of the German command in the present state of disorganization among its divisions.

The enemy, the critics show, will have before Cambrai a series of natural defenses which may help him stay the march of the British armies momentarily. The general assumption is that the German stand will be made along the line of the Canal du Nord, [this line has been passed by the British since this dispatch was written,] passing west of Marquion, east of Inchy-en-Artois, and from Moeuvres to Hermies.

There is every sign of extreme disorganization among the enemy's forces at vulnerable points in his line. To the north of Péronne, along a front extending many kilometers, troops of all kinds have been promiscuously collected, and thirty battalions of this heterogeneous fighting material have been thrown into the breach. In front of Cambrai, Colonel Fabry points out in the Oui, eleven divisions were piled up on a narrow front; and he further deals with the situation at Cambrai thus:

"The arrival of a British army at the gates of Cambrai, when everything was quiet in the trenches from Nieuport to Belfort, was unwelcome enough for the enemy; but now the British are smashing the Hindenburg line and advancing on Cambrai with the enemy's armies elsewhere in retreat."

GERMANS' "SEVEREST TRIAL."

General von Ardenne Admits That the Situation Is Critical.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—Writing in the Düsseldorf Nachrichten, General von Ardenne, the military critic, admits that the German army is now unquestionably undergoing "the severest trial to which it was ever exposed," but that "the scales of success are beginning to sink slowly in its favor."

The war correspondent of the Frankfort Gazette, telegraphing from the front, says:

"The events occurring on the northern wing of the battlefront may be described as a preparatory battle for a big general attack by the British and French in the direction of St. Quentin."

The aim of the British, he says, is to dislodge the Germans from the southern Somme position. He warns Germans to expect more heavy fighting.

The military critic of the Berlin Kreuzzeitung expresses relief that the front of March 21 is still some distance back of the present fighting line.

"There is now as little reason for depression as during the Flanders battle," he contends. "The Summer of 1916 was certainly more critical for us."

AMERICANS IN SWEEP NORTH OF THE VESLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—General Pershing, in his bulletin on today's fighting received at the War Department tonight, thus describes the German retreat from the Vesle:

Section A—Yielding to the continued pressure of the allied forces, the enemy is in retreat north of the Vesle. Our troops, in close pursuit, have taken Bazoches, Perles, Fismette, and Baslieux, capturing prisoners and machine guns. They have reached the line Vauxcère-Blanzy-Le Grand Hameau.

In the Vosges a hostile raiding party was repulsed, leaving prisoners in our hands.

General Pershing's communiqué for Tuesday says:

HEADQUARTERS AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, Sept. 3.—Section A.—Aside from successful patrol encounters along the Vesle, and a hostile raid in Lorraine, which was repulsed, there is nothing to report.

LONGUYON BOMBED TWICE BY AMERICANS

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN LORRAINE, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—American airmen successfully bombed Longuyon twice today. About thirty airplanes flew over the German lines last night and dropped a few bombs.

WITH THE AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—There was considerable patrol activity on the American front in the Vosges region last night. An enemy raiding party of fifty approached the American trenches at one point. The raiders were driven off by rifle fire. The artillery was active on both sides in this sector, the enemy using tear and sneeze gas shells.

In the Woevre district an American patrol penetrated the enemy lines after cutting seven strands of barbed wire. Other patrols met small German groups and drove them off without difficulty. The enemy artillery and machine-gun activity in the Woevre increased slightly.

Official Reports of the Day's Operations

British

LONDON, Sept. 4.

Night Report.—English and Welsh troops forced a passage of the Tortille River and the Canal du Nord on a wide front north of Moislains. During the early part of the day the enemy held the east banks of the river and canal and with artillery and machine gun fire endeavored to arrest our advance at this line.

Despite the natural strength of the enemy's positions our troops advanced with great dash and courage and carried the villages of Manancourt and Etricourt. Overcoming the obstacles presented by the canal and river, they made substantial progress on the rising ground to the east.

Further north English and New Zealand divisions have taken Ruyaulcourt and reached the northern outskirts of Havrincourt Wood, east of the canal line. Other English divisions gained the west bank of the canal opposite Demicourt and Boursies, beating off a counterattack.

In the course of our advance further prisoners and material have fallen into our hands, including two of three German tanks used by the enemy in an unsuccessful counterattack on Aug. 31.

On the Lys front also we made progress at different points.

Day Report.—On the battlefront minor actions are reported in different localities. We have reached the east sile of the Vaux Woods north of Moislans and have advanced slightly at other points.

Generally our troops have reached the line of the Canal du Nord, and north of the Arras-Cambrai road have occupied Ecourt St. Quentin.

In the Lys sector further progress was made by us yesterday and last night both south and north of the river. Our troops are approaching Neuve Chapelle and Laventie, and have gained possession of Sailly-sur-la-Lys, Nieppe, and Le Romarin.

French

PARIS, Sept. 4.

Night Report—Our troops, after having broken on the preceding days the stubborn resistance of the enemy, forced him today to retreat north of the Oise and on the Vesle front. Between the Canal Du Nord and the Oise our advanced elements, on the heels of the enemy rear guards, have gone beyond Libermont and reached the outskirts of Esmery-Hallon and occupied the Bois De L'Hôpital.

Further south our line extends along Freniches, Guiscard, Beaugies, Grandru, Mondescourt, and Appilly.

More to the east we crossed the Ailette and reached Marizelle, northeast of Manicamp. The enemy left in our hands numerous prisoners, guns and material and considerable supplies.

Menaced on his right flank the enemy has retired north of the Vesle. We took Bucy-le-Long and Moncel, north of the Aisne.

Further to the right, our troops, having crossed the Vesle on a front of thirty kilometers, (nearly nineteen miles,) advanced beyond Chassemy, Brenelle, Vauberlin, Vauxcère, and Blanzy, and gained a footing on the northern crest of Baslieux.

Day Report—Yesterday during the day and night the French continued to press back the enemy east of the Canal du Nord and between the Ailette and the Aisne.

French troops captured the Chapitre Wood, northeast of Chevilly, and further south French elements advanced, pursuing the enemy, and are approaching Crisolles.

North of the Ailette the French carried their lines to the western outskirts of Coucy-le-Château and Juvencourt. To the south the French progressed east of Leuilly and reached the outskirts of Clamecy and Braye and penetrated Bucy-le-Long. The number of prisoners taken in that region exceeds 1,500.

BERLIN, Sept. 4, (via London.)

Night Report—Up to the present no important fighting activities have been reported. Between the Scarpe and the Somme the enemy felt his way forward to our new lines.

Between the Ailette and the Aisne fresh French attacks were repulsed.

Day Report—On both sides of the Lys the enemy, in continuous battle with our forward troops, worked ahead as far as the line of Wulverghem, Nieppe, Bac-St. Maur, Laventie, and Richebourg. Our mixed detachments in these minor engagements effectively damaged the enemy, and by means of a sharp attack took prisoners.

On the battlefront between the Scarpe and the Somme the day was quiet.

The night before last we had withdrawn our troops on the line of Arleux, Moeuvres, and Rancourt. These movements had been prepared for some days and were carried out in accordance with plans undisturbed by the enemy. The enemy hesitatingly followed during the afternoon.

On the front between Moislains and Péronne the enemy did not renew his attacks of yesterday.

On both sides of Noyon the French carried out strong attacks especially directed against the high ground between Campagne and Bussy. The enemy, who stormed four times in vain, both morning and afternoon, against the experienced 231st Infantry, was, as on other attacking sectors, completely repulsed.

On the Ailette there were reconnoitring engagements. Enemy thrusts against Coucy-le-Château failed.

Between the Ailette and the Aisne the French, in co-operation with Americans and Italians, renewed their attacks after the strongest fire. They were repulsed in many instances after bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

Yesterday we shot down twenty-two airplanes and seven balloons. Lieutenant Rumey won his thirtieth aerial victory.

South of Ripont prisoners and machine guns were brought back from a successful thrust into the French trenches.

CROWN PRINCE'S IDEA OF GERMAN VICTORY

DENIES HE'S A FIRE-EATER

Has Found That Majority of Americans Don't Know What They Fight For, He Says.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—The German idea of victory, as defined by the German Crown Prince, in an interview published in the Budapest Az Est, is an intention "to hold our own and not let ourselves be vanquished." The Crown Prince is quoted as saying that this was clear to him the moment England entered the war.

"If Germany had wanted war," he said, "we should not have chosen this moment. No moment could have been more unfavorable for Germany."

In reply to the question as to how he thought the end of the war would come, he replied:

"Through the enemy perceiving that they are not equal to the winning of their colossal stake, and that they cannot win as much as they are bound to lose."

In discussing the present operations on the western front, the Crown Prince said:

"The enemy attacks and the withdrawal on our front at several places is often wrongly interpreted in some circles. Some of our people are too accustomed to a continuous advance, and when a battle occurs wherein the enemy attacks and we have to defend ourselves, the situation is not always correctly understood. In judging the situation, both military and political, we must never forget one thing—that we are waging a war of defense. The war is one of annihilation only for the enemy, not for us. We want to annihilate none of our enemies. We mean, however, to hold our own."

Regarding the American forces in France the Crown Prince said:

"I've found that the majority don't know what they are fighting for, but we feel of course the effect of the entry of the Americans. They have sent over very much material and are now sending very much human material. We speak openly of victory. The word victory must not be understood to mean that we want to annihilate the enemy, but only that we mean to hold our own and not let ourselves be vanquished. The moment England entered the war that was clear to me and I always emphasized it."

When the interviewer remarked that the Crown Prince was considered abroad as a "fire-eater" he answered:

"I am aware of these accusations. Do I need to say that not a word of them is true?"

Reverting to the question of what nation wanted the war, he declared that "it was clear that England would take advantage of the opportunity."

"Belgium after all was only a pretext," he continued. "England intervened because German competition was unbearable. We are fighting for our existence. I repeat our aim therefore can only be to safeguard ourselves."

"The enemy assault doubtless will continue for some time," the Crown Prince said with reference to the fighting on the western front, "but our enemies must themselves see that they will not be able to attain their aim. Our troops are fighting splendidly and I attribute to their courage that such colossal superiority in strength does not crush us."

Discussing the fighting qualities of Germany's enemies he said:

"The French fight brilliantly and are bleeding to death. They do not hesitate at any sacrifice. With the English, the individual man is very good and tenacious, but the leadership is deficient. Among the Americans I've found that the majority do not know what they are fighting for. I asked an American prisoner what they were fighting for and he answered: 'For Alsace' and to the question: 'Where is Alsace?' He replied: 'It's a big lake.'" divisions for much-needed support in other sectors.

The Germans carried out their retreat behind a smoke screen raised on the northern edge of the plateau north of the Vesle. French and American forces went forward quickly, and tonight the American patrols are well to the north of the river, with numerous towns and villages at their mercy.

French a Mile from Guiscard.

FRENCH HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 4, (Reuter.)—The Germans are falling back between the Somme and the Oise before the armies of Generals Debeney and Humbert, whose advance cavalry is within a mile of Guiscard. The enemy has abandoned several important positions along the unfinished canal, and is retiring, with the Oise protecting his left flank from General Mangin's troops south of the river, but not from his artillery.

On the Ailette front Terny-Sorny is now some distance in the rear of the advancing armies, and they have worked up to the edge of the ravine separating Terny-Sorney from Laffaux.

Overcome Desperate Resistance.

PARIS, Sept. 4, (Associated Press.)—General Humbert's Third Army has been fighting a desperate battle for the past two days northeast of Noyon along the line of the Canal du Nord in the neighborhood of Campagne and Genvry. The determination of the French troops eventually overcame the powerful resistance of the enemy, who, early today, began to give way along the entire front.

The Germans had resolved to hold on here, and had fortified their line in the most formidable manner with great fields of barbed wire, cemented shelters, and defense systems bristling with machine guns hidden behind enormous logs.

The enemy machine gunners had received orders to hold at all costs and die at their posts rather than give ground. In many instances they did so, and the advance of the French had to be made literally foot by foot.

The French had brought a great array of artillery to bear on the woods and villages fronting them. The enemy guns were also extremely active, and counterattacks were frequent.

The object of the French manoeuvre was to attain the northern border of the hilly mass formed by Autrecourt Wood, thus menacing Guiscard. When the German line began to give way French cavalry joined in the action, and early this morning reached the farm of St. Martin, on the road between Noyon and Guiscard. The infantry advanced to a front running through Salency, Bourbeteuse, and eastward through Tarlefesse, Poilbarbe, Crisolles, and Fretoy-le-Château. Behind the German lines Jussy, Chauny, and La Fère can be seen in flames.

Missouri Valley, like Saline and Lafayette Counties, Missouri. There was a scar here and there, but war had not spread its characteristic devastation and the harvests looked excellent. We could feel Autumn in the air, and one of our party observed: "The frost will soon be on the pumpkin."

At the Aisne River we ran into war ruin again. We passed hundreds of captured German guns standing on the streets and in the squares, looking for all the world like silly geese with their noses pointing uselessly upward.

A Visit to American Headquarters.

Our objective was the headquarters of the American troops, and we found them in the weirdest palce imaginable, the description of which I omit, lest the rules be violated, though the Germans know where it is and pop away at it with their artillery.

Our visit was timed at a busy moment. Our well-served artillery had been smothering the boche and protecting our own advance round Juvigny, all of which has already been cabled to you. What perhaps will bear elaborating is the steady stream of German prisoners being brought in from this action, and of whom I had an opportunity to see something.

The American troops in this sector include many who speak German, and the prisoners talk to them in their own language and more freely. The large bag yesterday was made up partly of men who voluntarily and, from a military viewpoint, needlessly surrendered. One lot said that their officers had one by one disappeared "to attend a conference" somewhere behind. They didn't see the use of going on without officers, so they came across into our lines. It is doubtful if many German companies, without officers to club and pistol them into fighting, could now resist the temptation to follow the example of those troops.

The German soldiers appear to be lately regarding the American soldiers in a different light, and count on good treatment if they surrender. Some even announced yesterday that they were unwilling to fight Americans. Several said that they wanted to make their homes in America when the war is over.

Prisoners Dull and Dejected.

I was struck by the dejected appearance of the prisoners. Their faces were dull and their eyes lightless. They seemed scarcely human beings, but only "dumb, driven cattle." Among the early prisoners I had noticed a pretty good physical standard and uniformity of type. But these were a regular printing office sorts box.

As I examined them, I felt sure that such men could not be long depended on to maintain the struggle against the Allies. Later, when I made this observation to an American headquarters officer, he said:

"It won't do to generalize from what you have seen. Those prisoners are here after experiences that would depress even our men, and appearances may be deceptive."

I fell in with American soldiers from a section where the German-American element is strong. I would not call these youths German-Americans, for there wasn't a trace of "Kultur" in them. If their forebears ever had any of it, it has all been bred out, which is the greatest glory of our political and social system. We take the newcomer in, and he becomes a part of us.

From what I have seen in this war, I would trust all the various new elements in our population as fully as Revolutionary stock. I have never seen more true-hearted Americans than these splendid fellows from the Middle West, with their German names. I heard of one whole company in another division where German was the language spoken. Not a single case of disloyalty has appeared in the whole army, as far as I know.

One German Name Out of Four.

In a round way, perhaps, every fourth name in the ranks is German. We have no better soldiers. They are too confident of their own Americanism to have any sensitiveness or self-consciousness. One man, whose name is very like the word "boche," told me laughingly that his comrades had made it into that; but he took it good-humoredly.

While on this general subject, I should like to say that the people one meets in Europe wonder at the American solidarity. With 10 per cent. of our people of Teutonic origin, Europeans expected internal trouble. They lost sight of the absolute and complete Americanization of the elements coming to us from Europe. While there have been some few traitors, and such cases stand out conspicuously and attract general attention, the people here think that the thorough Americanism of practically the whole German-American body is one of the wonderful things of the war.

Among our men in the ranks, finishing the job and returning home by Christmas is often the subject of conversation. This does not mean any war-weariness, but rather the contrary. What is in their minds is to make the pace hot and to get through with the war without unnecessary delay.

The home spirit burns bright in the hearts of the Yanks, and Christmas is a word that brings the "lovelight into their eyes." They are perfectly willing to make it Christmas, 1919, if necessary; but they have the American idea of "going to it."

Bulgar Attack Driven Back.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Forces of the Central Powers on the morning of Sept. 2 attacked the Entente allied troops, under cover of an intense bombardment, on the left bank of the Vardar River, in Macedonia. An official statement issued today by the British War Office says the enemy was driven back by a counterattack.

SECOND DAY NETS FEW SLACKERS HERE

SOME SUFFER HARDSHIP

BRIDAL PARTY IS DELAYED

No Figures Yet on the City, but De Woody and McCarthy Disagree on Estimates.

There was a decided slackening yesterday in the slackers' roundup. In the first place, a greatly improved system of handling men of draft age went into effect yesterday morning. In the second place, the great number of persons taken into custody on Tuesday caused most of those eligible for military service under the first Selective Draft act to go out prepared to be stopped and questioned with all the cards they had received from their local draft boards.

No official figures were offered by the Department of Justice or by the American Protective League as to the number of persons taken into custody in the forty-eight hours ended last night. It was estimated, however, by Superintendent Charles De Woody of the New York office of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice that, under the system in operation yesterday, 800 persons an hour could be examined and have their cases disposed of in one way or another in the 69th Regiment Armory.

In the twelve hours, therefore, between 9 A. M. and 9 P. M. yesterday, it would have been possible to have handled at the armory 9,600 persons. But there was a general agreement among all the officials that nothing like that number were turned in at the armory during the day.

Roundup in Theatre District.

The theatrical and restaurant district was combed over again last night with thoroughness. Sailors and special agents of the Department of Justice formed a gauntlet at the doors of every theatre and called for cards from every man who appeared to be between the first draft ages. The restaurants and hotels were canvassed by sailors, who went from table to table asking for cards.

Very few residents of New York City appeared on the streets last night anywhere near Times Square without their draft cards. A continual stream of suspects was escorted to the West Forty-seventh Street Station by sailors and policemen, but it was made up almost entirely of men from other cities or of New Yorkers whose papers appeared to be doubtful. Most of them were released after being questioned.

The sailors and agents of the Department of Justice were uniformly civil and considerate in carrying out their instructions, and the response from the public was in the same spirit. Young men walking for two or three blocks in Times Square were usually held up six or seven times in that distance, but few complained or showed any inclination to regard it as a hardship. Nearly every one had his draft card handy and showed it with a smile.

Trouble Traced to Police Stations.

Even the most enthusiastic official was not inclined to place the number of cases disposed of, in one way or another, at the armory yesterday and early evening, at more than 4,000 or 5,000. At no time was there the slightest congestion on the armory floor or in the galleries. This was due to the celerity with which the business of examination was carried on under the new system.

The trouble about the work of Tuesday was traced to the various police stations, and the men in charge of the roundup at those stations were given the most rigid orders to send to the armory only those persons against whom there was strong evidence of intention to evade the draft. The result was that, at many of the police stations, two out of every three brought in were turned out.

As for the number added to the National Army as a result of the two days' roundup, Superintendent De Woody was willing to give definite figures for the Federal Districts of Northern New Jersey and Eastern New York, which includes Brooklyn and the rest of Long Island, but he had no figures to give for Manhattan and the Bronx. He said that, as a result of the roundup in Northern New Jersey, 700 men had been sent to Camp Dix, or would be on their way there by last night. The roundup in Brooklyn, he said, had already yielded 500, while 100 more were still held for further examination.

Figures on 1,500 from City.

Superintendent De Woody was willing, however, to speculate as to the number which might possibly be inducted into the service from Manhattan and Bronx boroughs. Of the men taken into custody on Tuesday, 278 so-called bad cases were locked up in the Tombs overnight. Of this number, Mr. De Woody estimated that probably 250 would be inducted into the service. Probably 250 more had been sent to their local draft boards for rigid examination.

In addition, Mr. De Woody estimated that probably 1,000 additional suspects had applied for and had been given the chance of voluntarily appearing before their draft boards to get their cards fixed up. That would make New York's contribution as a result of the roundup 1,500 men.

United States Marshal McCarthy had an entirely different opinion.

"When we get through with this roundup," he said, "it will be found that New York has fewer slackers than any other city in the United States. Of the 278 that were locked up in the Tombs last night, only a comparatively few have homes in New York. I venture the opinion that, when all the figures are gathered together and we have the statistics to show the home towns from which the men rounded up here come, it will be found that, in the total roundup not more than 1 per cent. of the slackers were citizens of New York."

While the men rounded up in the city yesterday had their cases attended to promptly, the men from out of town were still in a bad way. In nearly every case they had been unable to get any reply to communications sent to their local draft boards.

Joseph Rubene, butler for A. R. Shattuck, whose town house is at 19 Washington Square North and whose country place is White Lodge at Lenox, Mass., came to New York Tuesday morning and was nabbed at the Grand Central Terminal. He hadn't the necessary documents with him and was taken to the armory. He said yesterday afternoon that he registered first with the local draft board at Middletown, Conn. Then he moved to Ansonia and presented himself to the draft board there. Registration cards were issued to him by both boards, but he had not his classification cards. On Tuesday and yesterday he sent six telegrams to Middletown and Ansonia, and up to 6 o'clock last night had not received any replies.

Pierre Flotow of New Orleans telegraped to his local draft board, because his house, in New Orleans, where he says his registration and classification cards are, is closed, his family not having returned from their Summer outing. No reply had been received up to last evening from the New Orleans draft board, and Flotow, who seems to be fairly well to do, said, if it were necessary, he would pay his own fare and that of a Government guard to New Orleans to establish the fact that he is no slacker.

Banker's Son Released.

Another young man from out of town, who was nabbed at the Grand Central Terminal yesterday, said he was a son of James B. Forgan, President of the First National Bank of Chicago. After he had been held at the 69th Regiment Armory two or three hours he established his identity and military status satisfactory and was turned loose.

It was said yesterday afternoon that this is probably the first time on record that prisoners were received at the Tombs without commitments. The Warden of Raymond Street jail in Brooklyn, however, was not so accommodating and hospitable. Federal authorities asked him to take charge of some thirty similar prisoners on Tuesday night, and he said it couldn't be done. If there were commitments to his jail he would receive the prisoners, but not otherwise. They were taken back, therefore, to the 23d Regiment Armory.

An interrupted honeymoon was reported from the Grand Central Terminal yesterday afternoon. A young man, easily in the 21-31 class, with a pretty girl walking at his side, was held up by a sailor.

"Good Lord!" said the young man, "we were only married in Plattsburg yesterday, and you don't suppose I thought anything about draft board cards?"

"Hard luck," said the sailor, "but you'll have to come along."

The young bride showed herself to be a thoroughbred. She asked where she could find her husband when she had taken the necessary steps to prove that he was not a slacker, and, having been told that she could find him at the 69th Regiment Armory, she told him to go along into custody and she would do the rest. At about 6 o'clock last night it was said at the armory that the bride had succeeded in showing that the military status of the bridegroom is all right and they had been allowed to depart.

William Blatchford, Special Agent of the Department of Justice having charge of the round-up in Brooklyn, said last night that he estimated 4,000 suspects had been rounded up in Brooklyn, Queens, and at the Long Island beaches during the day, making the haul for the two days in Brooklyn 12,000. Of the number taken yesterday, Mr. Blatchford said, 125 had been locked up in the Raymond Street Jail charged with being sure-enough slackers.

In the Bronx yesterday and last evening it was reported that more than 1,000 men were arrested on the street cars, at the elevated and subway stations, and in the theatres. A corral was established at 149th Street and Willis Avenue where the prisoners were herded before being taken to the Alexander Avenue Station. At West Farms 150 suspects were arrested, and at Clason Point 80 men were found who had neither cards nor brith certificates. This would make an estimated total of those arrested in the Bronx in the two days of between 3,000 and 4,000.

RETREATING FOE FLOODS FLAT REGION

By PHILIP GIBBS.

not enough to enable them to perform the tasks allotted by the German officials. They had been completely cut off from the outside world since the beginning of the war and not allowed to visit neighboring villages.

All the civilians agreed that the German troops had been extremely depressed and badly demoralized during the last week of their occupation of the village. They appeared to be short of rations.

On the northern part of the British advance, where they are up to the marshy area at the junction of the Sensee and the Agache, the men have been going over new ground which British troops have not traversed since the first year of the war. It is no longer a shell-torn waste, but crops have been grown and harvested this year, and patches of beets and potatoes are still green. The British have been rescuing civilians from villages little hurt by the war.

On Old Cambrai Battleground.

On the southern end of the British advance they are again on ground which they won in the battle of Cambrai in November of last year, and villages have fallen to them now which then they failed to win, or, rather, never held, although they fought their way into them and through them more than once. Such are the villages of Moeuvres and Inchy, which, though bad enough, are much less wrecked than the hamlets of the old battle zones left behind.

Nowhere today, as far as I can learn, has the enemy made any serious resistance, though across the canal he appears to be holding in strength, and infantry patrols or airplanes approaching the great dry ditch have been met at all points by heavy machine gun fire.

Most of the prisoners are from the 12th and 52d reserve divisions, both of which have newly come down from the Bailleul-Kemmel area to try to hold the British advance. Both, however, have fallen back beyond the canal.

Those of them in the cages are sad people, though less sad, perhaps, than the artillerymen, against whom the German infantry still bring in charges of firing short and killing their own men, and the cavalrymen, of whom the British have taken a fair number when dismounted as infantry. They feel the humiliation keenly and say that the German cavalry is practically ended.

I heard stories today of the great work done by the tanks throughout this fighting in the Scarpe area, where in the first days of the battle they had to go forward under heavy artillery fire, and the gallantry with which they fought was beyond praise. The service which they have rendered in saving lives from machine gun fire was quite incalculable.

FRENCH NOW ATTACKING THE CHEMIN DES DAMES

Gen. Mangin's Advance Bears Fruit in the Investment of Laffaux.

By G. H. PERRIS.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Sept. 4.—The secondary effects of managing advances to the western crest of the Soissons plateau and of the British victories in the north are visible today throughout this front. Unremitting vigilance and pressure have been maintained by the French, and until yesterday afternoon there was no apparent slackening of the German defense.

Large fires at some points of the enemy rear suggested that stores of lesser importance were being destroyed, the usual prelude to a withdrawal, and common prudence made it probable that the stubbornly protracted stand on the Nesle-Noyon Canal, on the hills above Noyon and on the Vesle would not last much longer.

However, Hill 77, just east of Nesle, was still being held, or at least its farther slopes. In the Noyon salient the French could make progress only a few hundred yards to Genvry on their left and Saliecy on their right.

South of the Aisne there was no change.

Last evening and last night a certain weakening of resistance was experienced along the Canal du Nord, and Chapitre Wood, with Hill 96, just beyond it, and the village of Bussy were occupied without much difficulty.

This morning it became evident that the main body of the enemy had been withdrawn, and that only strong rearguards had been left. The French at once began to move forward along and on the north of the Noyon-Ham highroad, and the fact that their cavalry patrols quickly reached the hamlet of St. Martin, two miles short of Guiscard, made it plain that there was a general retreat.

On the western part of the Vesle front great fires burned against the night sky on the northern hills, and at daybreak the river was easily forced at several points. The tongue of ground between the Vesle and the Aisne rises abruptly to 300 feet above these valleys, and the naked fields of the summit are edged by narrow wooded gullies in which a few machine gunners could ambush any indiscreet advance.

Between these two areas the army of General Mangin hammers unceasingly at the central bastion of the next German positions.

In the Ailette sector his troops this morning passed beyond the patches of woodland that have delayed them between the river and the Coucy-Laon Road and came into the open before a hill crowned by the immense white ruin of the donjon of Coucy-le-Chateau. Here and at Jumencourt they are very near the French lines of last March, and if, as may be expected, the enemy evacuates the lower forest of Coucy they will be once more in front of the formidable mass of the St. Gobian tableland.

Between the Ailette and the Aisne the French front now makes almost a straight line from Leuilly by Terny-Sorny and Braye to Bucy-le-Long. The investment of Laffaux, on the Chemin des Dames plateau, has begun.

Victories Due to United Effort.

At the moment when the French Army is full of enthusiasm over the great British victories in the north and unstinting in its praise of British Generals and men, it is timely to point out that the honors of this happier turn of fortune, whichever army may reap them, are the result of the united efforts of all the Allies, none of whom could stand where they do but for the harmony of their efforts, at once continuous and alternating, so brilliantly planned and directed by General Foch.

Regard for the dead and living alike, for the sacrifice of yesterday and the labors which will tomorrow yield yet larger fruit, require that this should be clearly understood.

When German command turned its mass of manoeuvre toward Paris the French armies gave the British time to recover from the severe shock. Today the southern front benefits by the splendid northern advance. Both British and French have depended, and must increasingly depend, upon American aid, which will in time take forms no less dramatic.

All our success arises from the unprecedented continuity of pressure on an unprecedented length of front. If that new condition can be maintained, the dismay now visible in the hostile camp will be rapidly extended.

AMERICANS READY TO EXPLOIT RETREAT

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE VESLE FRONT, Sept. 4, 8 A. M.—The American troops along the Vesle are poised in readiness for pursuit at the first sign of a break from the river by the Germans. The success of General Mangin's operations north of Soissons has raised hopes that the enemy will very promptly start northward. Certainly if the French can thrust forward for a matter of seven or eight kilometers beyond the Soissons-St. Quentin Road the German positions opposite Fismes will have become untenable.

The junction of the Vesle with the Aisne is a crucial point, whose surrender by the Germans must be the signal for a general retirement to the Chemin des Dames line.

The Americans within earshot of the French guns that keep battering day and night are merely awaiting the hour of their opportunity.

The doughboys have a new song. It has replaced "Tipperary" and "Over There." The first line tells the tale sufficiently. It is: "The drive that we started in Château-Thierry we will finish in Berlin."

MORHANGE BOMBED THRICE IN 24 HOURS

British Air Raids in Lorraine Also Cause Havoc at Esch and Boulay.

BELGIAN COAST RAIDED

Ostend and Zeebrugge Suffer Again—Constantinople Badly Damaged in Two Visits.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—An official communication issued by the Air Ministry today and reporting operations of the British Independent Air Force, says:

On the afternoon of the 3d instant our squadrons carried out a most successful attack on the hostile airdrome at Morhange, (Lorraine.) Several hangars received direct hits and two hostile machines on the ground were blown up. The extent of the damage is confirmed by photographs. All our machines returned safely.

On the night of the 3d-4th instant our squadrons again heavily bombed the airdrome at Morhange. Several more hangars were hit and some fires were started. The hostile airdrome at Boulay and the blast furnaces at Esch, southwest of Luxemburg, were also attacked. Direct hits were obtained on the blast furnaces and fires were started at Boulay. All our machines returned safely.

On the morning of the 4th inst. our squadrons attacked the airdrome at Morhange, this being the third attack within twenty-four hours. Excellent shooting was again made, and seven hangars received direct hits. All the bombs were seen to burst well.

One squadron attacked the Buehl airdrome with very good results. All our machines returned safely.

Constantinople was bombarded twice in the latter part of August, the Admiralty announced today. The arsenal, the dockyard, the Turkish War Office, the airdrome at Galata, the seaplane base at Gallipoli, and Chanak were attacked. The raids, which were carried out by the Royal Air Force, occurred on the nights of Aug. 25-26 and 27-28.

On. Aug. 26 and Sept. 1 the Royal Air Force, co-operating with the navy, carried out successful bombing raids on Ostend and Zeebrugge, on the Belgian coast. Thirteen tons of bombs were dropped and large fires were started, the statement announces.

MEN MUST REGISTER SEPT. 12.

Every man 18 to 45 years of age, except those already registered or in service, must register for the selective service draft on Sept. 12.

FIRST CHICAGO AIR MAIL STARTS THIS MORNING

Fliers Will Leave Belmont Field at 6 A. M. and Expect to Cover Route in Ten Hours.

The first air mail flight between New York and Chicago is scheduled to start from Belmont Field at 6 o'clock this morning. If the flight proves successful the mail plane will arrive in Chicago at about 4 P. M., and will return to New York with another load of mail on Sept. 7. About 7,000 pieces of mail weighing about 550 pounds were received at the Post Office yesterday for delivery in Chicago by post plane.

According to the program arranged by Postmaster Patten and Superintendent Norris, the collection of such mail was to close at 3 o'clock this morning, after which hour the air mail was to be taken by train to Belmont Park and loaded into the machine. The machine, according to schedule, was to make three stops to take on gasoline, at Lock Haven, Penn., and Cleveland and Bryan, Ohio.

The men designated to make the flight were Edward V. Gardner, and Max Miller, both instructors in the army aviation service. Gardner was formerly stationed at Dallas, Tex., and Miller at San Diego.

Postmaster Patten said yesterday that the flight would not mean the formal inauguration of airplane service between New York and Chicago, but merely a test upon which the Post Office will be able to determine the practicability of such service. If it proves satisfactory, regular mail service between the two cities will be established in the near future.

The first flight will be made, according to Mr. Patten, largely to note the landmarks and decide on the best landing stations on the route.

According to the schedule, the machine was to travel at the rate of 100 miles an hour, making Chicago practically in half the time of the fastest trains.

A limited number of copies of THE NEW YORK TIMES will be sent to Cleveland and Chicago today by the new air service.

The postage on each copy of THE TIMES was 52 cents.

GERMAN EMPRESS WORSE.

Now Said to be Suffering from Arterio-Sclerosis.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—The German Empress has suffered attacks of weakness and heart trouble in increasing measure, according to a Cassel dispatch to the Weser-Zeitung of Bremen. The Empress is suffering from arterio-sclerosis, and has been ordered by her physicians to keep to her bed and avoid worry and excitement.

Contrary to accounts from some other sources, the dispatch says that Emperor William gives the impression of being very fit and vigorous, but the Empress, it is stated, has lately appeared to age considerably.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Sept. 4.—The health of the German Empress, who last week became ill with heart trouble, is slightly worse today, according to the Munich newspapers.

GENERAL RETREAT EXPECTED BY PARIS

WATCHING AMERICAN ARMY

PARIS, Sept. 4.—The breach six miles wide made by the British in the Drocourt-Quéant section of the Hindenburg line has allayed any misgivings that may have existed here as to whether the Allies would not find this much-vaunted system of defense a fatal obstacle to their immediate progress. It is fully realized here that the Drocourt-Quéant sector, which the British smashed through in a day, was if anything stronger than the Hindenburg line itself.

Whatever may happen further down the line, therefore, French opinion regards as a more or less negligible matter. The outstanding fact is that the Hindenburg line has been turned from the north. British guns actually are already enfilading the German trenches behind the Quéant salient. Douai, which positions, captured yesterday, were expressly intended to protect, is under the fire of the guns of the British, whose troops this morning were within between three and four miles of this great enemy railway centre and steadily reducing the six miles which lay between them and Cambrai.

The wedge which Horne's and Byng's armies are driving into the heart of the German defenses by their simultaneous advance on Cambrai along the roads from Arras and Bapaume is regarded here as the first big nail in the coffin of the German invaders in France. It is universally believed that British success must speedily lead to a general retreat, if not along the whole French front, at least from Flanders to Laon.

Strength is given to this view chiefly by reports this morning of large fires burning all the way from the Armentières district to within six miles of Lille, the French Manchester, as well as in the Bertincourt region, between Bapaume and the Hindenburg line. It is evident that the Germans are destroying stores they are unable to remove, a sure indication of imminent retreat. Similar fires were also observed last night on the Vesle east of Soissons, which indicated unerringly that the enemy in that region, whom the Americans had been hammering so mercilessly since his retreat from the Marne, also was preparing to throw up the sponge as a result of Mangin's dogged, persistent advance toward the eastern extremity of the Chemin-des-Dames.

The question is raised here whether the British are sufficiently strong in numbers to continue their advance on Douai and Cambri, in spite of such reserves as the enemy may be able to concentrate against them.

The Germans, it is understood, still have available about twenty fresh divisions on this front, and the excellent railways which cover this region, the heart of industrial France, undoubtedly would render comparatively easy the concentration of these divisions. Their total strength cannot, however, now equal more than about 150,000 bayonets, judging from the terribly reduced numbers which latterly have been noted in the case of many of the enemy divisions. Therefore, there need be no fear as to Haig already having provided for such a contingency. Moreover, there is good reason to feel that Ludendorff would hesitate seriously to throw in his last available reserves, in view of the fact that the Allies now have the initiative and can strike where they will.

The German official communiqué yesterday, with reference to the British forces being in greatly superior numbers, may or may not have been well founded, but in any case there can be little doubt that the enemy is now feeling the shortage of numbers along the whole front very much more seriously than ever before. And it is this very fact of numbers that is winning the war for the Allies.

Opinion here is puzzled to find the reason why the great German General Staff which for over forty years has boasted that it alone knew all the secrets of modern strategy, now stands openly confessed as helpless to offer any reply to the allied methods.

Seven weeks ago yesterday, after four great offensives, all of which had proved surprisingly successful, the Germans believed they had Paris within their grasp and were within easy distance of a German peace. They were convinced that both the French and British Armies were powerless to offer further effective resistance. Two days later Foch astounded them by taking the offensive between the Aisne and the Marne, soundly beating the huge army of nearly a half million men who believed they had only to go forward and gather the fruits of their previous victories, and wrenching the initiative of the whole campaign from the enemy.

The Germans themselves confess Foch's success is a mystery to them. Week after week they have seen the pillars of their defensive line fall one after the other—Soissons, Albert, Montdidier, Lassigny, Roye, Chaulnes, Noyon, Bapaums, Croisilles, Péronne, and now Quéant, the landmark and symbol of their idolized Hindenburg line. After this anything is possible.

In French opinion the tacit admission of the German high command that it is powerless to devise any means to hold up up the victorious Allies marks the grave of the reputations of both Hindenburg and Ludendorff. These specialists of the eastern front have shown by practical experience extending over many weeks that on the western front, where something finer is required than mere ability to drive a battering ram, they are hopelessly outclassed in brain power by the superior genius of Foch.

The more the struggle develops the more opinion here is convinced that the enemy, in addition to having lost the initiative, is now losing a good deal of the enormous benefit he derived from the unity of command he always enjoyed since the beginning of the war. The present entire absence of any apparent co-ordinated plan of the enemy is regarded here as indicating that Ludendorff is no longer personally directing the retreat but is leaving matters more and more to chiefs of the various individual armies. This is possibly due to the fact that exhaustion of the general reserves has deprived the German command of its best reason for intervention in the detailed conduct of the struggle.

During the last few days the question has been raised here in certain quarters whether the apparent helplessness of the enemy on the Somme battlefront may not be due to some effort he may be making to form a large army to take the offensive on another part of the front. The possibility of this, however, is generally scouted, and for several reasons. It is pointed out that the fierceness of the fighting at many points and particularly the frequent counterattacks are evidence that the Germans are not voluntarily giving way, but are being beaten fairly and squarely everywhere. Further, the enemy is so completely mastered by the Foch tactics that he dare not reduce the number of his troops, even in the quiet sectors, as he is utterly in the dark as to where the next blow may be struck or whether it will come from the French or British.

It is felt here that American factors have already proved much more embarrassing to the Germans than has hitherto been realized by the Allies. The fact that the British and French are sustaining practically the whole burden of the present operations only adds to the puzzlement of the enemy, who cannot fail to see in this careful husbanding of so much splendid American man power a terrible menace to their whole future.

The rôle reserved for the American Army is one of the most frequent subjects of speculation here. It says much for the change which has of late months come over the public, however, that there is now no apparent desire to urge that any particular plan should be adopted. Everybody evinces the most perfect confidence in Foch and Clemenceau and is satisfied that the secret allied plans are safe in their hands.

EMPIRE MEN HELPED BRITISH AT KEMMEL

When Marshal Haig's British legions lunged forward in Flanders and began to drive the Germans before them, Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan's 27th Division of former New York National Guardsmen went along with them, according to Lester L. Walsh of 65 Wilmington Court, Brooklyn, a member of the 107th Infantry. Walsh was in the first squad of Americans to dash up Mount Kemmel on Aug. 31, indicating that the famous 7th New York and the 1st of up-State, composing the 107th, were in the van of that fierce fighting. In the squad were Sergeant Pascal Harrower and William T. Warren of Chelsea, N. Y., and Robert Johnson of Albany.

Walsh, a graduate of Erasmus Hall High School, enlisted in March, 1917, in Company B of the 7th, accompanied that regiment to Spartanburg, S. C., and went overseas with it last May.

Besides the report supplied through Walsh, many cables have been received in this city in the last few days from members of the 107th advising relatives of the soldiers' safety. One cablegram read, "Returned safely." Another, addressed to relatives of a man serving in Company I, 107th Infantry, advised of the death of the soldier.

In advance of publication in the casualty lists, two casualties in the 27th were ascertained yesterday. The first was Lawrence Trimble of Company E, 107th, who was severely wounded in action on Aug. 17 "somewhere in France," according to the official notification sent to his mother, Mrs. George Trimble, at 230 Sixteenth Street, College Point. A few hours after the telegram arrived at the Trimble home, the soldier's mother received a letter from him written on Aug. 4 stating that he was in excellent health and "enjoying the game of chasing the Hun." Trimble is 20 years of age, and as soon as the United States entered the war joined the 12th New York. He was transferred to the 107th when Colonel Reginald L. Foster's organization was transformed into pioneer infantry at Camp Wadsworth.

Sergeant Harry Strickland of Company E, 106th Infanry, the all-Brooklyn unit of the 27th, was wounded in action on Aug. 11. This information was in a telegram received by his parents at 58 Milford Street, Brooklyn, yesterday. Strickland enlisted in the 14th New York at the beginning of the war, and retained his Sergeantcy when that regiment was consolidated with the 23d New York to form the 106th Infantry.

MEN 18 to 45 wanted for Tank Operators

Men with initiative, eager for a chance to distinguish themselves, are offered great opportunities in the Tank, Tractor and Wireless Divisions. Our Tractor Mechanics and Wireless Courses qualify you for better pay and rapid promotion.

Tank Division

Our course will qualify you as a Tank mechanician or operator. It will also enable you to operate and repair a farm tractor.

Tank service strongly appeals to fighting men eager for action. All men enlist as privates and are promoted solely on merit. Great opportunity is offered for rapid promotion leading to a commission.

Tractor Division

Horses are being replaced "behind the lines" by caterpillar tractors. Thousands of trained operators and expert mechanicians are needed to man these "iron horses," which now bring up the big guns and supplies. This work is of the utmost importance, as it is the artery which furnishes the steady flow of ammunition and food.

Wireless Thousands of competent operators, electricians, engineers and inspectors are needed to fill responsible commissions in the Aviation, Artillery, Signal Corps, Naval Reserve, and on Battleships, Transports and ships of the Merchant Marine. Our thorough courses prepare you in short time to qualify for a Government license.

LIEUT. COL. LAURSON KILLED IN PICARDY

When In the Eleventh Cavalry He Served in Cuba and Philippines.

NOW WITH FIELD ARTILLERY

LIEUT. COL. EMIL P. LAURSON was killed on the Picardy front on Aug. 13, according to an announcement received by his wife at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Born thirty-eight years ago in South Dakota, he was graduated at West Point in 1903 and assigned to the 11th Cavalry, serving in Cuba and the Philippines. While at Manila he married Miss Gertrude Mills, daughter of Major Gen. Albert L. Mills, after whom Camp Mills, Mineola, was named. Colonel Laurson went to France as a Major of cavalry, but was soon promoted and assigned to a field artillery unit.

CAPTAIN VAN SANTVOORDT MERLE-SMITH of Company L, 165th Infantry, has received his second wound, a cablegram to his father, the Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle-Smith, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, 593 Madison Avenue, stated yesterday. The cable stated that Captain Smith had been hit by shrapnel in the right arm, but would soon be out of the hospital. He is 28 years old, and has been with the 165th since the Mexican mobilization. Two years ago he married Miss Fowler of Pasadena, Cal., and she and her infant son are living at 156 East Seventy-ninth Street. Captain Merle-Smith was graduated in 1911 at Princeton, where he had been a star football player. His grandfather was Commodore Van Santvoordt, founder of the Albany Day Line.

LIEUT. OLIVER ALLEN, severely wounded, lived at 600 West 192nd Street, but at the outset of war was living in Georgia, holding commission of Captain in that State's guard. He resigned to enter Plattsburg, and was commissioned a lieutenant and assigned to Company D, 18th Infantry. Company D was one of the first American units sent against the Germans on July 18, the date the big German retreat began.

LIEUT. HAROLD I. FAIR, severely wounded, was commissioned at the first Plattsburg camp. He was graduated at Lehigh University in 1914, and was a student at the Cambridge Theological Seminary, qualifying for the Episcopal ministry, when he volunteered. His home is at 882 Union Street, Brooklyn.

CORPORAL FRANCIS DOW was killed in action on Aug. 3, a telegram stated that came to Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Dow as they were entertaining their second soldier son, Lieutenant Charles Dow, at their home at 593 Madison Avenue, Elizabeth, N. J. Corporal Dow entered the service in July, 1917.

Sergeant Mason Dead.

SERGEANT ALBERT G. MASON died in action on Aug. 3, according to notification sent to his mother, Mrs. Minnia Mason, at 117 Patchen Avenue, Brooklyn. Three years ago he joined the 47th Infantry, and he saw service in the Philippines and Mexico. He was an only son and 25 years old.

JULIUS STRAUSS of Company M, 308th Infantry, was killed in action on Aug. 17, his father, Jacob Strauss of Fifth Avenue, Rockaway Park, has been informed. He was 30 years old and in business at Rockaway when called to the colors.

CHARLES JAMES DAWSON of the 306th Infantry and of Camp Upton gave his life on July 21. He formerly lived with his father, a Police Lieutenant, at 588 Grant Avenue, Brooklyn. He was 21 years old, was graduated at St. James Academy, and had three years to his credit as a navy gun pointer.

CHARLES STEPHENS, after five years in the regulars, was killed on July 18 when fighting with Company H, 58th Infantry, 5th Division. He was 25 years old, an electrician, and lived at 283 Halsey Street, Newark.

LEWIS F. CABASINO, automatic rifleman in Company C, 4th Infantry, was killed in action on July 19, his twenty-fifth birthday. He was shot down when acting as a stretcher-bearer. He was born in Palermo, Italy, and when called to the colors lived at 518 East Eighty-first Street.

NICHOLAS J. Y. TARKAGEKES, killed in an explosion on June 3, was a twenty-two-year-old member of Company B, 306th Infantry. He wrote to his brother at 68 West 116th Street a short time ago, predicting that he would soon be killed. He was a Camp Upton man.

LOUIS SOBEL, wounded, is 23 years old and lived at 117 Forsyth Street. He was picked in the first draft, went overseas with the 9th Infantry, and later joined the 307th Supply Train.

JAMES WALSH was "winged by a Hun" July 18, according to his letter to his mother, Mrs. Julia Walsh of 44 Columbia Place, Brooklyn. Walsh, the only support of his widowed mother, enlisted early in the war.

GEORGE CUDWORTH enlisted in Company A, 28th Infantry, two years ago and was wounded on July 18. He is 19 years old, lived at 48 Greenwood Avenue, Montclair, N. J., and managed a chain of grocery stores there.

Brooklyn Man Wounded.

JOSEPH C. McMULLEN wrote his sister at 396 De Graw Street, Brooklyn, that his wounds were slight and that he would soon be back in the line. McMullen, listed as severely wounded, is serving with the 38th Infantry. He attended St. John's Parochial School, Brooklyn.

WILLARD D. MALONEY of Company A, 6th Engineers, is recovering from severe wounds. Maloney lived at Keyport, N. J., and was employed by the New Jersey Central Railroad.

MICHAEL PROTO, listed among the wounded, is 29 years old, and lived with his wife and young child in Arlington, N. J., before he joined Company I, 38th Infantry.

BERNARD COHEN, wounded in degree undetermined, lived at 804 East 178th Street. He left Camp Upton with the 77th Division. He was shell-shocked on July 24. He is 22 years old and a clothes designer.

JOSEPH J. DALY, reported wounded, has been five years with the 69th Regiment, now the 165th. The telegram to his cousin, Peter Campbell of 425 Forty-third Street, Brooklyn, said Daly was hit on July 16. He was formerly employed in a stock broker's office.

SERGEANT MICHAEL SOLOMON, reported missing on July 19, has written twice since then to a brother saying he was wounded, but was recovering.

JOHN J. MORAN of the 38th Infantry has written several letters since he was reported missing on July 12. The missives to his father, received at 49 Wayne Street, Jersey Street, pictured Moran as having the time of his life in a rest camp, "pitching no-hit games."

LUKE REAGAN, another 38th Infantryman among the missing, lived at 15 Union Street, Jersey City. He is 24 years old, a shipbuilder, and was trained at Camp Dix.

Lieut. Diplock Dies a Prisoner.

Lieutenant Douglas G. Diplock, 22 years old, of the British Machine Gun Corps, has died in a German hospital, his father, Marcus Diplock of North Plainfield, N. J., announced yesterday. Diplock was reported missing on March 21. Prior to joining the British forces in 1915 he worked for the Royal Insurance Company.

Why your regular barber is on strike

A RECENTLY organized Barbers' Union called our men out on strike without a minute's notice, without any known grievances, without presenting any demands.

After the men were out, the Union Leader demanded, among other things, a minimum commission of 50% on all receipts and the practical control of our business. They demanded the right to fix the qualifications and fitness of applicants and the right to pass upon the fairness of the reasons and causes for the discharge of workers.

We were willing to, and did, grant all monetary demands—but in view of the Personal Service we render the public, we naturally refused to surrender control of our business to the Union Leader.

Our men received the highest pay in the city. Their weekly earnings, before the strike, averaged from $35 to $50 per man.

We wish to apologize to our customers for the inevitable inconvenience to which they were put immediately following the calling of the strike. But our service is now fully restored to its former standards.

GRAVES ARRIVES AT VLADIVOSTOK

RUSSIANS AIDING CZECHS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—President Wilson's announced plans for aiding Russia and assisting the Czechoslovak forces in Central Siberia have now reached the point where important developments are expected in connection with the execution of the project.

Major Gen. William S. Graves, who sailed from California with his staff several weeks ago, has arrived at Vladivostok to assume command of the American forces there. General March, as Chief of Staff, today received a cablegram announcing the safe arrival of General Graves and of forty-three officers and 1,888 men who crossed the Pacific on the same ship with him, to supplement the two regiments of American regular infantrymen already there.

General Graves arrived at Vladivostok almost simultaneously with the formal announcement yesterday of the recognition by the United States Government of the belligerency of the Czechoslovaks and of their National Council here as a de facto government. President Masaryk of that Council has submitted to the Washington Government a statement of the needs of the Czechoslovak army in Russia and Siberia, and it is expected that action will soon be taken on the basis of this information.

Secretary Lansing's official dispatches today brought news of further Czechoslovak successes. Ambassador Francis reported under date of Aug. 26 from Murmansk, in Northern Russia, that loyal Russians were flocking to the support of the Czechoslovak forces in European Russia. An official dispatch from the American Legation at Peking brought word from American Consul Harris at Irkutsk that the Czechoslovaks had "destrowed" the Bolshevist army east of Lake Baikal. This message was filed by Consul Harris at Irkutsk on Aug. 13 and only covered the situation up to that time.

The dispatch from Consul Harris, after stating that the Czechoslovaks had "destroyed" the Bolshevist Army east of Lake Baikal, and that former Foreign Minister Sazanoff had been murdered near Simbirsk, reported the results of a trip which the Consul had made along the Siberian Railway westward from Irkutsk. On this journey he visited Omsk, a point on the Siberian Railway, more than 800 miles west of Irkutsk, and Cheliabinsk in the Ural region, 800 miles west of Omsk.

The report received from Ambassador Francis contained what was regarded as the very significant information that 80,000 loyal Russians were operating with the Czechoslovak forces in the Ekaterinburg district. The Ambassador said his information was obtained from a Czechoslovak officer who had been sent by the Czechoslovak commander at Ekaterinburg at the request of the allied consuls there, to bear news of what was going on.

The American Legation at Christiania informed the State Department today that the Norwegian Chargé d'Affaires at Petrograd had reported to the Norwegian Foreign Office that he had just spoken to American Vice Consul Imbrie, who said he himself, as well as other Americans in Moscow and Petrograd, were well and at liberty.

Peasants Rise in Rear of Reds.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—Soviet troops advancing in the direction of Ufa, Perm, and Saratov are in a difficult position owing to a sudden rising of the peasants, according to a Moscow dispatch to the Berlin Kreuz-Zeitung. The peasants are threatening the Soviet forces from the rear.

Measures are being taken, it is stated, to suppress the revolt.

PEKING, Sept. 4, (Associated Press.)—The Japanese have proposed to the Chinese authorities changes of the gauge of the Chinese Eastern Railway to conform to that of the South Manchurian Railway, which would facilitate the operations of allied forces westward. The Japanese promised to furnish the rolling stock from their own surplus.

The Chinese replied, however, that the Japanese had no such surplus, which must come from the United States. The Chinese fear that the proposal involves Japanese supremacy in North Manchuria, which would prove embarrassing in the final settlement of affairs.

DISREGARDS WILSON ON THE POWER BILL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The House today rejected President Wilson's suggestion that the recapture clause of the Administration Water Power bill be amended to eliminate the provision for paying the net investment in the event that power projects are taken under Federal, State, or municipal control at the end of the lease periods. The recommendation of the Water Power Committee was retained, the House defeating, 96 to 71, a proposal by Representative Ferris of Oklahoma, that "fair value" be substituted for "net investment," as urged by the President.

Representatives of power interests had asked for the retention of the net investment provision, contending that under the President's proposal power promoters could not obtain capital.

Immediately after the vote, Mr. Ferris offered a substitute covering virtually the same ground, but making the provision somewhat broader. It was rejected.

Chairman Sims said tonight no attempt could be made to vote again on the amendment in the house and indications were that the measure would be passed tomorrow with the net investment retained. It was said, however, an attempt would be made to reach a compromise in the Senate.

The House went on record today as favoring the fifty-year lease period with the Government or any municipality having the right to take over power projects at the expiration of the leasing period upon payment of the net investment. An amendment by Representative Doremus of Michigan, giving the Government the right to take over the projects at any time, was voted down.

CLOSES FRENCH WAR FUND.

District Attorney Finds Expenses of Restoration Project Excessive.

Miss Jean Wick, Acting Secretary of the French Restoration Fund of 33 West Forty-second Street, was requested by the District Attorney yesterday to discontinue her activities and collections on behalf of the fund. The fund was organized a year ago by Mrs. Cecile Sartoris, wife of Algernon Sartoris, grandson of President U. S. Grant. It was her purpose to use the fund to replace destroyed French homes and to restore to cultivation lands ruined by the German invasion. For some months Mrs. Sartoris has been in France planning to apply the fund when sufficient money had been raised. Many well-known women were associated with Mrs. Sartoris and Supreme Court Justice Guy headed the list of officers.

There was no charge against Miss Wick, but, following an investigation by Assistant District Attorney Kilroe, Mr. Swann invited Miss Wick to his office for a conference yesterday. While Miss Wick had received only $25 a week for her services, Mr. Swann said he had fond the expenses of the organization apparently excessive. Out of $9,000 collected during the year, some $7,000 had gone for expenses and overhead charges, said the District Attorney, who thought the work should be conducted on a more economical basis. Judge Swann sent a letter to Justice Guy notifying him of his action.

THREAT TO OUTLAW EACH SOVIET MEMBER

as the British officials were allowed to pass the Russo-Finnish frontier, M. Litvinoff and all the members of his staff should have permission to proceed immediately to Russia.

We have now learned that a decree was published on Aug. 29 ordering the arrest of all British and French subjects between the ages of 18 and 40, and that British officials have been arrested on trumped-up charges of conspiring against the Soviet Government.

His Majesty's Government has therefore found it necessary to place M. Litvinoff and the members of his staff under preventive arrest until such time as all British representatives are set at liberty and allowed to proceed to the Finnish frontier free from molestation.

Captain Cromie was one of the first British submarine officers to earn the Distinguished Service Order. He won this honor by his prowess in sinking a number of German vessels, including the cruiser Undine, which was sent to the bottom in the Baltic when Captain Cromie was in command of the British submarine flotilla in those waters.

LENINE HAS A RELAPSE.

Condition of Wounded Bolshevist Premier Said to be Critical.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The condition of Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevist Premier, against whose life an attempt was made last Friday, has become highly critical, according to a dispatch from Moscow to the Central News Agency. The crisis is expected within three days. Surgeons have removed a bullet from Lenine's body.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—The assassin of Moses Uritzky, the People's Commissary for Home Affairs, who was shot at Petrograd on Aug. 31, was a young man who waylaid his victim in the waiting room of the Commissariat of Internal Affairs, according to a Moscow dispatch to the Berliner Tageblatt. The man fired as soon as Uritzky entered the room, and then ran out and mounted a bicycle which he had left outside.

The assassin was pursued by soldiers in a motor car to a house, where the man hurriedly put on an overcoat and tried to escape in that disguise by another door. This exit, however, had been blocked by the Red Guards. Twenty shots were fired before the man was arrested. He gave the name of Leonid Kannegiessers, and said he was a former student at the Michael School for Officers.

RATIFIES NEW TREATIES.

Bolshevist Committee Also Approves Policy of Leaders.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—According to the Izvestia of Moscow the Bolshevist Central Executive Committee has ratified the recently drafted supplementary agreements to the Brest-Litovsk treaty and they have been dispatched to Berlin for ratification by the German Government next Friday.

According to the Pravda a secret communist meeting was held last week at Moscow when Premier Lenine reported on the contents of the new treaties. The Premier, according to the newspaper, pointed out the improvements when compared with the Brest-Litovsk treaty, and said:

"A number of towns and provinces have been returned to us. We have full liberty regarding the nationalization of our political economy."

The policy of the Council of Peoples' Commissaries was approved at the meeting.

DOUBTS GERMAN ULTIMATUM.

London Now Discredits Report of Demand Made for Passage of Troops

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—No confirmation of the reports of a German ultimatum on the Bolsheviki demanding free passage for troops through Russia to attack the Czechoslovaks and Allies has been obtained, and there is now little disposition to attach much credence to them for two particular reasons.

In the first place the relations between the German Government and the Bolsheviki and their common interest in opposing the Czechoslovaks are more calculated to bring about united action. The Bolsheviki might be counted upon to look around for a method by which a proffer of German assistance against the Czechoslovaks could be utilized.

Secondly, a German ultimatum to the Bolsheviki would be directly at variance with the policy of conciliation which Germany is following and evidence of which is seen in revisions of the Brest-Litovsk treaty which have been promised by Germany.

On the other hand, it is considered to be a possibility of the situation that the German Government is convinced of the approaching dissolution of the Bolshevist régime and has made such headway in its dickerings with emissaries of the moderate Russian parties, who are in Berlin, that Berlin sees no further need to maintain a conciliatory attitude toward the Bolsheviki.

As against this view it is argued that the delivery of an ultimatum foreshadowing a German attack on the Czechoslovaks and allies in Siberia would be a valuable indication of her military plans to the allied command.

GERMAN TROOPS MUTINY.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Sept. 4.—German troops in Esthonia are showing signs of insubordination, according to advices received here from Russia. Several hundred soldiers have hoisted the red flag, singing the Marseillaise. Their officers were powerless to keep order.

At Reval 400 German soldiers and sailors took part in similar demonstrations, according to the reports.

FOR FREE RUSSIA.

A Great Mass Meeting on Russia to be Held Tonight at Carnegie Hall.

The Inter-Party League for the Restoration of Free Russia, uniting all Russian political organizations in this country, except the Bolsheviki and the Monarchists, has called a mass meeting to be held at Carnegie Hall at 8 o'clock tonight. The theme of the evening is "The Terror of the Bolsheviki and Allied Help to Russia."

Prominent English and Russian speakers will address the meeting. Among the speakers will be Allen Benson, former Presidential candidate of the American Socialist Party, who left the party, being pro-Ally; William English Walling, J. G. Phelps Stokes, and Frank Bohn; Alexis F. Staal, Chief Attorney of the Moscow Court of Appeals under the Provisional Government; A. A. Boublikov, former Commissaire of the Duma; A. J. Sack, Director of the Russian Information Bureau in the United States; General C. M. Oberoucheff, former Military Commander in the Kiev District under the Provisional Government; Dr. N. Syrkin, prominent Jewish leader, and M. Katz, one of the leaders of the Socialist-Revolutionists in this country.

FOR ARMY OFFICERS

All Uniforms At Actual Cost

IN two ways, the Stern Brothers plan of distributing Kirschbaum-made uniforms at cost is altogether noteworthy and unique.... First, in the quality—the surpassing fitting, looking and wearing qualities of the uniforms themselves.... Second, in the fact that our cost plan is not restricted to something an officer may not want—but covers anything and everything in uniforms and overcoats which the regulations allow.

CANADA

The American Manufacturers' Opportunity

NOW is the time for American Manufacturers to become acquainted with the great opportunities offered them by their Northern neighbor and Ally; NOW is their opportune time to take advantage of the many benefits to be gained by establishing their interests in Canada. The people of Canada are large importers from the United States, the imports for the year ending 31st March, 1917, amounting to the substantial total of $657,631,000.

Prosperous Canada

Canada, even under present war conditions, is experiencing an era of remarkable prosperity. Financially, the country was never sounder. Industrially, never so busy. From coast to coast her shipyards, steel plants, textile mills and other industries are operating at maximum capacity.

Following the war, this period of expansion will continue and increase. Canada's immense natural resources, up to the present time, have been but partly developed; a great tide of immigration will flow in to cover her wonderful WHEAT, FARMING AND GRAZING LANDS. From the ranks of her returning soldiers will be recruited thousands of mechanics, artisans and skilled laborers to again take their places in her factories; and from her mines, fields and forests other workers will gather her raw materials.

Great Export Trade

When shipping and export conditions return to normal, a great export trade from Canada will develop, particularly with the British Empire, British Colonies and the West Indies.

The Canadian manufacturer, directly benefiting by the Imperial Preferential Tariffs, will be the logical exporter to these markets, and the movement of trade will be expedited by the direct steamship service under Canadian Government subsidies which now operates to these countries.

An imposing group of American manufacturers—over five hundred in number—appreciating the important present and future opportunities of the Canadian domestic and export markets, have already established in Canada, and are prospering in their new field of endeavor.

Canadian Incorporation

The chief advantages of Canadian incorporation are—

1. The acquiring of a distinct legal and local status with all Canadian advantages to local enterprises, including the avoidance of a dual or inequitable taxation which may be imposed upon a foreign manufacturer exporting into Canada.

2. The benefit of preferences both in the domestic and in the British, Colonial and West Indies markets; and the avoidance of embargoes, duties and extraordinary expenses on products entering Canada.

3. The facilitation of banking and credit arrangements; the securing of local investment, municipal co-operation and assistance.

4. The obtaining of favorable manufacturing conditions; cheap power, labor, etc., and the creation of a position on which to meet domestic competition, and to take advantage of Canadian export opportunities.

Who May Benefit

This announcement is addressed to manufacturers who may be considering establishing in Canada; to those desirous of increasing and further developing their present trade with the Dominion, and to all desiring reliable information regarding Canada.

We have made a careful study of MANUFACTURING, MERCHANDISING and EXPORT conditions; and have collected complete data on the whole subject.

Our attorneys are specialists in corporation law, and thoroughly conversant with the legal requirements in the different Provinces and municipalities.

Our bankers are prepared to co-operate closely with our clients and to assist meritorious enterprises.

We are, therefore, equipped and qualified to offer complete service, our organization working together with our clients, taking up their individual requirements and carrying them through to a successful completion.

Comprehensive Service

To the manufacturer intending establishing in Canada our service, briefly, includes:—

A personal study and analysis of each particular proposition; the Company incorporation under best form of character; expert legal advice and counsel;

The selection of the most advantageous location; purchase or lease of property; securing from local municipality the best possible terms and arrangements; assistance in the designing, erection and equipment of plant.

The obtaining of banking and credit facilities; the negotiating of securities, when desired;

The services of an export organization with established offices in the British Colonies and the West Indies; expert advice as to marketing goods, purchase of raw materials, etc.

For our services we charge a fee commensurate with the importance and labor involved in the undertaking.

CAPTAIN ROOSEVELT SEES HIS BABY SON

Surgeons at Bronx Hospital Decide Wound Will Not Be Harmed by Visit to Oyster Bay.

HIS ARM STILL PARALYZED

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 4.—Captain Archibald B. Roosevelt, first of the four sons of Colonel Roosevelt to be wounded in action, arrived at the family home at Sagamore Hill late this afternoon after surgeons at the Army Base Hospital at Williamsbridge had granted him an overnight leave so that he could come here to see his five-months-old son Archie, who was born in Boston while Captain Roosevelt was in France.

He arrived at an Atlantic port on a hospital ship on Monday, and immediately telephoned to Colonel Roosevelt here, so that his wife, who was Miss Grace S. Lockwood of Boston, could arrange to go to see him. She left last night for Washington, expecting to meet Captain Roosevelt at the home of his sister, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, but he was directed to proceed at once to the Base Hospital at Williamsbridge, in the Bronx.

When he reached the base hospital he telephoned to his home and Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt started at once for the hospital by motor. They had hardly reached there when Mrs. Archie Roosevelt arrived. She had learned in Washington that the army order for his transfer had been issued. After the members of the family had been talking with him for a few minutes in one of the visitors' rooms a surgeon directed Captain Roosevelt to report at once to an examination room.

While the surgeons were making minute examination of the shrapnel wounds in his arm Captain Roosevelt told them that he would like to see his young son at Sagamore Hill. Upon learning that the officer had never seen the child the surgeon said that he could leave the hospital for the night upon condition that he would be "careful." Despite the slight stiffness of the healed wounds in his right knee Captain Roosevelt made good speed back to the visitors' room with the news. The surgeon followed him. "Do you call running like a racehorse being careful?" he asked.

When the motor drew up at Sagamore Hill, Archie, Jr., was asleep in a carriage under a tree. He objected to being disturbed in tones that stirred the admiration of his grandfather, but he became quiet when his interest was directed to the gold and blue stripes on the sleeve of his father's uniform, denoting a year's service at the front and a wound in battle.

Colonel Roosevelt and his wife remained on the veranda watching Captain and Mrs. Roosevelt as they sat under the tree with the baby. Archie's mother expressed fear that he might strain his arm trying to hold the baby, and the Colonel said it probably was a good thing that the surgeon wasn't there to oversee his efforts.

Captain Roosevelt's arm is paralyzed because shrapnel fragments cut the nerves in the elbow, and he is forbidden to try to raise it from his side. It is not in a sling, but is bound in a bandage of elastic and linen. Surgeons here have expressed no opinion upon the condition of the arm, but it was repeated that surgeons in France said it would be several months before he would be able to use it freely. The wound in his knee is healed completely and he is not lame. The same shell that injured his leg broke his left arm in two places.

His general condition is excellent, and surgeons said he appeared to have been benefited greatly by the sea voyage. He was wounded on March 11 last while in command of a platoon from the 26th Infantry in a raid in No Man's Land. After lying several hours where he fell he was carried to the dressing station and thence to a hospital in Paris, where he received the Croix de Guerre. All his protests against being invalided home were disregarded. Captain Roosevelt's older brother, Theodore, Jr., has also been wounded in France, and his younger brother, Quentin, was killed in an air fight in July. Archie and Major Theodore went to France in June, 1917, after they had finished their courses at the Plattsburg Training Camp.

CONVICT STEAMSHIP MEN.

Captain and Officers Guilty of Conspiracy Against Government.

Captain Leeland P. Hawkins of the steamship Yadkin and five other officers of the ship were found guilty of conspiracy against the Government by a jury before United States Judge Thomas I. Chatfield in the United States Court in Brooklyn last night. Those convicted with Captain Hawkins, all of whom can be sentenced to two years' imprisonment and fined $10,000, are John E. Wolf, Chief Engineer Edward Reddy, chief officer; George McGinsh, second officer; Joseph Hammeling, first assistant engineer, and Edward Wetzel, second assistant engineer.

The men took food for the Allies to Europe on the Yadkin and instead of coming directly back to this country cruised about the Mediterranean, spending all their money and selling the ship's stores to obtain more to finance the cruise. They will be sentenced on Friday.

THREE STUDENTS DROWNED

Leaky Rowboat Sinks in Hudson Before Help Arrives.

Three high school students in a party of six were drowned in the Hudson off 149th Street yesterday when their rowboat was swamped. They were Margaret Dunn, 15 years old, of 834 Riverside Drive; Ruth Carpenter, 15, of 535 West 150th Street, and John Swartzman, 17, of 1,461 Amsterdam Avenue. Their bodies were not recovered although police of Harbor Squad A began at once to drag the river. Other occupants of the boat were rescued and Edith Harth, 18, of 530 West 152d Street, was taken to the St. Lawrence Hospital suffering from immersion.

The students hired a boat at the foot of 152d Street and had been on the river for several hours. When they were within a few hundred feet of shore on their return the boat began to leak, and sank before the boatmen could reach them. Vincent Reilley, 16 years old, who lives in the boathouse and was rowing for the party, aided in rescuing Miss Harth. He was able to go home after physicians had given him first aid.

MEN MUST REGISTER SEPT. 12.

Every man 18 to 45 years of age, except those already registered or in service, must register for the selective service draft on Sept. 12.

A Message to American Business

The Lesson of British Experience

Chamber of Commerce, Associate Member American Chamber of Commerce in London

"IN four years of war, many things have happened in Great Britain that I am quite sure you will be interested in hearing about.

"Some wonderful things have happened in advertising, through war conditions, and I want to touch on some of those things, that you may be prepared for the conditions that will probably arise as the war goes on. In the last four years the business men of Great Britain have learned more concerning the importance of building good-will through advertising than they did in forty years preceding the war.

"In considering business conditions in England you must bear in mind that ONE-HALF OF ALL THE MEN IN ENGLAND BETWEEN THE AGES OF 18 AND 51 ARE IN MILITARY OR NAVAL SERVICE. That means ONE-THIRD of our entire male population, from the infants in the cradle to the extremely old.

"You must bear in mind that 5,000,000 British women who never worked before have voluntarily gone to work to fill the places of men at the front. Hundreds of our women are working in factories making TNT—a work that ruins the hair and turns the skin yellow—thus sacrificing their beauty for the rest of their lives for the sake of Britain and freedom. We have only one business in England and that is to win the war. We are all concentrated on that one thing, even to the boys and girls.

"You would think under such conditions, with as many men in active service, in proportion to population, as you would have if you had 18,000,000 men in uniform—you would think under such conditions that retail business would be bound to be bad. And yet business is wonderfully good. You American business men are now in much the same position as were the British businessmen at the end of their first year of war. You are wondering what will be the effect of increasing selective service—you are anticipating restrictions on your business—and I want to tell you some of our experiences so you can profit by them.

"The department stores of any country usually reflect the state of trade. The profits of the twelve leading London department stores during the period of war were as follows: Fiscal year 1914-15, profits $4,950,000; 1915-16, $4,250,000; 1916-17, $5,575,000. In the Provinces the profits of the nine leading stores were: 1914-15, $750,000; 1915-16, $945,000; 1916-17, $1,150,000.

"In the wholesale trade, the seven largest British houses increased their profits from $3,429,000 in 1914-15 to $5,885,000 in 1916-17. In the grocery trade, our leading chain-store firm made a profit of $2,313,755 in 1916-17 and increased it to $3,736,000 in 1917-18, the latter figure being $1,000,000 per annum over their average for the previous five years. Lest you should think this is profiteering, I will tell you that the turn-overs justify such profits, and further, the British Government has recently declared there was no profiteering. Trade is good, abnormally good in England, because never before in its history have there been so many workers per thousand population—never before has the wealth of the country been so evenly distributed.

"The experience of Britain's retail stores contains an object lesson which should not be lost on the business men of America. During the first few months of the war, many stores cut down their advertising. But Selfridge did not. He did not skip a single day. He used all the space the papers would allow him to use and has continued to do so. The result was that Selfridge's profits during the first year of the war were $573,000; during the second, $750,000, and during the third year, $1,125,000.

"Another London store, much larger than Selfridge's at the start of the war, decided to cut down its advertising, and did so until they saw their mistake, and the result is shown in their returns. This store's profits for the first year of the war were $1,546,000; for the second year, $1,000,000; and for the third year, $1,175,000. From fourth or fifth place among London stores, in volume of business and profits, at the start of the war, Selfridge has climbed to SECOND place as the result of his continuous advertising, and he would be FIRST today, had not the war prevented building additions to his store.

"British manufacturers who have not a dollar's worth of merchandise to sell, whose entire plants are employed on Government work, are keeping their advertising continuously before the public, because while they are perfectly willing to turn their profits over to the Government, while they are perfectly willing for the sake of winning the war to have their factories commandeered and their normal business completely stopped, yet they are not willing to sacrifice their good-will; they are not willing to have their names or their products forgotten.

"And so they continue their advertising, continue building their good-will, so that when the war shall be won there will be an immediate demand for the billions of dollars' worth of merchandise that their greatly enlarged factories will then turn out.

"This is a time when every manufacturer, every business man, should look far ahead. Good-will cannot be built in a day, even by advertising. The war will not last always. We have all seen the mistake of being unprepared for war; it is almost as great and serious a mistake to be UNPREPARED FOR PEACE.

"What are you going to do with your acres and acres of enlarged factory space now employed in the making of War Products all over America, if you don't build good-will now for the goods you are going to make when the war is won? How are you going to keep the smoke coming out of your factory chimneys after peace is declared, if you don't keep your name constantly before the public now, and build a demand for your peace-time products that will insure a satisfactory business the minute you stop making munitions or other war supplies?

"The war has taught the manufacturers and business men of Britain that advertising is not only the least expensive way to sell goods, but that it also has the far more important function of BUILDING GOOD-WILL—a good-will whose benefits, especially in critical times, can hardly be measured. British business men have also learned that advertising can be used in time of war to stop the sale of their goods, and at the same time retain and even increase the good-will of the public. In a few cases British corporations have realized when it was too late, and after irrevocable damage was done, that advertising would have saved them.

"Moreover, you Americans must not forget your opportunities for foreign trade. Millions of people in Great Britain and France and Italy and Central and South America will be looking to you for American-made goods when the war is over. Those of you who are best prepared, those of you whose good-will is most firmly established, will reap the greatest benefit.

"From the outbreak of the war British business men clearly recognized their duty to their country and its fighting men. It was essential that they should strain every nerve to keep the trade of the country as near normal as possible during the war and it is just as essential that when peace comes they must be prepared to keep every factory working at full pressure and to find employment for every employable unit. It is only by such methods that Britain can pay for her share of the war.

"No nation stands to gain as much commercially from the war as does America. In Great Britain the per capita income is $236, and the per capita debt $589; in the United States your per capita income is $352, and your per capita debt is $63.

"As you gentlemen know, I have been interested in fostering Anglo-American trade for many years. And I want to warn your manufacturing and export houses that NOW is the time to prepare for peace. I find a tendency here to neglect preparations for export trade until peace has been declared. There could not be a greater mistake. Now is not the time to export, but most emphatically now IS the time to lay your plans and build good-will.

"Through a long experience with Anglo-American trade I know that most of the failures made by British houses exporting to this country and of American houses exporting to Great Britain, have come about through the lack of adequately understanding the temperaments of the public in the two countries.

"These are times of rapid and tremendous change. No man can rest on his laurels. Those who were leaders last year, those who are leaders now in their respective business lines, may be surpassed next year by far-seeing, efficient and THOROUGHLY PREPARED competitors who have laid their plans a long way in advance."

WHITMAN WON BY 163,000 FROM LEWIS

160,000 MAJORITY FOR SMITH

Revised returns from Tuesday's State-wide direct primary election, with the vote in New York City completely covered and 381 election districts out of a total of 3,714 outside of the city missing and some counties estimated, give Governor Charles S. Whitman an indicated majority in the State of 163,000 over Attorney General Merton E. Lewis. The latest returns show that the Governor carried the primaries in every borough in this city and had a lead over his opponent in every county outside of the city with the exception of Albany, where William Barnes, who strongly supported Lewis, is the leader, and Orleans.

The complete returns from up-State and full returns from the city give to Alfred E. Smith, President of the Aldermen, an indicated majority in the State of 160,000 over William Church Osborn.

In the Republican primaries Governor Whitman had a majority in this city of 40,816 over Attorney General Lewis, the total vote being Whitman, 66,078; Lewis, 25,262. Governor Whitman carried the primaries in every borough and Assembly district in the city with the exception of three in Brooklyn, which borough had been claimed as their tower of strength by the Lewis supporters. The three districts in Brooklyn carried by the Attorney General were the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, and Twenty-second. In each the Lewis majorities were scant. In the Twenty-second, where Jacob A. Livingston, the Republican chieftain in Kings, and Lewis's chief supporter, is the leader, Governor Whitman's opponent won by a half dozen votes.

In the Republican contests over the nominations for Lieutenant Governor and Attorney General, Lieut. Gen. Edward Schoeneck and State Senator Charles D. Newton of Livingston won by substantial majorities, but ran far behind the Governor. The contest over the nomination for Lieutenant Governor was three-cornered, with ex-State Senator William M. Bennett of this city running second, and ex-State Senator Seth G. Heacock of Herkimer a bad third. At that, Mr. Schoeneck had a clear majority over both of his opponents. Bennett, however, carried Brooklyn over Schoeneck, with a plurality of 2,232.

The closest fight was over the Republican nomination for Attorney General. Latest returns indicated that Senator Newton won over Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Becker, who ran on his record in the investigation of the Bolo Pacha case and other investigations of pro-German propaganda, and with the indorsement of Colonel Roosevelt, by a majority of 53,000. Schoeneck's indicative plurality over Bennet is 129,000.

Alfred E. Smith lost no time in opening his fight against Governor Whitman. Before all the returns from the city even were in, but when his victory was assured, he boarded a train for Delhi, where he spoke yesterday at the Delaware County Agricultural Fair. He will make speeches at some other county fairs up-State before returning to this city.

Whitman Supporters Jubilant.

The overwhelming victory of Governor Whitman in the Republican primaries was regarded by his supporters as complete vindication of his policies and especially his stand in favor of immediate ratification of the Federal Prohibition amendment. Attorney General Lewis had taken his stand in favor of a State referendum before the Legislature finally acted on the Federal amendment.

The support the Governor received throughout the State on this issue was reflected in local primary elections throughout the State. Senator William H. Hill of Broome, sponsor for the Local Option bill for cities which was enacted by the 191[illegible] Legislature, and who during the legislative session this year took his stand firmly with the Governor for immediate ratification, won a Congress nomination in the Thirty-fourth District after a sharp fight.

Women, voting for the first time in a State-wide primary and upward of 679,000 had qualified for the right by enrolling, apparently proved no obstacle to the political machines working their will through the primaries this year as they have before women could vote. The general experience throughout the State was that women were not eager to take advantage of the privilege for which they had fought so hard.

Women not only voted, but were candidates in Tuesday's primaries. The Socialists and Prohibitionists have made it a practice for some years to name women as candidates in their primaries. But with the Republicans and Democrats it was a new departure. The Democratic primaries resulted in the nomination of many more women than the Republican. Of nominations for the Assembly, four went to women in the Republican primaries and eight in the Democratic.

One woman was nominated for Congress by the Republicans, but in a district where she will have not a ghost of a chance to win. The Democrats and Republicans each named a woman candidate for the State Senate. The Republicans named two in the Fifth and Twenty-fourth Senate districts. The nominee in the Twenty-fourth, which is composed of the counties of Richmond and Rockland, Miss Helen F. McKelvey, in all likelihood will be elected. Her district is represented by a Republican in the present Senate.

In the Congresional districts nineteen Republicans, seven Democrats, and one Socialist won renominations in the primaries. There were some interesting fights.

Hendricks May Lose Leadership.

In the Thirty-fifth Congressional District, which includes the Counties of Onondaga and Cortland, Francis Hendricks the veteran Republican leader of the former county and not long ago one of the pillars of the Republican organization in the State, is likely to lose his leadership as the result of the victory of Congressman Walter W. Magee, who was a candidate for renomination.

Mr. Hendricks, though he signed the designating petition of Congressman Magee on the eve of the primaries, came out for his "dry" opponent, Giles H. Stilwell, and was repudiated by the unanimous vote of the Republican County Committee.

The victory won by Senator Hill is more than likely to shift the leadership in Broome County to him from ex-Senator Harvey D. Hinman, who opposed his nomination. Ex-Senator Hinman fought the nomination of Governor Whitman, too, and gave his support openly to Attorney General Lewis.

The Socialists sprung a surprise by nominating Professor Scott Nearing for Congress in the Fourteenth District in Manhattan. Congressman Fiorello H. La Guardia, now a member of the American aviation service in Italy, is the nominee of both Republicans and Democrats in the district, so that Professor Nearing, who has been the subject of investigation by the Department of Justice for pacifist propaganda, will have no chance of being elected.

> Have sent you my heartiest congratulations on your nomination. Best wishes for your success and assurances of my support.

One result of the primary vote in Queens County was the elimination of Dr. Arthur E. Keating, one time Democratic leader of the borough, as a serious contestant for the present leadership. In many districts the Keating men received less than ten votes, while the organization candidates polled as many as 250 votes. Incomplete returns showed yesterday that Keating had only eight candidates elected out of 191.

LA GUARDIA WILLING TO RETURN, HE SAYS

Congressman, Subject to Army Orders, Is Ready to Come If Voters Call.

SURPRISED AT NOMINATION

Fall Campaign Will Prove Nation's Loyalty, He Declares—Has Been Made Major.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 4.—Congressman La Guardia of New York, promoted to Major, has been commanding American aviators on this front and himself fighting, setting an admirable example of energy and devotion. Asked by a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent about his plans concerning his return to America for the election next Fall, he stated:

"I was indeed surprised to hear that I had been nominated by the Democrats of my district. That certainly shows the spirit of the country today, how the people are all united to bring this war to a successful and speedy termination. Anyone familiar with conditions in the Fourteenth New York District will appreciate that nothing but a resolute determination to express to the common enemy unity and harmony could bring about fusion on a Congressional candidate there.

"I appreciate the compliment very much. It certainly offsets the disappointment and worry caused me last year when an attempt was made to show that the district was un-American and not behind the President in this struggle. I cannot tell now whether I shall be called back or not. That depends upon orders as, naturally, being in military service, I cannot leave my post without proper orders."

When asked what he intended to do in event of his election, Major La Guardia stated:

"That is a matter which will give me considerable thought. Personally, it is easier and far more pleasant to remain here, fight with the men trained under me and take a direct part in the fight. It is also a source of personal pleasure and gratification, after successful bombing raids, to know that one has played a small part in advancing the line, in hastening a victorious end of this struggle. But I have only one desire—to serve my country first and my district next. If the people of my district demand my return to resume my seat in the new Congress, I naturally shall do so. I know that the people of my district would not ask me to come back unless convinced that my experience in the army for over a year and the knowledge which I have necessarily acquired concerning aviation matters would be more useful to my country than my present duties here.

"The eyes of the whole world, especially those of the enemy, will be directed to America and the outcome of the Fall election. This is the first time during the war that one of the belligerent nations has gone before the people on the election of the national legislative body. England, France, and Italy, as well as Germany and Austria, have suspended their elections and continued their respective parliamentary bodies. We cannot do this under our Constitution. Therefore the result will indicate the true feeling of the American people. Millions of free citizens, by means of the secret ballot, have the opportunity to signify their unity and determination to fight the enemy to a finish and crush him to such an extent that another war of this kind will be impossible. The enemy now is hoping against hope that he may find a ray of encouragement in the returns of the November elections.

"Every loyal candidate should be supported. Even where fusion has taken place loyal citizens should see to it that such candidates receive the biggest votes in order to dispel forever any doubt or shadow of disloyalty becoming attached to any locality. It is a splendid opportunity for the American people to express their patriotism to their country, and their sincere loyalty to the Allies.

"The Kaiser's dope on our country has been wrong from the very beginning. First, he did not believe we would declare war. Second, after we declared war he didn't believe we could form an army. If we could form an army he didn't believe we could transport it across the ocean. If we did transport it across the ocean he believed we couldn't fight. He already has been shown that he was wrong all through. If he cherishes any hope now that there is division in America, and that the coming election will show such division, he again will be mistaken.

"Having lost the last faint hope, cannot you see the Kaiser again invoking in his usual blasphemous manner the help of God, imploring Him, 'Oh, Lord, hast Thou forsaken me? Art Thou no longer my ally?' And the inevitable answer which now must haunt every German responsible for this war, 'Yes, I was, but your treaties were scraps of paper!'"

GATTI'S AMERICAN OPERAS.

Metropolitan to Give New Works by J. C. Breil and J. A. Hugo.

The Metropolitan Opera Company made another announcement yesterday of plans for its season, soon to be completely told in the annual prospectus to subscribers next Sunday. Following the recent news of a world première for three little Puccini operas, Mr. Gatti-Casazza disclosed that he has also a triple bill of Americans, including two novelties, "The Legend," by Joseph Charles Breil, and "The Temple Dancer," by John Adam Hugo, to be produced along with a repetition of last season's "Shanewis."

Mr. Breil's "Legend," with libretto, by Jacques Byrne, is described as a dramatic episode in a remote and rather imaginary Muscovite country. The composer, who was born in Chicago, has been active here as a writer of songs and of moving picture scenarios.

Mr. Hugo, now a teacher at Bridgeport, had studied to be a concert pianist in Europe, where his health broke down, and he returned to his native Connecticut. He has composed some chamber music, and his opera, "The Temple Dancer," with text by Mrs. Jutta Bell-Ranske, is said to be a sort of evocation of traditional religious rites of the Hindus.

NO AUTO SHOWS DURING WAR

Exhibitions Eliminated to Save Fuel, Labor, and Transportation.

With a view to further co-operation with the Government in conserving labor, fuel, and transportation, the Directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at their meeting yesterday unanimously voted to recommend to the members the abandonment during the period of the war of the automobile shows held annually for eighteen years in New York and Chicago.

The members present felt that the holding of automobile shows would be inconsistent with the patriotic obligations of the industry.

At its present meeting the chamber, working with the War Industries Board, voluntarily agreed to curtail production of passenger cars to 50 per cent. of the production of 1917 and recommended that all automobile companies take on war work as rapidly as it was obtainable.

SWIMMER SAVES AIR PILOT.

Physician, in Bathing, Goes to Rescue as Machine Falls.

BABYLON, L. I., Sept. 4.—Quick action on the part of Dr. Harold E. Hewletts saved the life of a cadet who had fallen four hundred feet this afternoon with his hydroaeroplane alongside Wagstaff Creek.

Dr. Hewletts was in swimming near the Babylon Club. He saw the plane about four hundred feet in the air and that the pilot seemed to have trouble in making a bank. Suddenly the machine buckled and fell to the bank alongside the creek, pinning the pilot beneath it.

Dr. Hewletts jumped into a rowboat and with others hurried to the young man, who was unconscious when finally extricated from the tangled mass. An automobile was pressed into service after Dr. Hewletts had partially revived the cadet and he was taken to the naval aero station at Bayshore.

It was impossible to learn the name of the pilot. At the station, however, it was said that he would recover. He was badly cut and bruised about the hip.

up from the municipal pier and these also surrounded the building. The streets were roped off for two blocks in every direction, and many persons were stopped and questioned.

Policeman's Story of Tragedy.

Within a minute or two after the explosion all doors of the Post Office were closed and no one was permitted to enter or leave the building without proper credentials.

Policeman Smith gave a graphic description of the scene following the explosion.

"I was shaken and almost stunned," he said. "Glass was crashing to the pavement from the buildings on the north side of Adams Street. Then I saw a horse rushing and staggering toward me. I thought he was running away and grabbed him by the bit. His head was bleeding where a brick had been blown against him and I had barely touched his head when he sank to his knees and stretched out dead.

"Some one was yelling that people were killed. I looked down again toward the entrance to the Post Office. A man was dragging something down the steps. It was the body of a mail carrier.

"'Help; get this woman away,' a man shouted to me. I helped pick her up. The whole side of her head was blown off.

Haywood in the Building.

Soon after the explosion a man came out of the Federal Building and said William D. Haywood, the convicted I. W. W. chief, was in the building.

There were cries of "Hang him!" "We ought to get him now!" and "He was there for the old alibi."

Haywood was in the "cage room" of the United States Marshal's office on the eighth floor, dictating to his private secretary, Miss Mary Service, when the explosion rocked the building. He had been taken to the Federal Building from the county jail, where he is being held awaiting transfer to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth.

Sitting close by him were Deputy United States Marshals Thomas Dolan and Fred Klika.

"When the explosion came, which nearly lifted us out of our chairs, I rushed to the window and shouted back 'It's a bomb!'" Dolan said. "I looked at 'Big Bill.' He was stitting tapping at the table with his lead pencil and staring forward seemingly into space. He did not seem perturbed or interested in what was going on, and was as cool as though nothing had happened."

Marshals were sent out at once to hunt for "Shorty" Wilson, who had been with Haywood less than an hour before the explosion.

"What do you think of this affair?" Haywood was asked.

"Well, what do you think?" he replied.

He was told that suspicions were directed against the I. W. W.

"It might have been a German outrage," responded Haywood. "It is a terrible thing. No I. W. W. would be so foolish as to do such a thing. It must have been German fear propaganda. Then it might have been another 'Faust affair.' You know Faust worked in this building."

Faust was a former Post Office employe who placed a bomb in the Auditorium Theatre during an opera performance nearly a year ago.

"I suppose the I. W. W. will be blamed," continued Haywood. "We have been blamed for many things."

Pete Dailey, one of the I. W. W. members whose case was continued by Judge Landis, was taken into custody tonight.

Suspicion was directed against Dailey by reports that he had made threats against the Government following the close of the I. W. W. trial. Earlier in the evening there had been reports that Dailey had been seen loitering around the corridors of the Federal Building a short time before the bomb was exploded.

Wilcox Leads in Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 4.—Primary election returns at 8 o'clock tonight, though not complete, show that Wilcox, Republican, of Eau Claire, is leading Governor Philipp for the Gubernatorial nomination by 750 votes. Governor Philipp this afternoon would not concede his defeat. The latest figures from Congressional contests indicate Congressman Cooper's defeat by Randall in the First District.

MAN-POWER LAW A CALL TO WOMEN

Thousands More to be Needed in War Industries When Men Join Colors.

DEFERRED CLASS WIDENED

New Questionaire to Make Exemption Available in Many Lines of Business.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Many thousands of women must be prepared to enter munition factories and other war industries as soon as the War Department begins to issue its calls to the colors under the new Man-Power bill, according to a statement made today by Bernard M. Baruch, Chairman of the War Industries Board.

While large numbers of women already are doing this kind of work, Mr. Baruch indicated that the present situation would call for their induction into the industries on a scale which heretofore has not been generally expected. He expressed the opinion also that the women of the nation were eager and equipped to shoulder the task, and that their participation on a large scale would prove an immense stimulation to production.

It was suggested by Mr. Baruch that the women could do much of the work now performed by men in munition plants. He said he thought the Labor Department, which recruits labor, probably would handle the problems, and that in his judgment the situation demanded that the women be encouraged to take up these lines of men's work. No time should be lost, he said, as it seemed obvious that, when the new drafts were made, their effect on man-power would be instantaneous.

Plans for the granting of deferred classification to men who are considered absolutely essential to war-time industries were studied at length today by General Crowder, the Provost Marshal, Mr. Baruch and other Government officials, including those of the Department of Labor. By the time the questionnaires are in the hands of the registrants regulations will have been agreed upon as regards deferred classification.

Broadens Deferred Classes.

One of the important decisions announced today was that bankers and persons engaged in other occupations and employment not heretofore regarded by district boards as warranting deferred classification on the ground of necessary industries, could now claim deferred classification.

"An amendment in the new legislation recently passed," said an explanatory statement by Gen. Crowder, "changed the provision: 'Persons engaged in industries, including agriculture' so as to make it read: 'Persons engaged in industries, occupations or employments, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces.'

"The effect of this is to enable necessary persons in occupations or employments to make claims that they are engaged in occupations or employments that the district board may find necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or to the maintenance of the national interest during the war. Thus, in other words, has been removed the danger of a too narrow construction of the word 'industries,' which many district boards in the past have construed as excluding bankers, those engaged in commerce, and those engaged in various other occupations.

Ritter to Pass on Furloughs.

The War Industries Board today appointed William M. Ritter of West Virginia an assistant to George N. Peek, Commissioner of Finished Products of the Board, as its certifying officer in the important work of determining furloughs from military service of skilled workers and others engaged in war work.

Mr. Ritter will be the point of contact between the War Industries Board and Darragh de Lancy of the Industrial Furloughs Section of the Adjutant General's office, through whom decisions will be made as to the essentiality of certain men in war industry. All requests for furlough made by the various departments of the War Industries Board will be made to Mr. Ritter, who will make such investigations in each case as in his judgment the circumstances warrant to determine whether the requests are justified.

The Provost Marshal General's office has received so many communications asking for a definition of the draft ages that this statement was prepared today by General Crowder:

"A man is considered to be included within the new age limits unless on or before registration day, Sept. 12, he has reached his forty-sixth birthday. If his age is 45 years 364 days on Sept. 12, he must register.

"The minimum age limit of 18 years, on the other hand, is intended to include any young man who, on or before Sept. 12, shall have reached his eighteenth birthday.

"For these reasons it is important that all men who have the slightest doubt as to whether they are included within the new age limits, ascertain as soon as possible before registration day the date of their birth and their age on their last birthday. The burden is on the man who fails to register to show that he does not come within the new limits."

Higginson Forms 'Liberty Choruses'

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—Major Henry L. Higginson, founder of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, today undertook the task of organizing "Liberty Choruses" in all parts of the State at the request of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety. The choruses will be expected to continue during the war and be of use in promoting the spirit of patriotism.

WOMEN REPUBLICANS HAPPY

Members of the Woman's Republican Club met at the men's Republican Clubhouse, 50 West Fortieth Street, yesterday afternoon, and congratulated themselves upon the result of the primaries. Mrs. Olive Stott Gabriel said that her district, the Tenth Assembly, was the banner one, with more than 2,000 votes cast, more than half of these by women. One member told of a woman who was overjoyed at her success as a first-time voter. "I put a cross at every single name," she said.

Frederick C. Tanner, candidate for Congressman, told the women he thought that with the many billions that were to be spent for aviation the best watch dogs would be those of the opposition party. The women applauded.

"General March has said," continued Mr. Tanner, "that if we have enough divisions in France the war will be finished next year. The man who tries to stop a man or a dollar from going over to those boys on the other side is a traitor."

FRAMING FORESTRY BILL.

Col. Thompson Says He Will Reforest 20,000 Acres at Ticonderoga.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The New York State Forestry Association, at the opening session of its Summer meeting here this afternoon took steps to unite all forestry organizations in the State in a movement to formulate a Forest Taxation bill for presentation to the Legislature some time next January. Among those who took an active part in the discussion was Colonel Robert M. Thompson, who will reforest a tract of 20,000 acres included in his holdings at Ticonderoga.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "Over Here" at the Fulton Theatre will take place next Tuesday evening instead of tomorrow night, as originally announced.

Walker Whiteside will be seen here this season in "The Little Brother." The piece had a run of twenty weeks in London last season.

Recent additions to the cast of "The Riddle Woman," in which Mme. Kalich will be starred, are Albert Bruning, Frances Garson, and Beatrice Miller.

Sunday night concerts on the same order as those offered at the Winter Garden will be given each week at the new Central Theatre, at Broadway and Forty-seventh Street. They will begin on Sept. 15.

Marcus Loew's Metropolitan Theatre, in Brooklyn, will be opened on Monday night, Sept. 16.

Dorothy South has been engaged for "Glorianna," in which Eleanor Painter will be starred.

Sunday vaudeville performances, afternoon and evening, will be resumed at the Columbia Theatre this week.

The cast of "Yip! Yip! Yaphank!" will attend the matinee at the Hippodrome today as the guests of Irving Berlin.

MUSIC NOTES.

Enrico Caruso is to sing for the Park Department at an Italian festival in the Mayor Hylan People's Concerts on the Mall, in Central Park, next Thursday evening, with the Metropolitan Orchestra under Nahan Franko.

The Paris Conservatoire Orchestra has sailed for its American tour of sixty cities, to open at the Metropolitan in October, under the management of the French-American Association of Musical Art.

Eugen Ysaye, the Belgian violinist, now conductor of the Cincinnati Orchestra, will reappear as soloist in a concert at the Hippodrome next Sunday, with the Chicago Opera soprano, Anna Fitziu.

THE TAX BILL.

It is the intent of Mr. KITCHIN and the Committee on Ways and Means that of the $8,000,000,000 of revenue to be raised by provisions of the bill reported to the House on Tuesday, $5,576,186,000 shall be secured through the taxes laid upon corporations and individual incomes. In addition, beverages must sustain a levy of $1,137,600,000. From corporation taxes, individual income taxes, and the beverage taxes, therefore, all but $1,250,000,000 of the entire $8,000,000,000 will be raised. By taxes upon the estates in transmission, upon transportation, communications, dues, admissions, and some so-called luxuries the remainder of the levy will be made up.

Any taxpayer may see by examining the text and tables of the committee's report that the taxes levied and paid under the existing law will be doubled or more than doubled by the new act. In the case of individuals the percentage of tax upon income increases rapidly from about 10 per cent. upon incomes of $12,500 to 70 per cent. upon incomes of $5,000,000. Of an income of $20,000, for instance, $2,895 will be surrendered to the tax collector, a levy of 14.48 per cent.

Both Mr. McADOO's system of war profits taxes and Mr. KITCHIN's system of excess profits taxes are embodied in the bill, with the provision that the method which yields the greater tax shall be applied. The difference is one of principle, and Mr. McADOO's principle is right, the principle the English adopted, that out of war profits large contributions should be made to the costs of war. Mr. KITCHIN's method of excess profits taxes is based upon his unshakable belief that above a certain percentage upon capital employed profits are unholy and should be subjected to punitive treatment, the severity of the punishment increasing with the enormity of the offense. By this method a sliding scale of imposts is laid, running from 35 per cent. above the specific exemption of $3,000 plus 8 per cent. on the invested capital to 70 per cent. in the upper classification, which includes incomes in excess of 20 per cent. on the capital. Some consideration is shown for concerns with small capitalization, particularly where the toil and services of the stockholders rather than the capital employed produce the income. The adoption of both these methods of assessment upon corporations is an unnecessary complication of the bill. The straight war profits tax would have yielded the required revenue. Mr. KITCHIN's alternative method is superfluous as well as unsound, but he was unyielding in his resolve that profits should be taxed for punishment as well as for revenue.

The omissions and exemptions of the bill have manifestly been dictated by politics. It can hardly be doubted that the Government will need the $24,000,000,000 estimated by the Treasury Department as the war expenditure of the year. The enormous total of $8,000,000,000 to be raised by taxation will not be complained of save in respect to the distribution of the burden, and possibly because of the very large proportion, 33 per cent., of tax revenue to bond sale revenue. A party in power may well view with some apprehension the approach of a national election of legislators following closely upon the enactment of the largest measure of taxation in history. The authors of this measure have attempted to confine the incidence of the taxes to small classes of contributors. For this reason corporation and large individual incomes and beverages are made to bear the greater part of the burden. Consumption taxes, the levy upon the breakfast table and upon the purchases of the great mass of people, have been studiously avoided. Yet it would have been just to call upon the mass of people to contribute in proportion to their expenditures, and therefore in proportion to their means, to bear a due share of the costs of the war of which the benefits will accrue to them in the same measure that they accrue to the persons who will be reached by this revenue enactment. For some reason which has never been made clear to the public, too, stamp taxes upon bank checks have been omitted from the bill.

The members of the committee appear to have disregarded the danger that in taking billions from the income of individuals and corporations they are diminishing the fund from which subscriptions and payments for war bonds must come. They have trusted to patriotism, to the willingness and determination of the people, no matter at what sacrifice, to make each bond issue successful, or they have trusted to pure luck in that respect, while carrying out their purpose to leave the great mass of voters free from imposts which might affect their political opinions and actions.

The bill unanimously reported from the committee to the House is only a project of law; it must undergo the revision of the Senate Committee and of the Senate itself. Changes will be made, but the country should not entertain the belief that they will be important, or materially alter the nature of the bill or the principles upon which it was based. The time is too short. The appeal for subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty Loan is but a little more than three weeks away, and it is in every way desirable that the revenue measure should be out of the way before that subscription is opened.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S SPEECH.

Illinois Republicanism is represented in the Senate by LAWRENCE Y. SHERMAN, and, repulsive and inexplicable as the fact may seem, WILLIAM HALE THOMPSON is canvassing the State for the Republican nomination for the other Senatorship. Before we entered the war Mr. SHERMAN was a hearty, two-fisted fighter in favor of yielding to Germany. Since our entrance he has officially certified to his own loyalty in each speech, and from that point has proceeded to instill as much doubt and disaffection about the war and the Government into the minds of his hearers as he possibly could.

His speech in the Senate on Tuesday was devoted to creating in the popular mind the fear that President WILSON, whom he did not dare attack by name, was aiming at the establishment of a socialistic autocracy, and that the war was being used as a blind. The attack was abusive, as is usual with Mr. SHERMAN's utterances. The country will not like his picture of the President beating his "pharisaical bosom," even though he was careful to avoid the use of the President's name—an ostrich-like device.

Mr. SHERMAN knows perfectly well that Mr. WILSON is not planning an autocracy; he knows equally well that, if Mr. WILSON were secretly planning to turn the country over to socialism, the people would not let him; he knows that this is not the reason why we entered the war; but he thinks that enough dull or vicious minds will believe him to produce the effect he desires. He knows that he will produce an entirely different effect on other classes of minds, for he says:

> I know the answer to this. My reward will be the mendacious charge that I am embarrassing the Administration in its conduct of the war.

He does indeed know it, because that answer has been made to him before. It will be made to him whenever he makes another speech of the same kind. It will be made whenever he seeks to incite discontent in any class of Americans, as he did over a year ago, when he said:

> Now we must speed up the farmer—compel him to work twenty-four hours a day instead of sixteen, which he is now working; compel him to sell at a certain price; if he refuses, take it away from him, but still make him produce. What is a farmer anyhow but a rube to raise grub for the dwellers in cities to consume?

It will be made to him every time he makes a speech the inevitable effect of which will be to poison the minds of our people against the Allies. He knows that, for it was made to him when, in June, 1917, two months after we entered the war, he said:

> We seem to be financing the Allies right along. * * * Let us join with the Allies, who have no written Constitution. The King's veto power has not been exercised for 300 years. If we are aping royalty and loaning our money this way we have got it wrong end foremost. When we bought into a bankrupt concern, if stories from across the sea are to be credited, we ought to have committed more power to Congress instead of having Congress delegate all its powers to the President.

A year ago he was trying to frighten us by telling us that we had "bought into a bankrupt concern." That argument does not seem to be going very well, so he drops it and now seeks to frighten us by telling us that the President and those around him are using the war as a pretext to erect a socialistic autocracy. His simple-minded trick of sliding over the President's name and talking of "the Burlesons, the Bakers, and the Gomperses" will not fool anybody, for everybody is perfectly aware that WOODROW WILSON is no more a simpleton or a tool than Secretary BAKER is a sinister-minded Machiavellian conspirator.

When the returns from the Illinois primaries come in, we can ascertain from the vote cast for the other Dromio, THOMPSON, whether SHERMAN really does represent Illinois. Unfortunately, she cannot express her opinion of him directly until 1920.

PREDESTINATION OF THE SAINTS.

We believe thoroughly in the predestination of the saints, especially when they predestinate and arrange for the details of their predestination, of which the Directed Primary is the political expression. Mr. WILLIAM LEARY, sometime Superintendent of Elections, says of the glorious triumph of the unofficial Superintendent of Republican primaries:

> The aggregate vote in the primaries was lighter than we had reason to expect it would be, but the Governor's victory is just about as the Governor and Chairman COCKS expected.

Predestination had been so carefully prepared, even the heretics were so sure of the predestinated calling and election, that it must have seemed to most of the faithful and of the reprobate that there was mighty little use in seeking the polling places.

Was the Governor's ordained victory quite as gratifying as the heroes of "the organization" would have us believe? We know that Mr. WILLIAM BARNES, a local quarrel on his hands, didn't "roll up" the expected anti-Whitman, anti-Anderson majority in Albany County. We know that Virtue triumphed over Mr. WILLIAM L. WARD, at present a "boss" in utter darkness, in Westchester. We kindle at the thought of Uncle GEORGE ALDRIDGE, the young-eyed seraph of reform, the "leader," prevailing greatly over Mr. LEWIS in Monroe, his home. But the returns fill us with the sad impression that Mr. LEWIS, despite the machine, the Anti-Saloon League, and some other hostile influences whose hatred is an honor, ran with an unexpected strength in a hopeless contest.

In Manhattan he was beaten nearly 4 to 1. His chances as an intruder and independent would not be reckoned at better than one to five or six by any expert layer of odds. The Manhattan vote for him and Mr. WHITMAN was less than 31,000. In the elections of 1917, a dull year of State politics, Mr. LEWIS, as the Republican candidate for Attorney General, got nearly 71,000 votes in this county. So deep is the enthusiasm that drives voters to the primaries. In Brooklyn, a fast-growing borough where the ingrained habit of independent voting grows also, Mr. LEWIS got 15,200 votes to Mr. WHITMAN's 27,631.

The Brooklyn tendency is even more conspicuously illustrated in the case of Mr. WILLIAM M. BENNETT, anti-machine candidate for Lieutenant Governor. He actually carried Brooklyn by "a handsome majority," and Mr. HEACOCK, another candidate off his own bat, got 2,144 votes in Brooklyn. Irrespective of the merits or fortunes of particular candidates, these evidences of the waxing spirit of the independent voter, numerous in the face of sure defeat, are of high encouragement. Significant, too, is the fact that Mr. BECKER, the Deputy Attorney General who has done such admirable work for the detection and punishment of Boloism, was less than 800 votes behind his successful opponent in Brooklyn. In the five boroughs he was less than 12,000 behind.

The total vote of WHITMAN and LEWIS in the five boroughs was 91,340. The number of women enrolled in the five boroughs was 96,479. Who stayed away? Who went?

In the five boroughs Mr. LEWIS got 25,262 to Mr. WHITMAN's 66,078. In the whole State he got, with 627 election districts missing, 103,398 to Mr. WHITMAN's 248,866. In 1917, a year ago, Mr. LEWIS got 676,881 votes. About 400,000 male Republicans abstained. Making all allowances for military and naval absences, the vote was thin; and, alas! it is a melancholy fact that the independents are the most habitual abstainers. The hide-bound machinist is as regular as his vote.

The psychological influence of the known fact that the contest was decided before it was begun counts a good deal. In view of the rigged primary, of Mr. WHITMAN's politic flirtations with prohibition and woman suffrage, Mr. LEWIS has reason to be proud. He is a young man. He has been a remarkably effective Attorney General, and has rendered fruitful service to the country as well as the State. He is an advocate of party responsibility. He believes that the Anti-Saloon League and the Governor shouldn't foist Federal prohibition upon the State before the opinion of the people has been consulted. Mr. LEWIS should have a distinguished future, if his unfortunate attachment to principles doesn't cripple him.

Mr. WHITMAN, remembering the wild zeal of his party to run away from him which Mr. ROOSEVELT stopped, but only for a time; noting the considerable Lewis vote, given with so many obstacles against it, has good reason for meditation, for chastened ambitions. Just how popular does he think he is?

Mr. ALFRED E. SMITH, whose attaching qualities make many Democrats forget the galley he works in, "won in a canter," of course, by better than 7 to 1. With the more heartiness be hailed our gallant friend, WILLIAM CHURCH OSBORN, who took his hopeless hope to the polls, and got more than 20,000 votes, 11,000 of them right in this city, to say nothing of the missing districts. If "most people didn't know he was running," all the more honor to the brave independent!

And so the Directed Primary has obeyed directions.

MORE LIGHT WANTED FROM LORD ROBERT CECIL.

At the dinner in London upon the conclusion of the deliberations of the Allied Maritime Transport Council, Lord ROBERT CECIL made a plea for the pooling of all the resources of the Western Allies and for unified control of them to win the war. There is unified command of troops in the field; why not apply the principle to supplies and equipment of all kinds used by the armies and to economic conditions in the allied countries? The proposal seems eminently sensible, but it is to be regretted that the British Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs dealt in generalities. Evidently he thinks that something is wrong in the machinery of collection, appropriation, and distribution, but why was he not explicit? One has to grope for his meaning, and it is elusive. There seems to be a clue in this remark:

> In order to feed our armies, apart from our civil population, we have got to pool our resources, we must bring together the whole economic strength of our allies. The accomplishment of that task is not easy. In this and many other matters we are fighting under a certain disadvantage.

And then Lord ROBERT, after holding up to admiration the efficiency of the Germans, who manage everything for the Teutonic side, has this to say:

> If we are to succeed despite our freedom, we must be prepared to scrap national prejudice, national sentiment, and even, I would say, national interests.

A reference to the comparatively greater sufferings of the French, the Italians, and the Belgians in the war would seem to place the responsibility of the something that is wrong upon Great Britain and America. Are the two nations fighting with a wasteful superfluity of the resources they command, and would success be brought nearer if they allowed their allies a larger share of their own resources? That would seem to be Lord ROBERT's meaning. Developing his theme, but still obscurely, he goes on to say:

> It is the co-ordination of the allied needs and allied resources with allied shipping which would make an overwhelming economic power of the alliance to which we belong.

The Allied Maritime Transport Council has solved the shipping problem as regards Atlantic transportation of soldiers and of supplies for the armies and civilian populations. A Food Council and a Munitions Council, working in Great Britain and France, are an extension of the idea; but in Lord ROBERT's opinion a good deal remains to be done before the economic forces of the Allies do their bit in the war as well as the fighting forces directed by Marshal FOCH. The Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs wants to see the economic forces brought under unified command. Shall it be through the medium of an Economic Council like the War Council at Versailles? Obviously no one man can carry out Lord ROBERT CECIL's idea. It is arresting, appealing, but why does he not furnish particulars and a solution?

Will he [ALFRED E. SMITH] come down to the city to lunch regularly with MURPHY, as THEODORE ROOSEVELT used to come to breakfast with TOM PLATT?—The Evening Post.

If he does, and the luncheons don't do MURPHY any more good than the breakfasts used to do PLATT, there is not much for us to worry about.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

He Yearns for Service More Active.

When a college President of 64 decides that the place for him is not in academic halls, bombproof, as yet, and likely to remain so, but out in the great world of action and as near the firing front as he can persuade the military authorities to let him carry his years and his learning—when that happens, it is more than a hint that the country is fully awakened to the meaning of the war, to its seriousness, and to the duty of trying to hasten the day of victory.

It is Dr. EDMUND J. JAMES of the University of Illinois who has made this decision, and he refused to heed the earnest plea of his Board of Trustees that, instead of resigning, he should be content with a leave of absence for a year. No compromise like that would do—his enlistment had to be "for duration," as the soldiers—the other soldiers—say, and he insisted that there should be nothing cautionary or precautionary, no reaching backward with one hand while reaching forward with the other, about his departure. So he resigned. Whether or not a specialist as experienced and an educator and executive as eminent as Dr. JAMES can render anywhere else than where he is service as valuable to his country, even in war-time, as the one he has been rendering and could continue to render there—that is evidently a question with two sides to it, but of course he has a right to answer it for himself, after taking, naturally, such advice as he consciously needs. If he feels that he really must go, that in itself is almost enough to settle the matter, for, so feeling, he would stay under a disadvantage for himself and his collegiate work, with much of discontent and something of inefficiency.

His conviction, presumably, is that after the war, as somebody recently well said or wrote, the population of the world will be divided into two classes—those who took part in it and those who didn't—and he is far from being alone in viewing with apprehension and a deep distaste a future in which he would fall into the second of these categories. To be there will not be necessarily disgraceful, but it will be distinctly unpleasant, and that indirect war service will take one out of it can be a little more easily hoped than believed.

His Youth Is Gone at Last!

Whether or not the picture of the Kaiser that was drawn yesterday in a brief dispatch from Switzerland is correct can be known only to those who have seen him in these later—and latter?—days of the war. The portrait, however, was more than plausible in that it showed the man as we all feel he ought to look; it also was convincing in the same way that not a few other portraits are, even when they are from an unknown hand and of an unknown subject.

For reasons not at all mysterious, though it has been a good many years since the Kaiser ceased to be a youth, and though he was a grandfather long before the war began, until then we had all thought of him as young. His mistakes and his follies gave that impression, and so did his achievements, the wide diversity of his interests and the wider diversity of his pretensions. As is the wont of the immature, he has always known with utter certainty a vast number of things that weren't so, and on innumerable occasions he has acted on such knowledge, occasionally to the enraging, and more often to the amusing, of the attentive observers of his career scattered all over the world, or nearly.

Now, according to the Swiss who claims to have had a very recent chance to study the Kaiser's looks, he has become indubitably an old man, showing all his years, and especially the last four years. His hair is snow white, and his erect, military bearing has disappeared in stooping shoulders. His "eyes are feverish"—one has to guess at what that means—"his gestures are abrupt, and his face, which is severely lined and tanned, gives the general impression of a man who is suffering a great sorrow."

There is nothing incredible in that. It proves itself. But what is the "great sorrow" from which the Kaiser suffers? Is it due to a belated realization of all the horrors and tragedies he has brought, or allowed to be brought, upon well nigh the whole population of the earth, or has he come to see at last that his mad ambitions are all to be disappointed—that for seeking universal dominion he is likely to lose what of it he had?

The one theory is at least as well founded as the other, and the one would explain as well as the other why the Kaiser has come to look his years and more.

They Both Enjoyed Their Talk.

It is not altogether unlikely that the German Crown Prince tells the truth when he says that when he asked an American prisoner where Alsace was, he answered, "It is a great lake." It is even probable that other replies to similar questions justified the Crown Prince in his conclusion that the American soldiers were an ignorant lot, none of whom had more than vague ideas, if any, as to why they were in Europe or what they were fighting for.

Of course the justification was only for an inquirer as little familiar with American humor as is the Crown Prince, and as unaccustomed as he is to conversation with ordinary mortals who would dream of treating that high privilege with anything less than the utmost seriousness and reverence. But, if an American soldier did tell the Crown Prince that Alsace was a great lake, the purpose was obvious. It was to lay a good foundation for a pretense of stupidity, than which no better preparation could possibly have been made for disclosing no information useful to the enemy.

An excellent beginning was well followed up when the prisoners under interrogation were able to convince his credulous and imperial Highness that American soldiers had hardly heard of any officers higher than Captains, and that on the conduct of military operations they had no opinions whatever. How far that is from being the truth the simple-minded Prince would learn if he could visit an American camp incognito.

A Decoration for Loyal Motorists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My residence is on the main automobile road from New York to Atlantic City, and the traffic today dropped off about 90 per cent. I know this has been a real disappointment, possibly a hardship, to many people, and I am proud of "us." Uncle Sam certainly has some obedient children, and the exhibition of this spirit is one more proof that we will win the war. This is a sacrifice that brings no glory with it, but it is at least worthy of notice. Would that we might give the loyal ones some recognition. Why not a Croix de Guerresoline? H. A. HATHAWAY.

Toms River, N. J., Sept. 1, 1918.

He Must Register.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer will be 46 years of age on Dec. 22, 1918. Will he have to register? This information no doubt would be of use to a great many people. G. A. M.

New York, Aug. 30, 1918.

THINK VICTORY!

Think War, relentless War! Be not deceived
By valiant deeds and victories achieved.
"Force to the utmost" is the constant need.
"Business as usual" is the slacker's creed.
Think War!

Think Hate! But not that madness of the mind
That feeds itself on passions base and blind.
Hate of World Conquest; hatred of foul deeds done;
Think Hate!

Think Victory, would you have warfare cease!
Think Victory, would you have surest peace!
When Death and Desolation nearer roll—
Ah, then, with all your mind and heart and soul,
Think Victory!

Think Peace! But not till all this fighting's done!
Think Peace! But not till Victory is won!
When lust of power, when greed and piracy
Are crushed for evermore; when man stands free—
Then, only then, but for Eternity Think Peace!

WILSON PRAISES WEIZMANN BOARD

Expresses Satisfaction at Progress Made in Palestine by Commission.

SENDS LETTER TO DR. WISE

President Wilson, in recognition of the Jewish New Year, which begins tomorrow, has sent the following letter to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, former President of the Provisional Zionist Committee:

The White House.
Washington, Aug. 31, 1918.

My Dear Rabbi Wise:

I have watched with deep and sincere interest the reconstructive work which the Weizmann Commission has done in Palestine at the instance of the British Government, and I welcome an opportunity to express the satisfaction I have felt in the progress of the Zionist movement in the United States and in the allied countries since the declaration by Mr. Balfour on behalf of the British Government of Great Britain's approval of the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people and his promise that the British Government would use its best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of that object, with the understanding that nothing would be done to prejudice the civil and religious rights of non-Jewish people in Palestine or the rights and political status enjoyed by the Jews in other countries.

I think that all Americans will be deeply moved by the report that even in this time of stress the Weizmann Commission has been able to lay the foundation of the Hebrew University at Jerusalem with the promise that that bears of spiritual rebirth.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

The declaration of the British Government in favor of the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people was issued Nov. 2, 1917, and was made in recognition of the work in that direction which has been done by the Zionist organization for the last twenty years. It approved the program of the movement as devised and adopted at the First Zionist Congress, held under the leadership of Theodore Herzl in 1897 at Basle. This declaration has since been approved by France, Italy, Serbia, and Greece, and has been greeted with approval by the Pope.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of the English Zionist Federation and a distinguished scientist in the service of the British Government, was appointed by the latter as head of the Zionist commission to Palestine to make a survey for the future permanent development of the land in harmonious relationship with neighbors and allied interests. The commission has, throughout its work, received the fullest support of the Zionist organization of America, under the leadership of Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court, its Honorary President, and of Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago, its President. Since reaching Palestine in April, the commission, including representatives of the Zionist organization in France, Italy, and Russia, has had the co-operation of General Allenby and the British military authorities in restoring the existing Jewish colonies and of preparing for further constructive work in Palestine.

University Begun on July 24.

The cornerstone of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem was laid by Dr. Weizmann and his associates on July 24, 1918. This event has been greeted by the entire population of Palestine with sympathy and enthusiasm, and by the whole world as a visible symbol of that rebirth upon which the Jewish people is now entering.

Italy has added its assurance of co-operation to establish religious equality for the Jews in Rumania to those already advanced by Great Britain and France. A statement from Baron Sonnino, the Italian Foreign Minister, transmitted through the Italian Ambassador at London, and made public in New York yesterday by the Zionist Organization of America, announces that every effort will be made at the final reckoning between the Allies and the Central Powers to bring this result about.

Italy deplores the discrimination against the Rumanian Jews made in the treaty of Bucharest between Rumania and the Central Powers as being "less liberal than those which the Rumanian Government had spontaneously promised to grant."

DELAY DRY BILL.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Final action on the bill providing for national prohibition after July 1, 1919, and continuing until the demobilization of the American troops has been completed after the war, failed again today in the Senate, owing to the introduction of amendments to the $12,000,000 Emergency Agricultural Appropriation bill, to which the prohibition legislation is attached.

An amendment providing for the purchase by the Government of all distilled spirits held in bond on July 1, at a price to be fixed by a commission appointed by the President, was introduced today by Senator Bankhead of Alabama. Under its provisions the commission would fix the value of such spirits and report to Congress through the Secretary of the Treasury. If Congress held the valuation to be fair, the Government would pay the owners for such liquors in cash or Government bonds. The amendment was not taken up.

Senator Walsh of Montana offered an amendment appropriating $20,000,000 to be lent to farmers in drought stricken districts for the purchase of seed. This was rejected, but another, by Senator Jones of New Mexico, authorizing the War Finance Corporation to make loans to banks in such districts so that financial assistance could be given to farmers, was accepted.

The Senate, by unanimous vote, attached as a rider to the Agricultural bill an amendment designed to prevent rent profiteering in the District of Columbia. It provides for the appointment of a rent administrator to determine the fairness of rents now being charged.

TO BRING BACK OUR DEAD.

Burials in France During War Will Be Only Temporary.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Americans who lose their lives in the war abroad will be buried there only temporarily. Where identification is possible, the bodies will be placed in marked graves, to be taken up when the war is over and brought home. This plan of the War Department was disclosed today by the publication of articles of agreement between the army and navy regarding the transportation of sick and wounded from overseas. A section of the agreement says:

"The remains of all officers, enlisted men, and civilian employes who have died or will hereafter die in France shall be buried in France until the end of the war, when the remains shall be brought back to the United States for final interment. Such cemeterial facilities as the army may have acquired in France shall be available to the navy.

"The remains of all officers, enlisted men, and civilian employes who die on ships en route to or from the United States shall be embalmed and returned to the United States on the ship on which the death occurred."

PRESIDENT SAVES RIOTERS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—President Wilson has affirmed the action of the military courts-martial in the so-called Washington and Tillman cases, growing out of the Houston race riots a year ago, during which riotous negro soldiers participated in episodes which caused the deaths of fifteen persons.

Fifty-five persons were involved in the court-martial proceedings. Death sentences were imposed on sixteen soldiers by the court, thirty-six were sentenced to imprisonment, and three were acquitted. President Wilson affirms the death sentences which the military courts imposed on six of the soldiers and commuted the other ten sentences to life imprisonment. In announcing the President's action today, the War Department authorized the publication of a statement in explanation of his action which the President has filed with the Adjutant General of the army.

"I file this memorandum with the Adjutant General of the army," said the President's statement, "in order that the basis of my action may be a matter of record.

"On the 23d of August, 1917, the so-called Houston riot took place. A mutinous and riotous group of soldiers participated in the affairs, causing in all the deaths of fifteen persons and the serious wounding of twelve others, many of whom were innocent bystanders, and all of whom were peaceably disposed civilians of the City of Houston.

"Very searching and thorough investigations were made into the riot, its cause, and the actions of the persons who participated, with the result that three groups of soldiers were tried by court-martial, the cases being known, respectively, as the Nesbit, the Washington, and the Tillman cases. The records of these trials have been carefully examined by the Judge Advocate General and the Secretary of War, and they disclose that in each instance the court was properly constituted, was composed of officers of experience and sobriety of judgment, and that the rights of defendants were surrounded at every point by those safeguards which a humane administration of the law accords to those charged with grave offenses. No legal errors, prejudicing the rights of the accused, have been found; indeed, the seriousness of the cases appears to have challenged the attention of the military authorities from the outset and extraordinary precautions were taken to insure the fairness of the trials.

"The Nesbit case was first tried. It resulted in the acquittal of five defendants and the conviction of the remainder, with four sentenced to brief terms of imprisonment, forty-one sentenced to life imprisonment, and thirteen to death. These death sentences were reviewed by the Commanding General of the Southern Department and executed.

"Later the Washington and Tillman cases proceeded to trial, involving altogether fifty-five persons, and resulting in death sentences imposed upon sixteen and imprisonment upon the remainder for various terms of years, except as to three in the Tillman case, two of whom were acquitted, and as to one of whom the charges were dismissed.

"The review which I have been called upon to make, therefore, involves death penalties imposed upon sixteen persons. Of these I have affirmed six, because the persons involved were found guilty by plain evidence of having deliberately, under circumstances of shocking brutality, murdered designated and peaceably disposed civilians. The remaining ten death sentences I have commuted to life imprisonment for the reason that, while deeply engaged in this riotous mutiny, the men involved are not shown by the record personally and directly to have caused the death of designated individuals.

"The offense of which these soldiers were guilty is one of the greatest gravity; the Government relies upon its soldiers for the defense of the liberties of the people, and when soldiers, forgetting their obligations, break over the restraints of discipline and become a riotous and mutinous mob, the very foundations of order are shaken. When peaceably disposed and innocent civilians are the victims of this sort of riot a stern redress of their wrongs is the surest protection of society against their recurrence.

"I, therefore, find that the action taken by the Commanding General of the Southern Department was legal and justified by the record, and direct the execution of the sentences in the six cases above referred to. I commute the remaining sentences because I believe the lesson of this lawless riot will have been adequately pointed by the action already taken and that now directed, and also because I desire the clemency here ordered to be a recognition of the splendid loyalty of the race to which these soldiers belong and an inspiration to the people of that race to further zeal and service to the country of which they are citizens and for the liberties of which so many of them are now bravely bearing arms at the very front of great fields of battle.

"WOODROW WILSON."

LIFE UNDERWRITERS MEET.

First International Convention Is Held at Hotel Astor.

Nearly 2,000 delegates gathered yesterday at the Hotel Astor for the first international convention of life insurance underwriters of the United States and Canada. The organizations represented were the National Association of Life Underwriters, and the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada. Lawrence Priddy of New York, President of the National Association, presided. Orra S. Rogers, President of the local association of underwriters, welcomed the visitors, responses being made by J. T. Wilson, President of the Canadian Association, and President Priddy of the National body.

At the afternoon session held in the Grand Ballroom of the hotel, Clarence Ausley, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, who spoke in place of President Wilson, declared that this country had not contributed so heavily of its man power as had Great Britain and Canada in the early years of the war. He called for a peace of unconditional surrender as the only kind of peace acceptable to the people of the United States.

Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation, traced the growth of life insurance during the last fifty years, and turning to education, said that formerly the training of American youth was along individualistic lines. By this, he explained, he meant that every effort was bent to emphasizing the individual in thought and action. Herbert C. Cox, President of the Life Officers' Association of Canada, had as his subject "Shortcomings Within and Without." Last night a reception was given in the hotel to delegates, alternates, invited guests, and their families. The convention will be continued today.

EVENING SCHOOLS OPENED.

Under New Law Non-English-Speaking Persons Must Attend.

The day and evening public schools opened yesterday for the registration of pupils, and will continue open until the end of the week. In compliance with the new laws requiring the attendance at school of non-English-speaking and illiterate minors and requiring the maintenance of evening schools for the duration of the day school term, the Department of Education will hold sessions in seventy-seven evening elementary schools as centres for carrying on the work of Americanization.

Under the law, which became effective Sept. 1, every one between 16 and 21 who cannot speak, write, and read the English language, as is required for the completion in the fifth grade of the public schools, must attend a day or evening school or some school maintained by an employer. There are penalties for violations of the law.

OVER 1,600,000 MEN HAVE GONE ABROAD

NAMES DIVISIONS FIGHTING

30th Is in Flanders Drive, and the 32d Captured Juvigny—New Yorkers Still Training.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff of the army, announced today that up to Aug. 31 the number of American troops embarked for all fronts, including Siberia, Italy, England, and France is "past the 1,600,000 mark."

Although General March did not say so, it is known that the accelerated movement of troops to France is continuous and that the War Department is moving men overseas as rapidly as it can find transports for them. General March made it plain today that more than 250,000 men had been sent to France in August, and the number placed there that month almost equaled the record of 285,000 landed in France in one previous month.

General March was asked for confirmation of the press report from London that 260,000 American soldiers had "landed" in France in August.

"I give out the statements indicating the embarkations," replied the General, "and, of course, they are the only figures that I can vouch for myself. A ship gets out on the high seas and it may be submarined, and we have then to verify the losses and subtract them from the number embarked to get the number landed. Then we have men landed in British ports that pass through England. Some of these may become sick and their organizations land in France without them, so that the number of men that land in France will not be the same as the number of men embarked from the United States, until a certain time has elapsed and those casuals rejoin their organizations. The fact of the matter is that as far as we can estimate it, the number of 250,000 is short. We have actually landed in France more than that."

285,000 in Biggest Month.

"What," General March was asked, "is the largest number of men landed for any month?"

"We do not get an exact number of the men landing in France," he replied, "so anything I say would be an estimate, but as far as we can estimate, we have gone as high as 285,000 men."

General March today revealed that two American army divisions were taking a prominent part in the present fighting on the western front. The 30th National Guard Division has been participating in the campaign in Flanders, where the withdrawal of the Germans, under allied pressure, has straightened out the Flanders salient. The 32d National Guard Division has been fighting with the French north of Soissons and is the division which captured Juvigny and Terny-Sorny. This division has previously taken part in the campaign between the Marne and the Vesle and is composed of troops from Michigan and Wisconsin.

The 30th Division in Flanders is formed of National Guard units from Tennessee and the Carolinas, and was trained at Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C.

"The last time I talked to you," said General March, "on last Wednesday, the British and French were fighting along a sixty-mile front, from the Scarpe to the Oise. The British, during this fighting, met with the principal resistance, but fought their way through the lines, while with the French the action of the enemy in front of the French line was more or less of a retirement forced by the British successes further north.

"The French advanced south of the Somme so quietly on a twenty-five-mile front that they gained from five to six miles in one day—last Wednesday. At that point along the Canal du Nord the Germans tried to hold the French without complete success. The French crossed the canal at several places, and near Noyon have advanced more than a mile beyond it.

"The Somme River has been crossed by the British, resulting in the capture of Péronne and considerable gains north of it. In the sector east of Arras Canadians troops have driven straight forward across the Hindenburg line, across the so-called Drocourt-Quéant switch, on an eight-mile front, and have reached a point where they are seven and a half miles from Cambrai, which is their objective.

Advance North of Somme.

"On the front north of the Somme the British have advanced fourteen miles since the drive began on Aug. 21.

"In Flanders the enemy has withdrawn without being under special pressure, falling back directly toward the Hindenburg line, and today the Flanders salient has practically straightened out. The American division which took part in that withdrawal has been identified as the 30th, which is composed of troops from Tennessee, North Carolina, and South Carolina. This division was taken across the ocean by General Reed, who was at that time the commanding General. Since General Reed has been given a corps the senior Brigadier General of the division will be in command until a Major General is assigned to it. This officer has not as yet been identified.

"North of Soissons the Americans and French have been fighting steadily and advancing against strong German resistance against some of their best divisions at this point. The captures of Juvigny and Terny-Sorny were made by our 32d Division. This division was raised largely from Michigan and Wisconsin troops and commanded by General Haan. The nearest point to the old Hindenburg line reached by the French in this advance is now less than three miles."

General March stated, in response to a question, that the 27th Division, composed of National Guard units from New York State, "is still with the British in Flanders." He was asked whether this division had been engaged in the fighting on the Flanders front.

"We have no report to indicate it," he replied. "The American division in action with the British turns out to be the 30th."

This division, he said, had been engaged in the fighting around Mount Kemmel.

The 39th Division composed of National Guard troops from Louisiana, Mississippi, and Arkansas, was now landing abroad, part of it being ashore and part on shipboard, General March said, and the 36th Division had entirely landed. The 36th is composed of National Guard troops from Texas and Oklahoma. The 35th National Guard Division, composed of men from Missouri and Kansas, is in the Vosges region.

TAKE WAGNER SHIPS WORTH $7,500,000

In one of the largest seizures of enemy property since this country entered the war, A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian, yesterday took over all the vessels of the American Transatlantic Company and the Foreign Transport and Mercantile Corporation on the ground that both of these enterprises were entirely German owned. With the seizure of these interests the Government concluded an investigation which began fully three years ago, when Richard G. Wagner, President of the newly formed American Transatlantic Company, first endeavored to have eleven so-called Danish steamships transferred to American registry, thereby placing them under the protection of the American flag.

At that time it was charged that the capital with which Wagner purchased the vessels was supplied by Hugo Stinnes, an influential figure in Hamburg shipping circles, and the United States Government for that reason hesitated to register them. Not long afterward, however, Wagner convinced the Government that there was no German money in the enterprise, and the vessels were admitted to American registry. For three years Wagner continued the deception, concealing the real ownership of his corporation from the French, British, and American Governments.

Recently, however, further facts were produced against him, and the renewal of the investigation by the Alien Property Custodian has just resulted in a complete confession by Wagner, in which he admitted to Francis P. Garvan, Director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Alien Property Custodian's office, that he had sworn falsely, and that the money with which these companies were organized and with which the ships were purchased had been supplied by persons of German affiliations, and that practically no money belonging to American citizens had ever been invested in the companies.

Former Seizures Significant.

This disclosure is significant in view of the fact that the seizure of four vessels of the Transatlantic Company in 1915, the Saginaw, by the French, the Hocking, the Kankakee, and the Genesse by the British, led to an effort on the part of Ambassador von Bernstorff's staff of propagandists to agitate dissension and a break between this Government and England, on the ground that the vessels were American owned. Under the direction of von Bernstorff this agitation actually assumed nationwide proportions, the general conclusion at that time being that these ships were really American owned. It now turns out—by Wagner's own admission—that they were German owned, their ownership being concealed under the protection of the American flag.

The value of the ships of the American Transatlantic Company and the Foreign Transport and Mercantile Corporation can best be judged, according to the Alien Property Custodian, by the fact that the Hudson Bay Company had offered to pay $7,500,000 for them, and that Wagner had refused to sell for less than $8,000,000. When the London Board of Trade objected to the payment of more than $7,500,000 Wagner refused the offer altogether, although it meant a profit of approximately $5,000,000, the original investment in the ships having been about $2,600,000. Again in February, 1917, the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique had a thirty days' option to purchase the ships for $9,300,000.

Richard G. Wagner, President of the companies, was born in Milwaukee fifty-six years ago. His father was a German, who changed his name from Wagenkneckt to Wagner. Richard Wagner was educated at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Troy, N. Y., and for a period of twelve years thereafter was engaged in the bridge-building business. Later he engaged in the beet sugar industry, with which he was connected for fourteen years. He left Wisconsin in 1914 and came to New York, and in December of that year, five months after the beginning of the war, he sailed for Rotterdam, ostensibly for the purpose of providing for a supply of sugar-beet seed.

Subsequently in Copenhagen Wagner met his cousin Albert Jensen, Managing Director of the Copenhagen Coal and Coke Company, which is owned by Hugo Stinnes. Wagner first told Mr. Garvan that he was not related to Jensen in any way, although in his letters to Jensen Wagner always addressed him as "Dear Cousin." Wagner and Jensen made arrangements for the purchase of a fleet of merchant vessels. According to Wagner's admissions, it was arranged that Jensen should furnish the money for the ships and that he (Wagner) should come to this country and organize an American company, so as to give American registry to the ships purchased by Jensen.

Returning to this country, Wagner, in March, 1915, organized in Delaware a corporation known as the American Transatlantic Company, with a capitalization of $200,000. Believing that 20 per cent. of the authorized capital had to be paid in cash in order to enable the company to do business, Wagner cabled to Jensen at Copenhagen for the necessary $40,000. He cabled four times without receiving any answer, sending a cable on one occasion to an address in Berlin, which Mr. Garvan, the director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Allen Property Custodian, has reason to believe was the address of Hugo Stinnes.

Von Bernstorff Intervenes.

At this point Count von Bernstorff intervened and sent a wireless to Berlin, which resulted in Wagner receiving the $40,000 he considered necessary for the organization of the American Transatlantic Company. Wagner at that time contended that this $40,000 was his own money. He has since admitted to Mr. Garvan that this money was supplied from abroad.

Jensen had some ships in his own name under the Danish flag. He made plans to buy others, some of them registered in Denmark and others in Norway, Sweden, and Greece. Wagner said he believed that the transfer of the ships to American registry would be simple if they had been purchased from neutrals and had neutral registry prior to the war. Jenson therefore transferred some ships to the American Transatlantic Company, and was about to purchase and transfer others when he was caught by the Danish Government in an attempt to smuggle copper, represented on the manifest as sugar, into Germany. For this offense Jensen was sentenced to a term of sixty days "on ordinary prison fare."

Following Jensen's arrest, Wagner got another representative, Theodore Lahr of Rotterdam, an agent for Hugo Stinnes. Jensen went to jail, and Lahr began to buy more ships for Wagner, the change in agents effecting no change in operations, for Wagner continued to get news that ships were being constantly added to his fleet. He paid no money for them, and apparently no money was asked of him. Altogether ships then worth about $2,500,000 were transferred to Wagner without the payment of a cent. To cover these transactions Wagner increased the stock of the American Transatlantic Company to $2,500,000, and issued practically all of it to himself. He also organized a subsidiary company for each vessel, all the stock in the subsidiary companies being held by the American Transatlantic Company.

Wagner Encounters Difficulties.

Having acquired his fleet, Wagner now sought to register them under the American flag, but encountered difficulties, because the Commissioner of Navigation insisted on the proof that the American Transatlantic Company was a bonafide American industry. Wagner first insisted that the American officials should be satisfied since the ships were owned by a company chartered in an American State with officers and Directors who were Americans. The Commissioner of Navigation would not be satisfied with such an explanation, and when he insisted on knowing how Wagner got the money to purchase $2,500,000 worth of ships Wagner finally admitted that Jensen had really supplied the ships and that he (Wagner) had only a right to purchase 50 per cent. of the stock.

Still the Commissioner of Navigation hesitated and Wagner thereupon decided to "eliminate" Jensen from any connection with the enterprise. He sent a cable to Jensen stating that he had eliminated him from the American Transatlantic Company by sending him unsecured promissory notes for $2,654,000. The notes were payable at the rate of $500,000 a year for five years. Having thus "eliminated" Jensen, Wagner again applied for registration under the American flag, but Commissioner Chamberlain still refused. Shortly after Wagner informed the commissioner's office that he had paid approximately $1,300,000 in real money to Jensen and had most effectively eliminated him from the company.

Wagner pretended at that time that he got the money by the sale of $900,000 worth of stock to American investors. In addition to this he contended that he had realized $385,000 on the sale of his own securities. For a time during his examination by Mr. Garvan, Wagner persisted in this story, but he finally confessed that it was all false and that the money had come from his cousin, Edmund Wagenknecht, who is now in Germany.

How Money Was Transferred.

Wagner told Mr. Garvan that his cousin, Edmund Wagenknecht, met his other cousin, Jensen, in Copenhagen and informed the latter of the difficulty Wagner was having in registering the ships. Then, without the slightest warning, the sum of approximately $1,300,000 fell into Wagner's lap, the money being sent by Edmund Wagenknecht, who is on the enemy blacklist. The money passed from Copenhagen to a bank at Malmo, Sweden, then to Wagner at New York, and then through the Bankers Trust Company and Equitable Trust Company back to Copenhagen to Jensen in payment of about 50 per cent. of Wagner's notes, some of which were not due on their face for two years.

Having some positive evidence that money had been passed, Wagner renewed his drive on the Commissioner of Navigation and finally succeeded in acquiring registry, although Secretary Redfield wrote him that registry was granted solely because of the technical requirement of the law, and warned Wagner that the department felt that his conduct throughout had been such as to increase suspicion of his good faith rather than to allay it.

For the purpose of separating the ownership of the seven remaining ships of his fleet from the four which had been seized, Wagner organized in 1917 the Foreign Transport and Mercantile Company, with a capital of $2,500,000, and the old shares in the American Transatlantic Company were turned into the new concern in consideration of the issue of the same proportions of shares in the new company.

At the height of these negotiations, however, the United States Shipping Board commandeered for American use the seven remaining ships of the fleet, and they are now being operated under governmental supervision and on a rental paid by the Government.

FIGHT TO KEEP MALVY'S STATUS AS A DEPUTY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—When the French Chamber meets again tomorrow after a holiday of a month's duration, the most interesting problem it will be required to solve will be as to whether ex-Minister Malvy, sentenced to banishment, can claim to remain a member of the House and continue to exercise rights as a Deputy?

Malvy's case is absolutely without precedent in French parliamentary law. He was condemned, it will be remembered, to five years' banishment, which in the ordinary course would involve deprivation of all his civil rights and render him incapable of sitting as a Deputy, taking an oath as a witness, acting as a guardian of children, voting or holding any public office.

The High Court, however, expressly stipulated that the sentence should not involve civic degradation. The question is whether the Judges meant by this that he should retain his parliamentary rights as a Deputy.

Paul Deroulède, who was banished for a political crime in 1900, was continued as "absent" on the division lists of the chamber for several months, and it was not until the following year that he was formally expelled from the House. Owing to the form of the judgment by the High Court, however, Malvy's case is quite different.

A decision as to what course is to be taken rests entirely in the hands of the Chamber, which will, probably after receiving formal knowledge of the facts, appoint a special committee to consider the case. This committee will have a choice of four courses, any of which it may recommend to the Chamber for adoption.

It may advise that Malvy be simply expelled from the House or that he maintain a technical status as a Deputy, but be prohibited from exercising his functions as such during the period of his banishment. A third course open to the committee would be to recommend that he be allowed to come to Paris during the parliamentary sessions to fulfill his duties as a member of the House, in which case the recommendation would certainly be opposed by the Government, which has the duty of seeing that the sentence of banishment imposed by the high court is carried out. A fourth course would be for the committee to recommend that the whole question be referred to the high court and leave it to that sovereign tribunal to interpret its own judgment.

The Senate will not reassemble until Sept. 17, when it will be immediately called on to settle a much more thorny question, whether Caillaux and possibly several others also awaiting trial on charges closely connected with those brought against the former Premier shall be tried by the high court like Malvy or by a court-martial. The question is so complicated that it is impossible to suggest the probable decision of the Senate.

Engagements.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ruth Ryan of 202 Riverside Drive, New York, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William M. Ryan, to J. Clarke Cassidy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cassidy of 611 West 156th Street. Mr. Cassidy was graduated from Columbia in 1914 and is resident engineer for the Aetna Explosives Company in Emporium, Penn.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shumway of New Rochelle, N. Y., announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Marie Janet Farnam, to Ensign Harrub Balfour Kenney, U. S. N., of San Francisco, Cal.

QUEENA MARIO MAKES DEBUT

Department of Justice officers visited the Shubert Theatre yesterday to see if the San Carlo Opera Company's young men, who are Italians for the most part, had taken out their registration cards under the American draft rules. The singers were already in costume ready to go on in a matinee of "The Tales of Hoffmann," which it was arranged they should finish without interruption. So the men singers lined up at 7:30 last evening, each with his credentials ready, and the inspection was completed in time for the evening's double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana," and "Pagliacci."

The season's first début of a young American soprano attracted an unusual audience at the matinee of Offenbach's gay and melodious opera. Queena Mario was the little heroine's stage name, and it was no less a patron than Mme. Sembrich who bespoke a hearing on her behalf, not as a finished artist, but as a beginner, who was to have her first opportunity with Mr. Gallo's busy troupe to gain a repertory of operatic rôles. Miss Mario in private life is Queena Sinathino Tillotson, hence the change to a familiar Italian name for her stage career.

She is an artist by inheritance, her grandmother on her mother's side being a Greek noblewoman and writer, and her parents, it is said, cultivated musicians. Her animated stage presence and agreeable voice of peculiarly bright quality charmed many hearers, the mechanical Doll episode winning an ovation, while the later scene of the singing girl, Antonia, again earned recalls and flowers. The mirror air of Joseph Royer, who alone sang in French, was applauded. There were also the Misses De Mette and Marta Melis in the barcarolle, Mr. di Biasi in a death's head makeup as Dr. Miracle, and Mr. Agostini as hero of the successive love tales.

ASSAILS WILSON ON LABOR.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 4.—Most of the Berlin papers publish President Wilson's Labor Day message with no comment except that furnished by the Wolff Agency.

The Vorwärts is an exception. It says that Wilson has always loudly proclaimed that he is not concerned with one nation, but with the whole of humanity, and especially the laboring class of other nations.

"We are fully agreed," the paper continues, "except that we disapprove of the means he proposes and consider them dishonorable. How was Wilson in (America's) peace time, when we fought a war of defense and necessity against all which he now declares must be fought? He stood at the head of a civilian Government on the other side of the barricade, one of the Governments which had always fought against labor. He lived at peace then with the German autocracy, and only now that he is at war with Germany has he discovered his hate of the German autocracy.

"We are entitled and obliged to reject a bond which sends cannon and shells across the sea to destroy German workmen in uniforms. We know also that in this we are at one with the American Socialists, who disapprove Wilson's methods of freeing the world as much as we do and are therefore persecuted."

MOSES TRAN CLEGG.

Bacteriologist, Noted for His Work in Leprosy, Dies in Honolulu.

News has just reached New York of the death in Honolulu, Hawaii, on Aug. 10, of Moses Tran Clegg, a bacteriologist well known to the medical profession throughout the country, and formerly laboratory director in the Health Officers' Department, Port of New York.

Mr. Clegg was born at Red Bluff, Ark., Sept. 1, 1876. He was educated at the University of Arkansas and on March 31, 1911, joined the United States Hospital Corps, serving through the Philippine insurrection. He was assistant bacteriologist in the Bureau of Science, Philippine Civil Service, from April 2, 1902, to September, 1910. From 1910 to 1915 he was in the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service as assistant director of the United States Leprosy Investigation Station in Hawaii, and he is accredited with the discovery of the leprosy germ in 1909, which achievement revolutionized the further research work in leprosy. Mr. Clegg was bacteriologist of the United States Public Health Service in San Francisco from 1916 to 1917, and at the time of his death was superintendent of Queen's Hospital in Honolulu.

Mr. Clegg was a member of the Far Eastern Society of Tropical Medicine, Philippine Island Medical Association, and Honolulu Medical Society. He was a writer on bacteriological subjects.

HENRY HAMILTON DEAD.

Henry Hamilton was born at Nunhead, Surrey, England, and was educated at Christ's Hospital. Originally he was an actor and made his first appearance on the stage in 1873 at the Theatre Royal, in Edinburgh. He afterward appeared on the London stage at the Lyceum Theatre, and subsequently at Drury Lane. Retiring from the stage in 1883, he devoted his time to writing plays, his first being "A Shadow Sceptre," in blank verse, which was produced in Edinburgh. His adaptations included "Moths" and "La Tosca."

Among his musical plays were "The Duchess of Dantzig," "Veronique," and "Autumn Manoeuvres," and in collaboration with others he wrote "The Armada," "The Derby Winner," "The White Heather," "The Sins of Society," "The Great Ruby," "The Whip," and "Sealed Orders." He was also the author of the popular song "Tommy Atkins."

Julius Philip Cahen.

JULIUS PHILIP CAHEN of 354 Central Park West, President of J. P. Cahen & Bro., Inc., wholesale dry goods merchants, 372 Broadway, died suddenly Tuesday at his place of business. He was born in Westphalia in 1843. In 1862 Mr. Cahen entered the United States Navy, serving on the gunboat Currituck, which convoyed the Monitor to Hampton Roads, where the latter did battle with the Merrimac. Mr. Cahen was a Director and Secretary of the West Side Dispensary and Hospital for many years, a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the New York Zoological Society, Farragut Naval Post, 516, G. A. R., and Doric Lodge, 280, F. and A. M.

SUSAN OSBORNE DIES; FRIEND OF HOMELESS

Founder of St. Mary's Home for Women and Girls, Which She Directed for 41 Years.

Miss Susan M. Osborne, who founded St. Mary's Home for Friendless Women and Girls, 141 and 143 West Fourteenth Street, forty-one years ago, and continued all these years as the active head of the institution, died suddenly Tuesday night in St. Vincent's Hospital of heart disease. She became ill at the home and died in the hospital shortly after being admitted.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in St. Francis Xavier's Church. Church dignitaries and prominent persons will attend the services. It is expected that Mgr. Mooney will represent Cardinal Farley, who is ill.

Miss Osborne was born in New York City a little more than sixty years ago, and on Oct. 15, 1877, when a young woman, she founded the Home for Friendless Women and Girls in West Fourteenth Street, and later established the refuge shelter in Fifteenth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. The institutions were supported by voluntary subscriptions, and it was one of the rules of Miss Osborne that no one was to be turned away. Besides caring for the homeless girls and women, Miss Osborne also fed, clothed, and partly supported many homeless men.

While up to let in a seventeen-year-old girl picked up on the street by a policeman early one morning about a week ago, Miss Osborne contracted a cold, which is believed to have hastened her death. Miss Osborne is survived by a brother, John Osborne. She will be buried in Bridgeport, Conn.

BARON FORREST DIES AT SEA

MELBOURNE, Sept. 4.—Baron Forrest, three times Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Australia, has died at sea while on a voyage from Australia to England.

Baron Forrest was born in Western Australia in 1847. Between 1869 and 1874 he commanded several exploring expeditions into the interior of Australia and received the thanks of the Government.

In 1890 Baron Forrest was the first Premier and Treasurer of Western Australia. Subsequently he held several positions in the Australian Federal Government, being Postmaster General in 1901, Minister of Home Affairs in 1903, and Treasurer in 1905-07, 1909-10 and 1913-14. The Baron was acting Prime Minister of the Commonwealth in the Spring of 1907. He was a persistent advocate of the East-to-West Trans-australian Railway, the 1,160 miles of which has been almost completed.

Shall We Censor Fiction to Hide the Truth?
Rupert Hughes' New Novel
"The Unpardonable Sin"

Censorship at Its Very Worst.
A very recent inquirer at one of the New York libraries for "The Unpardonable Sin," by RUPERT HUGHES, was told, rather scornfully and rather haughtily, that it was not the intention to have the book there or to assist in its circulation. No explanation of the refusal was made, but it would be both interesting and profitable to have one, and it might well be obtained by the Federal authorities. For, of the innumerable books that the war has produced, not half a dozen, if as many, that would be catalogued as fiction better deserve reading by good Americans of every age and both sexes than does "The Unpardonable Sin," and none better rewards a careful perusal.

Many parts of the book, indeed, will be found highly objectionable by pro-Germans and by pacifists, and there are, perhaps, a few people outside of those two closely related classes who, in this instance as in so many others, think ignorance is innocence and hope to abolish painful or terrible facts by ignoring them. It is true that Captain HUGHES tells plainly, but always decently, of certain abominable crimes committed by the Germans in Belgium. He doesn't tell all of those crimes, or the worst of them, because the revelation of some of them is possible only in official reports and technical treatises on psychopathology. He exercises a wise discretion and keeps well within the limits of the permissible, the commendable, and the essential—the essential because only by telling what he tells, and only by telling it as well as he tells it, can the American public be forced clearly to realize just why the United States and its allies have sternly determined, cost what it may, to fight this war with Germany to a real finish.

For every statement made by Captain HUGHES as of fact there is the warrant of sworn testimony, with names, dates, and places, in the reports of the Bryce Commission and those of the French and Belgian Governments. He has exaggerated nothing and set down nothing in malice. And it is this book that a New York library sees fit to banish from its shelves! Why? Who rejects the theory of disloyalty—and to protect the enemy from deserved obloquy is a form of treason—must resort to the alternative explanation, hardly more charitable, of a silly and vicious prudery. Anyhow, such a censorship of the public's reading matter by library officials is nothing less than intolerable.

Not a Public Library Ban.
To the Editor of The New York Times:
In today's issue of THE TIMES there is an article under the title, "Censorship at Its Very Worst," in which it is stated that "a very recent inquirer at one of the New York libraries for 'The Unpardonable Sin,' by Rupert Hughes, was told, rather scornfully and rather haughtily, that it was not the intention to have the book there or to assist in its circulation." It is not stated at what library this happened; and I fear some of your readers may be led to conclude that it was at some branch of the New York Public Library.

The book referred to was approved for purchase for the branches of the New York Public Library some time ago. In due course copies will go to every one of the branch libraries in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Richmond—the only libraries under the control of the New York Public Library. We cannot promise fully to meet the demand for the book, because our book funds are inadequate.

If the incident described by "Inquirer" occurred at a branch of the New York Public Library we shall be grateful to him if he will write us at once, giving the name of the branch and information that will enable us to identify the assistant who made such a statement as he describes. It goes without saying that branch library assistants do not decide questions of this sort.

Dear Arthur:
THE UNPARDONABLE SIN is a very, very strong book. It teaches just the lesson our people should learn. I am mighty glad Captain Hughes wrote it, and I hope it will be most widely read.
Faithfully yours,
Theodore Roosevelt

RUTH GAINS ADDED RESPECT

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—A drizzling rain which blew in today from Lake Michigan took all the straw hat atmosphere from the opening of the World's Series between the Cubs and the Boston Red Sox, and necessitated the postponement of the first game until tomorrow. It is by no means certain that the driving rainstorm will be finished in time for the National and American League pennant winners to play then, for they have no one's word for it, only the weather man's. The stiff northeaster which brought the rain is, according to local weather sharps, a bad omen, for it is freely predicted that the rain will stay a couple of days or more.

The National Commission called the game off this morning when it was learned that Comiskey Park was a mud puddle. A couple of hundred rabid fans had stayed in line since early morning waiting for the first shot at the bleachers, and they were the only disappointed folks, for the baseball clubs are pleased to have a chance for a Saturday and maybe a Sunday game here before going on to Boston to end the series.

There has been a good advance sale of these boxes and reserved seats, but there is no such demand for the pasteboards as there was here last year, when the White Sox mingled with the Giants. With the reduction in prices the Cub officials say that the park will be filled, but the crowds will not be as large as in former years.

Interest in the games took a jump when it was announced that the clubs would play here Saturday. If it should rain tomorrow and keep the teams here Sunday, it is believed that the game on that day will take on the aspect of the world's series festivals of old.

No Betting Proposition.

There is an oppressive silence among the baseball fans who usually make wagers on the games. One prominent Chicago gambler said this afternoon that he had never seen so few wagers on the baseball classic. He said that he was willing to bet on either club. He had no choice. Chicago's faith in the Cubs does not seem to be so strong as it was a week ago, and a few Boston enthusiasts were willing to wager 6 to 5 on the Red Sox, but these were small bets.

Chicago has an impressive respect for Babe Ruth's bat. As the left-handed slugger has banged all kinds of pitching this season, keen judges of the game say that Ruth will be able to hit the Cub left-handers, Tyler and Vaughn. The other Boston players do not seem to scare the Cubs very much.

The Boston infield got another jolt today when it was announced that Dave Shean may be out of the opening game with a split finger. He got the injury while catching a pop fly at Comiskey Park yesterday afternoon. Jack Coffey of Denver may start the game at second, unless Shean's finger can be patched up successfully in the meantime. To counterbalance this setback for the Red Sox Jackie Fred Thomas of the Great Lakes Naval Station, will be at his old position at third base. Manager Barrow figures that the return of Thomas will balance the infield considerably.

Soldiers to Get News of Games.

The National Commission announced that the Committee on Public Information was co-operating in the plan to cable the reports of the series overseas. Short stories of the games will go to the American forces in France, Italy, and England, while the news will also be flashed to the American warships in many waters.

There is more speculation than ever about the probable pitchers for the opening battle. Manager Barrow refused to give an inkling about his pitcher, but it is stated that he plans to send Carl Mays to the mound, because he believes that his underhand service will be so new to the Cubs that they will be unable to do much with it. Lefty Tyler, on account of his world's series experience with the Braves in 1914, will undoubtedly be the choice of Manager Mitchell.

Both the Chicago and the Boston managers were confident of winning, and Manager Mitchell said tonight: "We will win the series. Our club is more evenly balanced from top to bottom, and every man from Flack down to the pitcher can hit, and is likely to break up a game. I would not take out any of the first eight for a pinch hitter. I think we have the best pitchers in Vaughn, Tyler, Hendrix, and Douglas. I want to close the year by taking the series, because there is no telling when another will be played."

Manager Ed Barrow of the Red Sox was just as sure of winning as his rival. Barrow said: "My boys have shown gameness under fire, and that's what wins. They went through the equivalent of a world's series this year when they played the Cleveland Indians. Defeat in that series meant that we would probably lose the American League championship. My boys trimmed the Indians, and I believe that they will trim the Cubs just as easily. They are a smart team, and they don't get fussed."

CLOSE FINISHES NUMEROUS.

Every Heat Provides Thrill at Grand Circuit.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 4.—There was scarcely a heat in today's Grand Circuit races at Charter Oak Park, which included the $5,000 Battle Royal for 2:06 trotters, that did not end in a hair-raising finish. In nearly every instance the horses were neck and neck when they passed under the wire.

The greatest thrills for the big crowd were provided in the 2:04 race, which Judge Ormond won in straight heats, but finishing under Crozier's lash on each occasion. The lead changed several times during the heats, but Judge Ormond displayed the necessary power on each occasion when called upon.

The Battle Royal, won by Ima Jay, owned and driven by Harvey Ernest, was all that the name implied. Cox's Busy's Lassie took the first heat, with Ima Jay, who cast a shoe, finishing second. Ernest's horse went to the stable for repairs and came back to capture the next two heats and the race in impressive style.

The heats of the 2:13 trot were well contested. Boquita Girl won the opener, but could do no better than fifth in the second, while Minnie Arthur, seventh in the first heat, captured the second. The third went to Minnie Arthur in a driving finish, giving her the race.

Mabel Trask and Miss Harris M., the two best mares in training, were booked today for a special match race on Friday.

BOSTON SCHEDULE STANDS.

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—Postponement of the first world's series baseball game in Chicago does not affect the schedule as originally arranged for this city, it was announced today. Unless there is another postponed game in Chicago the first game here will be played Monday.

Tonight notification cards will be sent out to all who have applied for world's series games in Boston, and tomorrow morning the box offices at Fenway Park will be opened for the sale of tickets to those who present notification cards. Any tickets remaining after allotment to regular applicants will be placed on general sale later.

SIX AQUATIC MEETS TODAY.

Novice and Expert Swimmers to Compete Throughout City.

Today will be observed as Water Carnival Day in the continuation of Children's Patriotic Play Week. At six city-owned baths in Manhattan and one in Brooklyn swimming meets will be conducted by the Metropolitan A. A. U. under the direct supervision of Otto Wahle, Chairman of the local A. A. U. Swimming Committee. These meets will be almost entirely for the residents of the neighborhood in which the baths are situated.

The baths where the meets will be held are West Sixtieth Street, West Twenty-eighth Street, East Twenty-third Street, East Fifty-fourth Street, Rutgers Place, Rivington Street, and Betsy Head Bath in Brooklyn.

PLAN FINAL N. Y. A. C. MEET.

Five Events Make Up Last Contests at Travers Island.

The final athletic meet of the weekly series which the New York A. C. has been conducting throughout the Summer at its Travers Island grounds, will be held Saturday. Five events have been arranged, and include a 120-yard dash, three-quarter-mile run, three-mile walk, throwing the 16-pound hammer and a quarter-mile run.

Previous to the Travers Island meet there will be an unveiling ceremony at Mouquin's Restaurant, Sixth Avenue, to mark the spot where the Winged Foot club was organized half a century ago. A tablet will be uncovered and the unveiling address will be made by Justice Bartow S. Weeks.

Bantams to Box in Jersey.

Bantamweight boxers will occupy the limelight tomorrow night at the weekly show of the Jersey City Baseball Park. Three eight-round contests have been arranged. The principal bout will show Frankie Burns, the Jersey City veteran, against Battling Reddy. Pete Herman, recognized champion, who is now in naval training, will mingle with Young Zulu Kid of Brooklyn, a fellow-jackie. Mickey Russell will face Young Spencer in the other bout.

Welling to Box Wallace.

Joe Welling, formerly of Chicago, but now attached to the U. S. S. Granite State, will box Eddie Wallace of Brooklyn in the principal bout of eight rounds Monday night at the Armory A. A. of Jersey City.

Match Race Postponed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 4.—The match race between William and Single G., two champion pacers, which was to have been held as the feature event of today's race program at the Indiana State Fair, was postponed on account of rain.

FAVORITES TOPPLE IN BELMONT RACES

Favorites again had a hard time of it at Belmont Park yesterday, not the least upset of the afternoon coming when W. R. Coe's Uncle's Lassie showed enough speed to defeat several more fancied candidates in the Mineola Selling Stakes for two-year-olds, which was the feature of the day. In spite of the fact that he had not raced in more than a month, L. F. Wagner's Osgood was favorite for the dash of six furlongs, while Blairgowrie and Aunt Dinah both received more monetary support than did Uncle's Lassie.

Osgood never was prominent, and for the first part of the race the issue appeared to be between Aunt Dinah and Blairgowrie. After disposing of Blairgowrie, Aunt Dinah found a fresh opponent in Uncle's Lassie, which was brought up by McAtee in the last sixteenth to win by a head from Aunt Dinah. Blairgowrie was two lengths back and he was a length and a half in front of Osgood.

Stromboli was scratched from the Brentwood Handicap at a mile, and again the talent went astray by backing Walnut Hall until he closed an even money favorite. Walnut Hall was never dangerous, and appeared unable to keep up with the pace set by Captain J. E. Davis's steeplechaser Brooks and closely followed through the back stretch by Rhine Maiden and Berlin. Rounding the bend it looked as though Brooks would make a runaway of it as he opened a big gap. The spurt was ill-timed, however, as when Rhine Maiden was let down in the stretch Brooks had nothing left and E. F. Whitney's mare was an easy winner by three lengths. Walnut Hall finished five lengths back of Brooks.

S. C. Hildreth's Smart Money, the choice for the Locust Valley at a mile and a sixteenth, was handled none too well by Lyke. After keeping away from the early pace Smart Money was rushed to the front at the end of the back stretch. Ensor showed more patience with R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s Wyoming, and coming with a well-judged run in the stretch Wyoming scored handily by half a length.

The biggest surprise of the day was furnished in the second race for maidens at a mile. Jefferson Livingston's Mose, the outsider in the field of seven, went to the front early and, making all the pace, lasted long enough to beat the favorite, John E. Madden's Grouse, by two lengths.

The Brighton Stable's Purchase proved that he is a real good youngster when he won the last race from Ophelia and Lion d'Or. Incidentally he was the only favorite to win, as he closed a slight choice over Lion d'Or. In the first half of the journey both Lion d'Or and Ophelia outfooted Purchase, but the latter showed a remarkable flight of speed in the final quarter, winning by three lengths in spite of the fact that he swerved all over the track.

There was some excitement for the crowd in the lining up of a squad of soldiers at the entrance gate. Registration cards were scrutinized, but only a few slackers were discovered.

EXPENSES FOR ATHLETES.

Chicago A. A. Sets Aside Fund to Help Titleseekers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—A fund of $3,000 today was set aside by the Chicago Athletic Association to defray the expenses of athletic stars who are to compete in the National A. A. U. outdoor track and field championship at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station Sept. 20, 21, and 23.

John L. Barchard, Chairman of the Chicago A. A. Athletic Committee, said that efforts would be made to obtain furloughs for athletes now in the army and naval service so as to assure their competition. Probably fifty star athletes, among them several national champions, are in the service. Requests for their furloughs will be sent to the War and Navy Departments this week.

Chairman Barchard, who has just returned from an Eastern trip in connection with the meet, said the athletes of the East are enthusiastic over the games. Fourteen will come West from the Pelham Bay Naval Training Station, he said, five will be sent on from the Boston Navy Yard, while the Meadowbrook A. C. of Philadelphia will send twenty-five.

TO HOLD REUNION REGATTA.

Harlem Clubs Plan to Race in Six Events.

Despite the fact that the annual Harlem River regatta has been discarded because of the war, followers of the rowing sport are to have a substitute which promises to come as near to approaching the genuine event as is possible in the present war times. Following a meeting of the members and officials of boat clubs situated on the uptown stretch of water it was decided to hold a Reunion Regatta, under the combined auspices of the competing clubs, Sunday afternoon.

Six events have been decided upon and they have been adopted to fit the occasion. Novice oarsmen and juniors are taken care of in the competitions, and in addition there will be a cutter event set aside for the local and nearby naval training stations. The program includes a single gig race for those who have never won a single gig race, a double gig race, a four-oared gig race, in which one member of each crew must be a junior, a quadruple scull race, in which one man in each crew must be a junior, and a four-oared barge race.

An inkling of the heavy inroads which have been made in rowing circles by enlistments and the draft is had in the qualifications for the four-oared gig event. The officials have decided in advance that if less than three crews enter for this race, it will be changed to a pair-oared gig race. This means that there is some doubt among the clubs as to their ability to nominate full crews.

The clubs under whose combined auspices the regatta will be held are: Atalanta, First Bohemian, Friendship, Lone Star, Metropolitan, Nassau, New York A. C., Nonpareil, and Union Boat Clubs. The boathouses of the Nonpareil and Union Boat Clubs will be open for the day to all oarsmen and followers of the sport.

A. A. U. Medals for Soldiers.

The Metropolitan A. A. U. has distributed eight sets of medals to army officials of Camp Raritan to be awarded to soldiers who compete successfully at a track and field meet to be held Sept. 11 at Metuchen, N. J.

You'll never need to ask "What is the price?" when the shoe salesman is showing you W.L.Douglas shoes because the actual value is determined and the retail price fixed at the factory before W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom. The stamped price is W. L. Douglas personal guarantee that the shoes are always worth the price paid for them.

Stamping the price on every pair of shoes as a protection against high prices and unreasonable profits is only one example of the constant endeavor of W. L. Douglas to protect his customers. W. L. Douglas name on shoes is his pledge that they are the best in materials, workmanship and style possible to produce at the price. Into every pair go the results of sixty-six years experience in making shoes, dating back to the time when W. L. Douglas was a lad of seven, pegging shoes.

The quality of W.L.Douglas product is guaranteed by more than 40 years experience in making fine shoes. The smart styles are the leaders in the fashion centres of America. They are made in a well-equipped factory at Brockton, Mass., by the highest paid, skilled shoemakers, under the direction and supervision of experienced men, all working with an honest determination to make the best shoes for the price that money can buy. The retail prices are the same everywhere. They cost no more in San Francisco than they do in New York.

CAUTION—Before you buy be sure W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom and the inside top facing. If the stamped price has been mutilated, BEWARE OF FRAUD.

For sale by 105 W.L.Douglas stores and over 9,000 W.L. Douglas dealers, or can be ordered direct from W. L. Douglas by mail. Send for booklet telling how to order shoes through the mail, postage free.

Are Wondering About Spring.

Manufacturers of highgrade shoes for men appear to be divided in their opinions as to just what Spring holds in store for them in the way of business. On one side there is a disposition to believe that, with the new draft and all, the call for these goods will be lighter than for many years. As against this, however, are the assertions of the more optimistic ones that, not only are many of the men who buy high-priced shoes above the maximum military age, but that many of them will be exempted for one reason or another. In addition to this, it is asserted, the tendency on the part of highly-paid war workers to buy better stuff than heretofore must not be overlooked. On the question of production for Spring, however opinion is unanimous that it will be severely hampered and be smaller than usual.

Short Capes for Early Fall.

Short capes for women are attaining to quite a little prominence in the early Fall business. It was pointed out yesterday by one authority in the trade that these garments, being not much more than waist length, are particularly well suited for wear when little more than something around the shoulders is needed for protection from the crisp but not cold weather of early Fall. Navy blue, dark gray and the inevitable khaki color are among the shades which sell most readily. Wool velour is mentioned as one of the leading fabrics.

Gray Goods Sales Pick Up.

A little more snap was visible to the demand for gray goods in this market yesterday than on Tuesday, partly as the result of the announcement of additional maximum prices that can be asked for various constructions of these cloths. Further sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made from second hands, for delivery during this month and next, at 17 cents. Actual spots of these goods were reported to have sold at 17½, but there appears to be some question of whether they really did or not. Business was done on combed lawns during the day at the newly-announced prices, and the same was true of sateens. Among the sales of the latter were 36-inch 64-72s at 16⅛ cents.

Features in Separate Skirts.

Separate skirt styles for Fall have undergone some quite noticeable changes since this same season a year ago. Not only is the long skirt reaching to the ankles most popular this year, but tunics are long in front, frequently pointed, and going up to not more than hip length in the back. In some models these long front pointed tunics are combined with back panels reaching from the waist to within five or six inches of the hem of the skirt or all the way to the bottom. It is said not only that buyers were quick to see the attractiveness of these skirt styles when laying in their Fall stocks, but that women generally are accepting them with alacrity as something new and unusually becoming.

Umbrella Makers Relieved.

Perhaps to no other industry was news of the lifting of the ban on Christmas giving so welcome as it was to the umbrella trade. Though by no means non-essential, it is felt that umbrella business would have suffered greatly from any campaign to discourage the customary exchanging of gifts at Christmas time. Quite a few orders for the Fall and holiday seasons had already been placed, but with the news of the lifting of the ban additional purchases are being made. Consequently, the total for the season is reaching substantial proportions. A very large percentage of this business is said to be in the medium and higher priced lines.

Will There Be Commandeering?

According to comment expressed in certain quarters of the local cotton goods trade, it would not be surprising if the lack of interest shown by many mills in answering with bids the Government's requests for merchandise led to some stimulation of them in the near future by the powers that be, if not to actual commandeering of looms. Recent bids put in on twills and drills did not cover the quantities asked for, those opened on certain twills here on Tuesday, for instance, totaling only about half the required amount. The most flagrant case of the apparent unwillingness of mills to come forward with bids, however, was their recent failure to offer scarcely more than a third of the great quantity of 44-40 bandage cloths that were asked for. These goods must be supplied, it was pointed out yesterday, and, if it is not done voluntarily, the answer of the Government is said to be obvious.

Hard to Get Goods Out.

It is not often that a manufacturer is heard to say that he is glad business is not as good as it might be, but it happened yesterday. The manufacturer who said it is in the women's ready-to-wear business, and the remark he made was that, if orders came in any faster than at their present sedate rate, he would have to let them go unfilled. Amplifying this remark, he said that not only was his factory organization quite "shot to pieces," but that it was impossible to get deliveries of fabrics, trimmings, &c., rapidly and in large enough quantities to meet a really active demand. With the extended draft ahead, he said that this condition was likely to become even more marked than at present.

Opium Prices Go Down.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that an important feature of these markets of late has been the announcement of a decline of $1 an ounce for opium, brought about by larger supplies and keener selling competition. Opium derivatives closed easier in sympathy. Crude drugs are firm, notwithstanding the light demand. Heavy chemicals are also strong in price. In colors and dyestuffs there is an increasing interest, owing to the scarcity of intermediates which are advancing in price. The crudes are in better demand. Dyewoods are very scarce.

Early Liberty Loan Will Hurt.

The early date at which the Fourth Liberty Loan "drive" will begin this year, as compared with the one that took place last Fall, will, it was said yesterday, probably have a very upsetting effect on Fall business for the retailers. Especially will this be true, it was asserted in the case of wearing apparel of various kinds. The "drive" will begin at a time when the retail season is just getting into full swing, and will end just about the time the women of the country have become used to looking for clearance sales. They will not buy while the "drive" is on, it is contended, and that, as much as anything else, will prevent many retailers from setting back the usual clearance season through need of "ready money." Just what effect this will have on the subscriptions of the merchants, particularly of the smaller ones, is problematical.

Sweaters Seem Popular.

Sweaters are destined for an unusual run of popularity this Fall if the business which has already been done in these lines may be taken as a criterion. Silk no less than various wool sweaters are attracting considerable attention, and fibre silk lines in a number of novelty weaves are also selling. Angora seems to be in vogue chiefly as a trimming. It is used a great deal for collars and cuffs and usually in a shade contrasting with the body of the sweater. The coat-cut type is not being neglected, but slip-overs seem to be the most generally sought.

ALIENS BIG BOND BUYERS.

Statistics on Their Purchases Made Public by Treasury Department.

The Foreign Language Divisions of the Liberty Loan Committees of the several Federal Reserve Districts have made reports to the Treasury Department of the purchases of bonds of the Third Liberty Loan by persons of foreign birth or immediate foreign extraction, so far as they have been able to identify the purchasers.

The statistics given, however, do not include all the bond buyers of the various nationalities reported, as many bought through other sources, where no statistics were kept as to the origin of the purchasers.

According to the figures made public by the Treasury Department, more than 7,000,000 persons of foreign birth or immediate foreign extraction, subscribed a total of $741,437,000 to the Third Liberty Loan. As the total subscriptions amounted to $4,176,516,850, it appears that the subscriptions filed directly or indirectly through the foreign language committees amounted to 17¾ per cent.

Thirty-eight nationalities are included in the number of foreign-born subscribers reported. The Publicity Department of the New York Liberty Loan Committee made public yesterday the following figures, calling attention to the fact that they represent 55 per cent. of the total subscribed by the foreign-born population:

Scottish	$5,000	Lettish	40,150
Albanian	230,150	Norwegian	5,987,550
Armenian	393,850	Polish	37,583,700
Assyrian	90,450	Rumanian	272,100
Belgian	875,000	Ruthenian	13,100
Bohemian	31,750,550	Portuguese	1,711,150
Chinese	285,850	Russian	2,599,600
Bulgarian	2,100	Serbian	142,150

French	2,107,850	Swiss	220,450
Finnish	191,750	Scandinavian, (unclassf'd)	72,950
German	87,295,000	Syrian	910,500
English	337,100	Ukrainian	129,500
Greek	6,838,700	*Miscel'ous	43,988,400
Italian	52,247,350
Japanese	28,250
Jewish	16,737,550
Jugoslav	4,200,250
Lithuanian	4,334,350
Total			$407,790,350

According to Treasury Department estimates, there were 17,000,000 individual subscribers to the Third Liberty Loan. The figures given out yesterday would indicate that 41½ per cent. of that number were persons of foreign birth or extraction.

HOLD WOMAN IN SPY PLOT.

Margaret Vara, 22 years old, was arrested last night in a raid on an apartment in West 111th Street conducted by Assistant District Attorney Smith, aided by Secret Service operatives and detectives from the West 100th Street Police Station. She was held in $5,000 bail as a material witness and will be taken to the District Attorney's office today.

She is said to be the wife of a man recently arrested for posing as an American Army officer and obtaining military information for communication to Germany.

In the search for the woman the detectives entered another apartment in Central Park West, where they served subpoenas upon Mrs. Anna B. Schott, a woman who gave her name as Mrs. McCullough, believed to be a friend of Margaret Vara, and a young woman known as Caroline Collins.

Miss Collins told the police that she was a Belgian, had lived during the war at Antwerp, and was present at the bombardment of that city. She said that, through the efforts of some German officers who had become interested in her, she had obtained a passport to Holland on the pretense of visiting her sick mother, and had made her way thence to America.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks More Active, but with the Advance Halted—Easier Money Conditions.

There was a better distribution of trading on the Stock Exchange yesterday, with a substantial increase in the volume of dealings, but the edge of the enthusiasm which the Street displayed on Tuesday was worn off. The war news continued to reflect a growing disparity between the vigor with which General Haig is pushing his advantage, and the quality of the resistance, but speculative operations were controlled by the nearness of the new revenue legislation. The advance in the final hour of the previous session was so rapid that it invited selling, especially from traders who have been carrying a long line of Steel accumulated from five to ten points lower. At no time during yesterday's session did this issue quite reach its best price of Tuesday, and it closed with a net loss of ¾. Most of the other active issues lost a little ground.

In the light of the recent warning against undue speculative activity it was interesting to learn yesterday afternoon that call money was being offered on the Stock Exchange at 5 per cent., the first time in three weeks that loans have been obtainable under 6 per cent. Most of the day's business was done at the higher rate, and it is expected that easier money will prove but temporary in view of the widening demand. The deposit of $195,000,000 as part of the process of paying off the United Kingdom notes gave the money market a brief respite.

Exchange rates continued to move in this country's favor and against the neutral markets as evidence of the waning strength of the Central Powers. Rates on Holland and Scandinavian cities again declined sharply, and exchange on all of the neutral countries was more favorable to buyers than has been the case in several months.

The position in which holders of the Chicago & Western Indiana 6 per cent. notes, which matured Sept. 1, find themselves as a result of the confusion in Washington is unfortunate, for there was no question of the ability of the company to effect an extension, had the delays over the Government contract not left the management with no assurance of a continuation of rentals which have been sufficient to pay a dividend of 6 per cent. in addition. The notes are now in default, and it may be necessary to form a protective committee to collect the required amount necessary as a preliminary to foreclosure proceedings. That, in turn, would involve the sale of the $21,000,000 of first and refunding mortgage bonds securing the notes. The leases provide that the five railroads owning the company's stock shall pay the interest on the bonds and a substantial amount into a sinking fund for their retirement, but the tangle into which inter-company arrangements have been thrown by Government control has, for the present, at least, made contracts of doubtful value.

BUOYANT TONE IN LONDON.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The war situation on the western front was the chief factor on the Stock Exchange today. The market had a buoyant tone and French 5s advanced two points, while other allied funds hardened. Mining, oil, and engineering shares were prominent and firm features, and strength was maintained in shipping stocks under the lead of Cunards.

TOBACCO FINANCING PLAN.

American Co. to Raise $25,000,000 to Refund Acceptance Credit.

The American Tobacco Company is planning to issue $25,000,000 of serial notes, the proceeds of the sale of which are to be used for the payment of the $25,000,000 bankers' acceptance credit which matures on Nov. 22. The details of the financing have not yet been fully decided, but it is understood that the notes will be offered to the public on an attractive basis.

About a year ago a syndicate headed by the Guaranty Trust Company, the Chase Securities Company, and Kidder, Peabody & Co. was formed to purchase $25,000,000 6 per cent. ninety-day notes from the American Tobacco Company. These notes were accepted by a group of banks and trust companies and distributed among financial institutions. Under the arrangement entered into, the members of the syndicate agreed to a renewal every ninety days, the life of the credit being twelve months. The money thus raised was used for the purchase of leaf tobacco and other raw materials.

The same group of bankers is arranging for the new financing, and an announcement is expected within a few days.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Chicago & Western Indiana Notes.

The failure of the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company to meet the maturity of its $15,000,000 one-year 6 per cent. collateral trust notes, due Sept. 1, was the subject of considerable comment in financial circles. Many of the banks and investment houses received complaints from investors. It is generally believed that in the absence of Government control of the roads, the Chicago & Western Indiana would have been able to meet its obligations by borrowing money in the open market at current rates, and consequently the Federal Railroad Administration is being blamed for the default, it having declined to advance the necessary funds and having refused the company permission to borrow at a rate higher than 6 per cent. It is understood that plans are under way for the formation of a protective committee, which will look after the interests of the note-holders, and, if deemed advisable, institute proceedings calling for the sale of the $21,000,000 first and refunding bonds of the company which are held by the Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee, as security for the $15,000,000 of one-year notes.

New Financing in August.

New financing by American railroad and industrial corporations during the month of August amounted to only $89,514,000, as compared with $185,946,000 during the corresponding month, last year, according to a compilation made by the Journal of Commerce. Of the $89,514,000 total, short-term notes amounted to more than 75 per cent. The decrease in new financing operations is due directly to the work of the Capital Issues Committee and to the firmness of the money market. For the eight months of the current year new issues of stocks, bonds, and notes of railroad, industrial, and public utility corporations have amounted to $944,517,000, as compared with $1,267,900,000 for the same period last year.

Shorts Have Small Success.

Yesterday's reaction in case of numerous issues which appeal to traders was not surprising in view of the preceding session's quick advance. Board room gossip had it that Steel was sold extensively in the morning by traders who thought a profit might be found on the short side, but their efforts resulted in a decline of no more than ¾ of a point, compared with a gain of 4 points on Tuesday. While the active issues were inclined to move irregularly, the market as a whole had a firm to strong appearance because of the upbidding of many specialties.

Call Money Easier.

Call money rates, which have been ruling firm at 6 per cent., were somewhat easier yesterday. Some transactions were recorded at 5¾ and the closing figure was 5 per cent. It was said that only one loan of $100,000 was placed at 5 per cent. at the close. The sudden easing of rates caused comment, in view of the activities of the so-called Money Committee, which held an important meeting on Tuesday afternoon. There was talk of the committee having taken some action in respect to the money market, but efforts to obtain information concerning it were fruitless, the members of the committee declining to make any formal or informal statement. Three of the leading bankers who serve on the committee conferred again yesterday with Governor Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank.

Copper Company Output.

The copper companies which a year ago were suffering from a protracted strike are now able to show substantial monthly increases of output compared with the corresponding months of 1917. The Anaconda Company reports an output of 24,900,000 pounds in August, against 11,175,000 pounds in August last year. Compared with the July figures this year, August displayed a falling off of about 500,000 pounds, and the month was the smallest since February, a product largely of hot weather and insufficient labor. The Miami Company, with an output of 5,374,189 pounds in August, had a high record month since June, 1917. This concern also was severely affected by labor troubles last Summer and Autumn. The Miami production stands an excellent chance of establishing a new high yearly record in 1918 if the current rate is continued during the later months.

Dry Weather and Oil Fields.

The crops are not alone in suffering adversely from dry weather in the Southwest. Reports from the Oklahoma and Kansas oil fields indicate that shortage of water, caused by the lack of adequate rainfall, has retarded drilling operations and the pumping of oil from existing wells. In Oklahoma 300 wells are reported closed down, waiting for their water supplies to return to normal. Kansas apparently is less affected, although the new fields of Butler County have lately had trouble of another sort to affect output. A storm damaged many properties. A recovery is shown in late figures on production, however, the output in the week ended Aug. 27 being about 87,000 barrels, compared with 69,000 barrels the week ended Aug. 17.

ALLIED EXCHANGE RISES.

Dollar Up to 2.03 on Amsterdam Bourse—Teuton Rates Down.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 4.—The favorable Entente allied war news from the western front today caused a general advance in price on the Stock Exchange here, with lively dealings in American securities. All Entente exchange rates were appreciably higher. The dollar has risen in three days from 1.92 to 2.03.

The exchange rates of the Central Powers have declined.

RISE IN COTTON STIRS WAR BOARD

Baruch Announces That a Special Committee Will Consider Stabilization Plans.

MEMBERS TO VISIT SOUTH

Chairman Indicates That Price Fixing May Be Imperative—War Council Suggests Action.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The War Industries Board is soon to appoint a committee to consider the desirability and feasibility of effecting a stabilization of cotton prices and other matters connected with handling the crop. This was announced tonight by Chairman Baruch.

"The announcement of another short crop of cotton," said Mr. Baruch's statement, "raises in acute form the problem of satisfying the needs of the nation as well as those of the Allies and of securing an equitable distribution for the purpose of winning the war. Involved in the distribution is the problem of bringing about a reasonable stabilization of prices in the interest of both the producer and consumer."

Mr. Baruch said the committee to be appointed would study the "present cotton situation, the problems of distribution, the marketing of low grade cottons, and the desirability and feasibility of effecting a stabilization of prices."

The committee will begin activities as soon as possible, and will hold hearings at convenient points in the cotton producing States and at such other places as may be found necessary so that interested parties may present their views.

Announcement by the Department of Agriculture yesterday that the severe drought in July and August had reduced the production forecast from 15,235,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, as of June 25, to 11,137,000 bales, as of Aug. 25, was responsible for the board's decision, which was understood to have been approved by the War Council.

After the department's forecast was made public the price of cotton went up more than $10 a bale on the principal Cotton Exchanges of the country, and the advance was largely maintained today.

Proposals to fix the price of raw cotton have been advanced from time to time since the Government undertook voluntary price fixing with representatives of various industries, but strong opposition has been offered by representatives of cotton growers and members of Congress from cotton growing States.

COTTON PRICES DECLINE IN IRREGULAR MARKET

For the greater part of yesterday the cotton market was nervous and irregular. The opening quotations showed an advance of from 5 to 70 points, compared with the previous day's closing prices. This was due to strong cables from Liverpool, where the market was unusually strong, advancing 47, to 55 points right at the beginning of trading. While during the early trading there was good buying by Liverpool and Wall Street interests, later in the day there was heavy hedge selling and the market declined about 60 points below Tuesday's final quotations and more than $5 a bale under the highest sales on the opening call.

The early break brought October contracts to 3,500 and January contracts down to 34.75. During the early afternoon the market was quiet and fluctuations were irregular. Sentiment seemed to be greatly mixed. The market broke again in the last hour under increased Southern selling, which uncovered stop loss orders on the long side. October touched 34.92 and January at 34.15.

The market closed barely steady, with October showing a net loss of 113 points for the day and December contracts a loss of 115 points.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 9,963 packages. Supplies of desirable grades of fresh creamery are short, and the market is again higher and very firm. There is a better feeling in all classes of stock and trade is fair. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 49½@50c; extras, 92 score, 49c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 46½@48½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 44@46c; thirds, 42@43c; unsalted, higher than extras, 51@51½c; extras, 50@50½c; firsts, 48@49½c; seconds, 45½@47½c; State dairy tubs, finest, 48@48½c; good to prime, 46@47½c; common to fair, 41@45c renovated, extras, 43c; firsts, 41½@42½c; lower grades, 38½@41c; imitation creamery, firsts, 40@40½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 38@38½c; seconds, 36@36½c; lower grades, 34½@35½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 36@36½c; No. 2, 35½c; lower grades, 33@35c.

EGGS.—17,676 cases. There has been liberal trading in desirable qualities of fresh gathered stock and a fair movement of good medium grades at proportionate prices, the market holding a generally steady tone. The quality of the recent supply has improved considerably and dealers are generally having less difficulty in obtaining a sufficient supply of useful qualities except of the extremely fancy goods, which are still very scarce. There is less very cheap stock on the market and good lots of dirties and checks are in sellers' favor. Storage eggs continue in fair demand and firm. Nearby white eggs of exceptionally fancy quality are in light supply, and these sell quite promptly at fully sustained prices. There is still a considerable surplus of average good and lower grades, which have to be forced for sale at any reasonable offers. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 51@52c; extra firsts, 48@50c; firsts, 44@47c; seconds and poorer, 30@43c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 37@38c; No. 2 and poorer, 28@36c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 32@34c; under grades, 25@31c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 43½@44c; firsts, charges paid, 42½@43c; seconds, charges paid, 38@42c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 62@66c; ordinary to prime, 45@60c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 40@62c; Pacific Coast whites, firsts to finest, 62@63c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 40@60c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 54@56c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 38@52c.

$170,500,000 DRIVE FOR WELFARE WORK

President's Plan to Aid Activities of Seven Organizations on Behalf of Our Forces.

A NATION-WIDE CAMPAIGN

Is Set for Week of Nov. 11—To Follow Close After Fourth Liberty Loan Appeal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—A combined drive for a war fund of $170,500,000 for use in support of the seven organizations engaged in welfare work with the American Expeditionary Forces will be begun the week of Nov. 11 under arrangements perfected by President Wilson for consolidating all war fund drives in the future.

The organizations for which this fund is to be raised and the budgets of the seven authorized societies, as approved by the War Department, through the Commission on Training Camp Activities, of which Raymond B. Fosdick is Chairman, are as follows:

Young Men's Christian Association	$100,000,000
Young Women's Christian Association	15,000,000
National Catholic War Council, (including the work of the Knights of Columbus and special war activities for women)	30,000,000
Jewish Welfare Board	3,500,000
American Library Association	3,500,000
War Camp Community Service	15,000,000
Salvation Army	3,500,000
Total	$170,500,000

"This sum," said Mr. Fosdick, "which is probably the largest ever asked for in a single appeal, will be the goal of the drive for the week of Nov. 11. With the entire country behind it, I am confident of its success."

The Fourth Liberty Loan drive will open Sept. 28. The drive for the $170,500,000 fund for these welfare organizations was purposely fixed for Nov. 11 so as not to interfere with the Liberty Loan campaign. The fact that President Wilson had taken the initiative in arranging for such a consolidation of all war work fund drives in the future was disclosed today, when Chairman Fosdick made public this letter from the President:

"The White House,
"Washington, Sept. 3, 1918.

"My Dear Mr. Fosdick:

"May I not call your attention to a matter which has been recently engaging my thought not a little?

"The War Department has recognized the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the National Catholic War Council, the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association, and the Salvaton Army as accepted instrumentalities through which the men in the ranks are to be assisted in many essential matters of recreation and morale.

"It was evident from the first, and has become increasingly evident, that the services rendered by these agencies to our army and to our allies are especially one and all of a kind and must of necessity, if well rendered, be rendered in the closest co-operation. It is my judgment, therefore, that we shall secure the best results in the matter of the support of these agencies, if these seven societies will unite their forthcoming appeals for funds, in order that the spirit of the country in this matter may be expressed without distinction of race or religious opinion in support of what is in reality a common service.

"This point of view is sustained by the necessity, which the war has forced upon us, of limiting our appeals for funds in such a way that two or three comprehensive campaigns shall take the place of a series of independent calls upon the generosity of the country.

"Will you not, therefore, as Chairman of the Commission on Training Camp Activities, be good enough to request the societies in question to combine their approaching appeals for funds in a single campaign, preferably during the week of Nov. 11, so that in their solicitation of funds as well as in their work in the field, they may act in as complete co-operation and fellowship as possible?

"In inviting these organizations to give this new evidence of their patriotic co-operation, I wish it distinctly understood that their compliance with this request will not in any sense imply the surrender on the part of any of them of its distinctive character and autonomy, because I fully recognize the fact that each of them has its own traditions, principles, and relationships which it properly prizes and which, if preserved and strengthened, make possible the largest service.

"At the same time, I would be obliged if you would convey to them from me a very warm expression of the Government's appreciation of the splendid service they have rendered in ministering to the troops at home and overseas in their leisure time. Through their agencies the moral and spiritual resources of the nation have been mobilized behind our forces and used in the finest way, and they are contributing directly and effectively to the winning of the war.

"It has been gratifying to find such a fine spirit of co-operation among all the leaders of the organizations I have mentioned. This spirit, and the patriotism of all the members and friends of these agencies, give me confidence to believe that the united war work campaign will be crowned with abundant success.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Canada's War Effort

In the recent report issued by the British Imperial War Cabinet, Canada's services to the Empire and to the Allies in the production of munitions are referred to as follows:

"Canada's contribution during the last year has been very striking; 15 per cent. of the total expenditure of the Ministry of Munitions in the last six months of the year was incurred in that country. She has manufactured nearly every type of shell from the 18-pr. to the 8.2". In the case of the 18-pr. no less than 55 per cent of the output of shrapnel shells in the last six months came from Canada and most of these were complete rounds of ammunition which went direct to France. Canada also contributed 42 per cent. of the total 4.5 shells, 27 per cent. of the 6" shells, 20 per cent. of the 60-pr. H. E. shells, 15 per cent. of the 8" and 16 per cent. of the 9.2". In addition, Canada has supplied shell forgings, ammunition components, propellants, acetone, T. N. T., aluminum, nickel, nickel matte, aeroplane parts, agricultural machinery and timber, besides quantities of railway materials including no less than 450 miles of rails torn up from Canadian railways which were shipped direct to France."

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, Trustee

COMPANY AND PROPERTIES—Pennsylvania Electric Company, through three subsidiary public utility companies operating in western Pennsylvania, serves fifty communities (including Johnstown, Clearfield and Indiana) and one hundred and seventy-five coal mines in a territory having an estimated population of 390,000. The coal mines served are producing approximately 15,000,000 tons of coal annually.

The reproduction cost of all properties owned by these companies, on a basis of the average of prices of the past five years, is reported by independent engineers as in excess of $10,500,000. The total of First Mortgage Bonds, outstanding in the hands of the public, and of this issue of Notes is $5,553,000.

SECURITY—The Notes are secured by deposit and pledge with the Trustee of $2,000,000 par value of First Mortgage 5% Bonds of subsidiary companies.

EARNINGS—The combined net earnings of Pennsylvania Electric Company and its subsidiaries for the year ended June 30, 1918, were $606,759.57, or practically twice the total interest charges on all First Mortgage Bonds outstanding in the hands of the public and this issue of Notes.

SINKING FUND—The Indenture provides for a Sinking Fund of not less than 6% per annum of the par value of Notes outstanding. The Sinking Fund will operate semi-annually, first semi-annual payment to be made July 1, 1919.

LEGALITY—The legalities in connection with the issuance of these Notes have been approved by Messrs. Roberts, Montgomery & McKeehan, of Philadelphia.

SEEK FAIR PRICE FOR SMALL STEEL MEN

LARGER OUTPUT PLANNED

Weather Has Been Against Best Results, but Pig Iron Production Continues at High Level.

The question of adequate labor and of prices for particular products which will bring a satisfactory profit to small producers are receiving much attention in the steel and iron trade. A conference on prices is scheduled for Sept. 18 at Washington between the General Committee of steel makers and the War Industries Board, which will be preceded by various meetings between steel men.

In respect to production, reports from manufacturing centres indicate that the mill men are straining every nerve to expand the output. The weather has been somewhat against the best results, but pig iron making, the basis for all steel making, continues at a high level.

"As was expected," The Iron Age says, "August pig iron production fell below that of July. It was at a less rate also than the outputs of April, May, and June, but was higher than that of any other month since May, 1917. The total was 3,389,585 gross tons, or 109,341 tons a day, against 3,420,988 tons in July, or 110,354 tons a day—a falling off in the daily rate of about 1,000 tons.

"September opened with nine more furnaces in blast than on Aug. 1, and now that the season when enormous quantities of heated moisture are pumped into the stacks is probably over output should increase. Furnaces in blast Sept. 1 were 372, with capacity estimated at 112,390 tons a day, against 363 furnaces on Aug. 1, with daily capacity of 111,300 tons.

"The meeting of iron and steel manufacturers in New York on Aug. 28 was occupied solely with the labor question and the matter of possible price changes for the last quarter of the year was not touched. Leaders in the industry realize that even the present insufficient rate of production cannot be maintained unless special measures are taken in connection with the new draft. More important still is the maintenance of existing hours and the safeguarding of the industry for the period of the war against such restrictions of output as have commonly accompanied union control. Some of the recent Washington decisions of labor issues have evidently not taken into account the grave consequences to the war program which would result from a wide enforcement of such findings in the steel and metal-working trades."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"As the allied line moves forward in France, redoubled efforts are being made to speed up the production of war steel. The continued shifting of finishing mill operations is providing more raw steel for shell forms, ship plates, and other primary needs. Big problems of production and operation, however, remain on the horizon. The labor factor has become peculiarly important. Any limitation of the work day, it is declared, would be disastrous to maximum production and to the vigorous conduct of the war. Plans continue to be developed to impress the foundries of the country into making cast shells on a gigantic scale. For the Government 12,000,000 3-inch and 5,000,000 6-inch cast shells are wanted as quickly as possible and an equal number of similar sizes for more extended delivery for the Allies."

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Prices were reactionary at the close of an active market yesterday. Final quotations in the standard industrials and rails were close to the lowest levels of the session. In general, the market movement was irregular, recessions and rallies alternating. In the last hour stocks were in considerable supply and values dropped.

WOULD STOP STREET CARS FOR 6 HOURS

LESS SERVICE IN EVENING

Company Intends to Reduce Cars on All Lines Between 7 P. M. and Midnight Besides the Shutdown.

All surface lines in Manhattan operated by the New York Railways Company may cease running on Sept. 11 between midnight and 6 A. M. This curtailment of service, first suggested by John Candler Cobb of Boston, a Director of the company, was adopted on Tuesday by the Directorate. When the situation is examined into next Wednesday by the Public Service Commission the company may find it impossible to carry through its plan for economizing by withdrawing its cars from service during the hours when the travel is lightest and the financial returns are the smallest.

A statement as to the intention of the company was made to the commission yesterday by its general attorney, James L. Quakenbush, who explained that the sole purpose was to obtain financial improvement in the company's affairs. What the commission wants to find out is how many company lines have franchise limitations which would prevent curtailment, to hear from civic organizations and citizens who have good reasons against the scheme, and to learn how many lines would be stopped. In his statement Mr. Quackenbush said:

"The minority bondholders are continually asserting the charge of waste of the property and insisting that they intend to move for the appointment of a receiver to prevent further waste. They take the attitude that the service to be rendered is rendered at a loss, and is tantamount to confiscation."

The company, in a statement, says a considerable saving could be accomplished by eliminating entirely service on the South Ferry portion of the Sixth Avenue line and the shuttle service run in connection with the Avenue C line. It is also proposed to reduce the service on all lines from 7 o'clock in the evening until midnight.

The company says $50,000 would be saved annually by cutting out the service from midnight to 6 A. M., and that an additional $15,000 would be saved by cutting down the evening service. Mr. Quackenbush said that if the car crews released by cutting down the service were employed during the day the service would be greatly improved. It was admitted that services on all lines, with the possible exception of those operating on 145th, 116th and Eighty-sixth Streets, was inadequate and that it would require 300 more cars during the rush hours and from fifty to 150 more during the non-rush hours to make it adequate.

Figures submitted by the company show that its total current assets in 1916 were $3,409,146.84 and in 1918 were $1,537,443.38. Its total liabilities in 1916 were $92,070,259.37, and in 1918 they were $88,645,218.52. Commissioner Whitney expressed the opinion yesterday that the subway and elevated lines would supply all transportation needed from midnight until 6 A. M.

Frank Hedley, General Manager of the Interborough, testified before the commission that the subway service was showing steady improvement. The best that can be done in the Brooklyn service, he said, were thirty-three trains an hour. This is due to the restrictions of the Atlantic Avenue terminal.

OBJECTOR GETS 20 YEARS.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, L. I., Sept. 4.—Three New York draft men were dishonorably discharged from the service today and sent to prison.

Michael McNamara of 238 Twenty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, a conscientious objector, was sentenced to serve twenty years. He refused to sign his induction papers or a receipt for his mess kit and bedding. He was represented at the court martial by a member of the Bureau of Legal First Aid, whose office in New York was raided recently. McNamara's parents died in Ireland when he was 4 years old and he came to this country with Italian foster parents. He did not learn his real name until four years ago. He refused absolutely to take advantage of the concessions made to conscientious objectors in the army.

Canio Maffucci, of 638 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, who was found guilty of desertion and sent to prison for ten years, was absent from camp three months and was working as a shoemaker when arrested. The fact that he deserted ten days after his induction and was of low mentality was the reason he received half the usual sentence.

Robert William Foster, of 830 Lexington Avenue, Manhattan, the other deserter, also received ten years. He was absent from camp for two months. He was found at his home in civilian clothes. He was shown leniency, because he pleaded he had intended returning to camp.

WEST SAVED MOST 'GAS' LAST SUNDAY

NEW YORK 20TH ON LIST

Illinois and Ohio the Leaders—Greater Decrease in Use Expected Next Sunday.

From 100,000 to 150,000 barrels of gasoline were saved in the States east of the Mississippi River last Sunday by the voluntary observance by citizens of the request of the Fuel Administration that the use of motor vehicles for pleasure driving be suspended on Sundays.

Figures on the saving were compiled upon request of the Fuel Administration by employes of oil companies, and were given out yesterday by A. C. Bedford, Chairman of the National Petroleum War Service Committee, and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

States in the western part of the territory affected by the request led in the conservation of gasoline. Illinois was first, with a reduction in the use of gasoline estimated at about 95 per cent. Of the twenty-five States New York stood twentieth, with a saving estimated at about 74 per cent.

Mr. Bedford, in a statement, said:

"Patriotism cannot be reduced to terms of accounting, but statistics gathered from the territory to which the Fuel Administration addressed its plea for the suspension of pleasure riding in motor vehicles last Sunday in order to save gasoline furnish striking evidence of the unswerving and unfailing popular support to any war measure initiated at Washington.

"Generally speaking, the returns from the States east of the Mississippi, which were those affected by the request, show that the mere intimation of the Fuel Administration that pleasure riding should cease on Sunday was unhesitatingly obeyed by an overwhelming percentage of automobile owners and users.

"It is true that there was a good deal of variation in the extent of the response. In some sections patriotism as evidenced by the almost total nonuse of pleasure vehicles swept the State; in others the observance of the request was not so emphatic. In the latter instance the incomplete compliance with the Fuel Administration's request was perhaps due to the fact that the scope of the request was not comprehended or that the situation which prompted the administration's appeal was insufficiently appreciated. The general result, however, must be intensely gratifying to the department which initiated this policy of voluntary effort.

"The investigation proved that the more westerly States led in percentage of reduction, Illinois being first with 95, Ohio second with 93, and Wisconsin third with 91. It is estimated that the observance of the request over the Eastern section of the country resulted in the saving of from 100,000 to 150,000 barrels of gasoline.

"This estimate of the amount of gasoline saved is considerably below the result which is expected to be attained next Sunday, when a better understanding of what is required will make compliance with the request much more general. Many supposedly knotty points as to what constitutes a necessary use of motor cars will be solved. The question, for instance, as to whether a taxicab or sightseeing automobile is a pleasure vehicle need not be left for settlement entirely to the owners or drivers of these vehicles. The best judge of what constitutes riding for pleasure is the person who rides, and next Sunday it will be the passenger, rather than the chauffeur, who will be subject to criticism."

SPEEDER FINED $100.

Teacher Is Also Reprimanded for Gasoline Waste.

Walter S. Meyer of 255 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, a teacher in Public School 85, Brooklyn, was fined $100 for speeding his automobile on the Queensboro Bridge on Sunday by Magistrate Conway in the Long Island City Court yesterday.

"It is bad enough to be caught speeding," the Magistrate told Meyer, "but you have no excuse for disobeying the President's request to be patriotic by saving gasoline."

Meyer did not have $100 with him, and he was paroled until today. He said he was away on his vacation when the no-gasoline request was made for Sunday; that he did not understand the full import of the proclamation, and was making calls in connection with his work as private tutor to men who seek advancement in the army and navy when stopped by a motor cycle patrolman. Meyer was the only motorist on the Queensboro Bridge when he was served with a summons.

American Zionists Reach Palestine.

The Zionist organization of America received a cable yesterday announcing the arrival in Palestine of the American Zionist medical unit, which departed from this country in June last. Headquarters have been established at Tel-Aviv, with branches in Jerusalem and Jaffa. The unit consists of a general director, a medical director, 15 physicians, 15 nurses, a sanitarian, 2 mechanics, 2 pharmacists, and a dental staff, and is equipped with $40,000 worth of medical supplies and 33,000 garments.

MAIL THE GREAT DESIRE OF MEN AT THE FRONT

Congressman Siegel Finds Chocolate, Cigarettes, and Prompt Pay Also Longed For.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Sept. 4.—Among 471 passengers who arrived here today from France was Congressman Isaac Siegel of the Twentieth District of New York City. He spent five weeks in France at the American front. He said American soldiers wanted to get their mail and to be able to communicate with their folk at home more than anything else. The mail arrangements in France had improved very much recently, the Congressman said, and as an illustration he pointed to the fact that there were 6,000,000 letters on his ship from soldiers to their families in this country. Some of them were dated as late as Aug. 23. This was in addition to the ordinary French mail carried by the liner.

He also brought with him 550 slips containing addresses of families in New York and other cities which he had received from soldiers at the front, and had promised to send cards on his arrival to let the families know that their soldiers were well.

The Congressman did not know that he had been indorsed by both parties in his district, where he is to run against Morris Hillquit, the Socialist, until he arrived today.

"After my arrival in France on July 16," he said, "I devoted my time to interviewing army officers from General Pershing down in an effort to speed up the handling of the soldier mail in France both outward and inward bound. A postal regiment is being formed which will be composed of men who understand Post Office practice in the United States. It will be under command of Colonel Howe, who has been in France since March. One development will be the landing of army mails at four French ports instead of at one port as heretofore."

"The American soldiers want more cigarettes and more chocolate, a quicker settlement of the war allowance to their families and quicker payment to themselves in France. The morale of the soldiers leaves nothing to be desired and they are not kicking. When I asked if anything was wanted that was the reply: better handling of the mail, more chocolate, more cigarettes, and better arrangements in the pay department."

66 SHIPS TURNED OUT HERE DURING AUGUST

With Total of 340,145 Tons, They Exceeded All Previous Records for Monthly Production.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Delivery of merchant ships by American shipyards in August exceeded all previous records for this country, Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board was advised today by Charles M. Schwab, Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Sixty-six ships, aggregating 340,145 deadweight tons, were turned out.

Forty-four of the ships of an aggregate deadweight tonnage of 260,645 were steel and the remaining twenty-two were wooden or composite.

The August production of American yards was a world record, Shipping Board officials said, the previous monthly record of 295,911 deadweight tons having been made by British yards last June.

Completion of the sixty-six ships, it was said, will permit the return to the coastwise and South American trades of some of the fast vessels that recently were transferred to Transatlantic service to meet war demands.

August deliveries put the total tonnage built for the Shipping Board beyond the 2,000,000 mark. The first million tons was delivered in May, and the total production to Sept. 1 was 2,019,489 deadweight tons.

Increased deliveries by American yards, added to those of the allied countries, place near construction well ahead of destruction by submarines. For the first six months of this year the sinkings of allied and neutral tonnage totaled 2,089,393 gross tons, while production was 2,113,591 gross tons.

Because of its effect on the general shipping situation the British drive in Flanders is being followed with particular interest by the Shipping Board officials. Valuable French coal fields are being wrested from the Germans and it was said today that if these can be worked, much of the tonnage now engaged in carrying coal from Wales to France can be diverted to other purposes.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—British merchant shipbuilding completed and entered for service in the month of August amounted to 124,675 tons. This announcement was made by the Admiralty tonight.

MEN MUST REGISTER SEPT. 12.

Every man 18 to 45 years of age, except those already registered or in service, must register for the selective service draft on Sept. 12.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Downtown business properties held chief interest in the real estate market yesterday, deals being closed for properties on Broadway, West Broadway, and Water Street. The Bowery Savings Bank sold to a client of Brooks & Momand the four-story building at the northeast corner of West Broadway and Murray Street, on a lot 25 by 87. The corner has been held at $55,000.

Further north, the six-story building at 915 Broadway, on a lot 25 by 105, just south of Twenty-first Street, which has been owned for many years by the Chisholm estate, was sold by the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, acting for the estate, to a client of the Charles F. Noyes Company.

Ship Chandlers Buy More Space.

In order to meet the needs of increased business Baker, Carver & Morrell, ship chandlers, purchased from Daniel Birdsall, the five-story building at 51 Water Street, on a plot 30 by 85, and also bought the lease of the building from E. Eising & Co. William A. White & Sons negotiated the deal. Baker, Carver & Morrell several years ago purchased the large plot on the corner of Water Street and Coenties Slip, where they erected an eight-story building for their own use.

Adds to Dyckman Holdings.

Helen D. Ranney, owner of the apartment house at 31 Arden Street, has purchased from Frederick Brown the adjoining and similar property at 29, a five-story structure, on a plot 27 by 110, near the Dyckman Street station. Nehring Brothers and Byrne & Baumann were the brokers in the deal.

Dwelling Deals.

The Linwood Company is reported to have sold the three-story dwelling at 661 West 183d Street, on a lot 16.8 by 74.11.

Joseph P. Day sold the four-story dwelling at 143 East Twenty-seventh Street, on a lot 20 by 98.9, for Mrs. Georgia A. Grimley.

The Bronx Market.

An investor purchased from Marie Wauer 1,560 Southern Boulevard, a five-story new-law tenement with three stores, on a plot 50 by 100. J. Clarence Davies and Gersch & Co. were the brokers.

An investing client of Samuel Cowen purchased from W. Whit 534 East 184th Street, a six-story tenement, on a plot 40 by 100.

Brooklyn.

Frank A. Seaver & Co. sold to an investor for E. J. White 821 East Sixty-fifth Street, a six-family brick flat.

Long Island.

Realty Notes.

The Estates Development Company, which owns a large tract of land in the Throgs Neck section of the Bronx, on Pelham Bay, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday, giving its liabilities and assets at $2,000,000.

Byrne and Baumann negotiated the lease of the Subway Building, 181st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, to the United Cigar Stores Company.

A. J. Farnolo is the buyer of the six-story tenement, 228 Chrystie Street.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—There is a severe storm in the vicinity of Bermuda, the barometer tonight at that place reading 28.88 inches, with a wind velocity of 60 miles an hour from the northeast. There is also a storm from the southwest, central over Indiana, moving rapidly northeast, with increasing intensity, and storm warnings have been ordered for Lakes Ontario, Erie, and Southern Huron.

This storm has been accompanied by general and in many places heavy rains in the South, upper and west lower lake regions, the central valleys, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and the West Gulf States, except Southern Texas. There were also scattered showers in the East Gulf States and the South Rocky Mountain regions.

It is considerably cooler from Northern Texas northeastward into Southern Michigan and somewhat warmer in the Atlantic and plains States, the Northwest, and extreme West, although temperatures remain considerably below the seasonal average in the West, except in the Pacific States.

The Indiana storm will continue northeastward, attended by rains Thursday from North Carolina northward into the upper Ohio Valley, the lower Lake region, the middle Atlantic States, and New England, followed by generally fair weather Friday except in North Carolina and eastern New England. In the South, except as mentioned, there will be scattered showers Thursday and Friday, while in the lower Ohio Valley and the upper Lake region the weather will be generally fair.

It will be cooler Thursday in the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the east Gulf States, and cooler Friday in New England and the middle Atlantic States.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North Atlantic Coast, northwest to east, increasing Thursday, possibly reaching gale force Thursday night, with rain; Middle Atlantic Coast, increasing easterly, probably becoming strong by Thursday night, with rain, South Atlantic Coast, moderate easterly with fair weather near the coast, but probably strong and shifting at sea, with rain.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND FRIDAY.

New York—Rain Thursday; Friday fair.
Southern New England—Rain Thursday; Friday fair and cooler, except for probable rain near the eastern coast.
New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Rain Thursday; Friday fair and cooler.
Northern New England—Cloudy Thursday, rain in Vermont and New Hampshire and by night in Maine; Friday partly cloudy in Vermont and New Hampshire, rain in Maine.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	60	70	4 P. M.	71	75
6 A. M.	57	67	6 P. M.	68	74
9 A. M.	63	70	9 P. M.	64	70
12 M.	69	77	11 P. M.	61	69

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 74; for the corresponding date last year it was 64; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 70. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 69; at 8 P. M. it was 70. Maximum temperature, 80 degrees, at 2:45 P. M.; minimum, 67 degrees, at 6 A. M. Humidity, 84 per cent. at 8 A. M., 86 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.13 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.08 inches.

Education Notes.

The annual convention of members of the New Jersey Teachers' Retirement Fund will be held at the State House, Trenton, on Sept. 28. The fund has been declared insolvent. The teachers ask for adequate salaries and "a safe and sane pension system." The New Jersey school law compels teachers to give 2 or 3 per cent. of their salary toward the support of the retirement fund, solvent or insolvent.

About $500,000 is available for the New York evening public school work of this season. Evening schools during the coming term will be under the general supervision of Associate Superintendent William McAndrew and direct supervision of Morris E. Siegel, Assistant Director of Evening Schools. There will be a close connection between evening school work and related day continuation classes, as Mr. Siegel is placed in direct charge of both activities.

The evening trade schools will present this season an unusual number of new features. Women will be admitted to the trade classes under the same terms as the men if they are employed in the industry in which they desire further instruction. Special war service classes will be offered to those who expect to enter the army, as well as those in essential war occupations.

SEE ENOUGH NURSES FOR 5,000,000 ARMY

National Defense Committee Says Surgeon General's Call for 25,000 Has Been Met.

ENROLLMENT NOW 27,000

The Committee on Nursing of the Council of National Defense issued a statement yesterday saying that the hospital requirements of the American Army had been thoroughly provided for, and that there was no longer any shortage of nurses for army work in this country or abroad.

The statement of Miss M. Adelaide Nutting, Chairman of the Committee on Nursing of the Council of National Defense, says:

"The nursing situation, far from being serious, is very good indeed. No other country in the world has ever been so well equipped to send immediately into the field an ample body of thoroughly trained nurses. A survey of the country's nursing strength shows an available reserve of about 100,000 graduate nurses. From this figure allowance is made for a depreciation of 25 per cent. on account of age, marriage, disability, and other causes. In addition, however, from the civil hospital training schools of the country about 14,000 nurses were graduated this year, and the yearly increment may be expected to be greater as long as the war lasts.

"In response to Surgeon General Gorgas's appeal for 25,000 graduate nurses by next January, nearly 27,000 are already enrolled by the Red Cross, and of these 16,000 are actually in military service. Everybody knows that there are hundreds of these women waiting sometimes for weeks at ports of embarkation. Just as fast as hospitals are established for the newly arriving troops in France and accommodations can be provided the nurses are being sent over. Meanwhile our nurses are ahead of schedule.

"The answer to the question of meeting the conditions created by the greatly enlarged army that the United States will put into the field next year is the Army School of Nursing, established by the Surgeon General with headquarters in Washington and training branches in twenty-two of the military camps throughout the country. This plan, suggested and worked out by Miss Anne M. Goodrich, chief inspector of army nurses and now dean of the school, has already proved successful.

"The appeal for high school and college graduates between the ages of 21 and 35 to take the prescribed course of three years has resulted since June in more than 17,000 responses. Of them, 4,000 candidates have formally applied for admission and at the end of last week more than 1,000 had been actually enrolled. By the end of this week, 'training units' of from thirty to forty students each will be sent to Camps Wheeler, Jackson, Sherman, Dodge, Shelby, Wadsworth, Devens, Grant and Dix, and the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. In the five last named places, some students already have been on duty for several weeks. Additional training units will be assigned within the next few weeks to Camps Meade, Upton, Custer, Green, Fort Sam Houston, MacArthur, Lee, Lewis, and Kearny. If it proves necessary quickly to augment the force of graduate nurses in service abroad, the plan is to send these students over at a suitable stage of their training. They would thus be completing their studies while serving at the front.

"The need at the front is for highly trained nurses. In fact, it is because of their thorough scientific training that the American nurses hahve proved so valuable to our allies.

"If, however, the military situation develops a very much greater need for nurses, the problem will be met by the Army School, from which by that time there will be available large numbers of students whose training has reached a point where they will be able to perform adequate service in the base and field hospitals while continuing their training."

INFLUENZA KILLS TWO ON LINER FROM EUROPE

Ship Detained Seven Hours and 16 Patients to be Sent to Hospitals for Observation.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Sept. 4.—A liner, which arrived today, was detained for seven hours by the Health Officers on account of an outbreak of Spanish influenza after the vessel left France on Aug. 24, which caused the death of two Italian passengers in the steerage who were buried at sea on Monday. There were twenty-five cases in all, the Captain said, and sixteen patients were in the hospitals on the after deck when the liner reached her pier late this afternoon. They will remain on board for the night and be taken tomorrow in ambulances to a local hospital for observation.

Claude Almyr Wales of the Locomobile Company of Bridgeport, Conn., who was the only cabin passenger attacked by the epidemic on the voyage, said:

"I have had the old fashioned grip and tropical fever, but nothing that hit me quite so hard as the new Spanish influenza. It gives its victims a bad headache and a worse grouch." Mr. Wales had recovered his health sufficiently to walk down the gangway to the pier without help.

The Captain of the ship, said there were a number of cases among the longshoremen and others along the waterfront at the French port whence the vessel sailed, but in his opinion the Spanish influenza was brought on board by the two Italian passengers. It developed into pneumonia, which caused their death.

SALVATION CHIEF ARRIVES.

Commissioner David Lamb, Chief International Secretary of the Salvation Army in fifty-three countries and a member of the British Government committee to consider questions arising after the war, arrived at an Atlantic seaport yesterday morning. He comes to America as the official representative of General Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army of the world. The object of his mission is to advance the work of the organization among the troops of the Allies of Europe. When Commissioner Lamb arrived in France from England he learned that one of his sons, Lieutenant Patrick Lamb of the Royal Garrison Artillery, had been killed, and that his youngest son had been wounded and gassed in the fighting around Rheims.

Commissioner Lamb said that at the present time nearly 100,000 Salvationists were in the ranks facing the Germans, besides the trained women war workers, who administer relief along the lines of the Allies.

PRAISES AMERICA'S TROOPS.

Lieut. Col. the Rev. Dr. Johnston of Montreal is in the city, having just returned from an extended visit to the various fronts in France and Italy, as well as to the great centres of war activity in Britain and to the fleet. Asked concerning his impressions he said: "Without comparison the most impressive thing I have seen between the Adriatic and the Firth of Forth is Britain herself. Quietly and without parade, but with a confident and determined spirit, Britain is giving herself without stint and with unmeasured sacrifice to this struggle. From peasant to Parliament the nation is one in its resolve to carry this great adventure to victory, whatever the cost. Her women are beyond praise."

Of the American troops and their part in the campaign Colonel Johnston said: "Nothing could surpass the spirit of cordial fellowship that exists between the American troops and those of the other allies. Whether in Britain or in France nothing is too good for them. One of the finest things about this American invasion of help is the spirit in which it is carried forward. Those who expected anything approaching a spirit of braggadocio to characterize the American troops have been disappointed. They carry themselves in a spirit of hearty good-fellowship and co-operation that has opened the way to a comradeship that promises the best of results both now and in coming years. Not a few British officers spoke to me of this spirit of the American troops."

Wants Excursion Boats Inspected.

Mayor Hylan sent a letter yesterday to the United States Local Steamboat Inspection Board calling attention to the need for proper inspection of excursion boats operating in New York waters. The Mayor said it had been brought to his attention that in many instances such boats were without proper safety appliances, and that the boats were being crowded beyond capacity. He asked that a thorough inspection be made of all excursion boats.

You're glad to do the right thing, when you know what it is; we all feel the same way. You are told that it's important that business shall go on; also that unnecessary consumption takes labor and material from war work. What's the patriotic thing to do?

YOU as a wearer of clothes, and we as makers ought to save on clothes in every way possible. The less you consume the more labor and material are left for our fighting forces

That's why we urge men not to buy clothes, if they have enough; some have plenty

That's why we say, "take care of your clothes; make them last longer"

That's why we say, "if you feel that you must have new clothes, get good clothes" American money should be spent for goods that save by lasting service

Real economy in clothes is measured by the number of days' service given for each dollar of cost; buy on that basis
